Where's My Refund?

You can check the status of your federal income tax refund using IRS2Go. Simply enter your Social Security number, then select your filing status and enter the amount of your anticipated refund from your 2014 tax return. A status tracker allows you to see where your tax return is in the process. If you filed your return electronically, you can check your refund status 24 hours after the IRS accepts your return. If you file a paper tax return, you will need to wait about four weeks to check your refund status.

Use the VITA/TCE Locator

The IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance and the Tax Counseling for the Elderly Programs offer free tax help for people who qualify. You can use this function to find a VITA site near your home or office. Simply enter your ZIP code and select a mileage range. For added convenience, you can tap the directions button within the results and the maps or GPS application on your mobile device will load the address, making it easy to navigate to the site you've selected.
