You must renew your Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN) to file your U.S. tax return

According to our records, the ITIN for you or someone listed on your tax return is set to expire on January 1, 2017. Unless you take action, you will not be able to use this ITIN to file your tax returns in the future.

Which ITINs are expiring: An ITIN will expire on January 1, 2017 if the middle digit number is 78 or 79 (for example 9NN-78-NNNN). If you or someone listed on your tax return has an ITIN with middle numbers 78 or 79, you must take action to renew the ITIN.

Caution: Information included in this letter is applicable to the recipient only. All others should visit www.irs.gov/ITIN for information on ITINs applicable to their situation.

Who needs to renew an ITIN?

- You need to renew the ITIN if you will file a U.S. tax return listing an ITIN with a middle digit of 78 or 79 (for yourself, your spouse, or any dependent).

Who does not need to renew an ITIN?

You don't need to renew the ITIN if:

- You will not be using the ITIN with a middle digit of 78 or 79 (for yourself, your spouse, or any dependent) on a U.S. tax return.
- The ITINs are only used on information returns filed with the IRS by third parties. However, in the future, if you use the ITIN to file a U.S. tax return (including for a dependent), you will need to renew the ITIN at that time.
- The owner of the ITIN with the middle digits of 78 or 79 became a U.S. citizen or legal resident alien and has a social security number (SSN). You don't need to renew your ITIN; however, you do need to provide your SSN and previous ITIN to the contact number listed above.

What you need to do to renew an ITIN:

- Submit a Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number. Please refer to the Form W-7 instructions for guidance at www.irs.gov/W7 or call 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). The most current version of the form will be available September 2016. Please include a copy of this letter with the application.
- We'll accept renewal applications beginning October 1, 2016. We'll return your identification documents within 60 days. Send your renewal application to us early to avoid delays in processing your next tax return.
- You don't need to attach a tax return to your Form W-7 renewal application if you submit the application before you're ready to file your return.

If we don't hear from youYour ITIN will expire as of January 1, 2017.

- If you don't renew the ITIN and file a U.S. tax return with the ITIN, there may be a delay in processing your tax return.
