Future Developments

For the latest information about developments related to 2022 Form 8606 and its instructions, such as legislation enacted after they were published, go to IRS.gov/Form8606.

What's New

Form 8915-F. Form 8915-F, Qualified Disaster Retirement Plan Distributions and Repayments, is mentioned on 2022 Form 8606 and in these instructions as a proactive measure only. Qualified disaster distribution amounts from Part I (and qualified distribution amounts from Part IV) of 2022 Form(s) 8915-F are relevant to the calculations on Form 8606, lines 6, 7, 15b, 19, and 25b. However, 2022 Form 8915-F filers will be leaving those parts blank. Qualified disaster distributions can't be made and qualified distributions can't be received in 2022.

When these instructions went to print, Congress was considering legislation that would have allowed taxpayers to claim qualified disaster distribution amounts on Part I (and qualified distribution amounts on Part IV) of 2022 Form(s) 8915-F. That legislation, if enacted, could affect your computations on Form 8606. To see if the legislation was enacted so that you can reference those amounts in your 2022 Form 8606 calculations, see IRS.gov/Form8606.

Coronavirus-related distributions.

Coronavirus-related distributions don't appear on 2022 Form 8606 and aren't mentioned in these instructions, as they can't be made after December 30, 2020.

Modified AGI limit for Roth IRA

contributions increased. You can contribute to a Roth IRA for 2022 only if your 2022 modified adjusted gross income (AGI) for Roth IRA purposes is less than:

- $214,000 if married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er);
- $144,000 if single, head of household, or married filing separately and you didn't live with your spouse at any time in 2022; or

- $10,000 if married filing separately and you lived with your spouse at any time in 2022. See Roth IRAs, later.

Due date for contributions. The due date for making contributions for 2022 to your IRA for most people is Tuesday, April 18, 2023.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8606 to report:

- Nondeductible contributions you made to traditional IRAs;
- Distributions from traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs, if you have a basis in these IRAs;
- Conversions from traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to Roth
- IRAs; and
- Distributions from Roth IRAs.

Additional information. For more details on IRAs, see Pub.

590-A, Contributions to Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs); and Pub. 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

If you received distributions from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA in 2022 and you have never made nondeductible contributions (including nontaxable amounts you rolled over from a qualified retirement plan) to these IRAs, don't report the distributions on 2022 Form 8606. Instead, see Lines 4a and 4b in the 2022 Instructions for Form 1040 or the 2022 Instructions for Form 1040-NR. Also, to find out if any of your contributions to traditional IRAs are deductible, see the instructions for Schedule 1 in the Instructions for Form 1040.

Who Must File

File Form 8606 if any of the following apply.

- You made nondeductible contributions to a traditional IRA for 2022, including a repayment of a qualified disaster or reservist distribution.

- You received distributions from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA in 2022 and your basis in these IRAs is more than zero. For this purpose, a distribution doesn't include a distribution that is rolled over (other than a repayment of a qualified disaster distribution (see 2022 Form 8915-F)), qualified charitable distribution, one-time distribution to fund an HSA, conversion, recharacterization, or return of certain contributions.
- You or your spouse transferred all or part of their traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA in 2022 to the other spouse under a divorce or separation agreement where the transfer resulted in a change in the basis of the IRA of either spouse.

- You converted an amount from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to a Roth IRA in 2022.
- You received distributions from a Roth IRA in 2022 (other than a rollover, recharacterization, or return of certain contributions—see the instructions for Part III, later).
- You received a distribution from an inherited traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA that has a basis, or you received a distribution from an inherited Roth IRA that wasn't a qualified distribution. You may need to file more than one Form 8606. See IRA with basis under What if You Inherit an IRA? in Pub. 590-B for more information.

Note. If you recharacterized a 2022 Roth IRA contribution as a traditional IRA contribution, or vice versa, treat the contribution as having been made to the second IRA, not the first IRA. See Recharacterizations, later.

You don't have to file Form 8606 solely to report regular contributions to Roth IRAs. But see What Records Must I Keep, later.

When and Where To File

File 2022 Form 8606 with your 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR by the due date, including extensions, of your return.

If you aren't required to file an income tax return but are required to file Form 8606, sign Form 8606 and send it to the IRS at the same time and place you would otherwise file Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR. Be sure to include your address on page 1 of the form and your signature and the date on page 2 of the form.

Deemed IRAs

A qualified employer plan (retirement plan) can maintain a separate account or annuity under the plan (a deemed IRA) to receive voluntary employee contributions. If in 2022 you had a deemed IRA, use the rules for either a traditional IRA or a Roth IRA depending on which type it was. See Pub. 590-A for more details.

Traditional IRAs

For purposes of Form 8606, a traditional IRA is an individual retirement account or an individual retirement annuity other than a SEP, SIMPLE, or Roth IRA.

Contributions. An overall contribution limit applies to traditional IRAs and Roth IRAs. See Overall Contribution Limit for Traditional and Roth IRAs, later. Contributions to a traditional IRA may be fully deductible, partially deductible, or completely nondeductible.

Basis. Your basis in traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs is the total of all your nondeductible contributions and nontaxable amounts included in rollovers made to these IRAs minus the total of all your nontaxable distributions, adjusted if necessary (see the instructions for line 2, later).

Keep track of your basis to figure the nontaxable part of your future distributions.

SEP IRAs

A simplified employee pension (SEP) is an employer-sponsored plan under which an employer can make contributions to traditional IRAs for its employees. If you make contributions to that IRA (excluding employer contributions you make if you are self-employed), they are treated as contributions to a traditional IRA and may be deductible or nondeductible. SEP IRA distributions are reported in the same manner as traditional IRA distributions.

SIMPLE IRAs

A SIMPLE IRA plan is a tax-favored retirement plan that certain small employers (including self-employed individuals) can set up for the benefit of their employees. Your participation in your employer's SIMPLE IRA plan doesn't prevent you from making contributions to a traditional or Roth IRA. SIMPLE IRA plans are also known as Savings Incentive Match Plans for Employees.

Roth IRAs

A Roth IRA is similar to a traditional IRA, but has the following features.

- Contributions are never deductible.
- No minimum distributions are required during the Roth IRA owner's lifetime.

- Qualified distributions aren't includible in income.

Qualified distribution. Generally, a qualified distribution is any distribution from your Roth IRA that meets the following requirements.

1. It is made after the 5-year period beginning with the first year for which a contribution was made to a Roth IRA (including a conversion or a rollover from a qualified retirement plan) set up for your benefit.
2. The distribution is made:
  - a. On or after the date you reach age 59<sup>1/2</sup>,
  - b. After your death,
  - c. Due to your disability, or
  - d. For qualified first-time homebuyer expenses.

Contributions. You can contribute to a Roth IRA for 2022 only if your 2022 modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes is less than:

- $214,000 if married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er);
- $144,000 if single, head of household, or married filing separately and you didn't live with your spouse at any time in
- 2022; or
- $10,000 if married filing separately and you lived with your spouse at any time in 2022.

Use the Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet to figure the maximum amount you can contribute to a Roth IRA for 2022. If you are married filing jointly, complete the worksheet separately for you and your spouse.

If you contributed too much to your Roth IRA, see Recharacterizations, later.

Modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes. First, figure your AGI (2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 11). Then, refigure it by:

1. Subtracting:
  - a. Roth IRA conversions included on Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4b; and
  - b. Roth IRA rollovers from qualified retirement plans included on Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 5b; and
2. Adding:
  - a. IRA deduction from Schedule 1 (Form 1040), line 20;
  - b. Student loan interest deduction from Schedule 1 (Form 1040), line 21;
  - c. Reserved for future use;

- d. Exclusion of interest from Form 8815, Exclusion of Interest From Series EE and I U.S. Savings Bonds Issued After 1989;
- e. Exclusion of employer-provided adoption benefits from Form 8839, Qualified Adoption Expenses;
- f. Foreign earned income exclusion from Form 2555, Foreign Earned Income; and
- g. Foreign housing exclusion or deduction from Form 2555.

When figuring modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes, you may have to refigure items based on modified AGI, such as taxable social security benefits and passive activity losses allowed under the special allowance for rental real estate activities. See Can You Contribute to a Roth IRA? in Pub. 590-A for details.

Distributions. See the instructions for Part III, later.

Overall Contribution Limit for Traditional and Roth IRAs

If you aren't married filing jointly, your limit on contributions to traditional and Roth IRAs is generally the smaller of $6,000 ($7,000 if age 50 or older at the end of 2022) or your taxable compensation (defined below).

If you are married filing jointly, your contribution limit is generally $6,000 ($7,000 if age 50 or older at the end of 2022) and your spouse's contribution limit is $6,000 ($7,000 if age 50 or older at the end of 2022) as well. But if the combined taxable compensation of both you and your spouse is less than $12,000 ($13,000 if one spouse is age 50 or older at the end of 2022; $14,000 if both spouses are age 50 or older at the end of 2022), see Kay Bailey Hutchison Spousal IRA Limit in Pub. 590-A for special rules.

Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet

Keep for Your Records

Caution: If married filing jointly and the combined taxable compensation (defined below) for you and your spouse is less than $12,000 ($13,000 if one spouse is age 50 or older at the end of 2022; $14,000 if both spouses are age 50 or older at the end of 2022), don't use this worksheet. Instead, see Pub. 590-A for special rules.

This limit doesn't apply to employer contributions to a SEP or SIMPLE IRA.

Note. Rollovers, Roth IRA conversions, Roth IRA rollovers from qualified retirement plans, and repayments of qualified disaster distributions and qualified reservist distributions don't affect your contribution limit.

The amount you can contribute to a Roth IRA may also be limited by your modified AGI (see Contributions, earlier, and the Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet).

Difficulty of care payments. For contributions for 2022, you may elect to increase the nondeductible IRA contribution limit by some or all of the amount of difficulty of care payments, which are a type of qualified foster care payment, received. For details, see 2022 Pub. 590-A.

Taxable compensation. Taxable compensation includes the following.

- Wages, salaries, tips, etc. If you received a distribution from a nonqualified deferred compensation plan or nongovernmental section 457 plan that is included in box 1 of Form W-2 or in box 1 of Form 1099-NEC, don't include that distribution in taxable compensation. The distribution should be shown in (a) box 11 of Form W-2, (b) box 12 of Form W-2 with code Z, or (c) box 14 of Form 1099-MISC. If it isn't, contact your employer for the amount of the distribution.
- Nontaxable combat pay if you were a member of the U.S. Armed Forces.
- Self-employment income. If you are self-employed (a sole proprietor or a partner), taxable compensation is your net earnings from your trade or business (provided your personal services are a material income-producing factor) reduced by your deduction for contributions made on your behalf to retirement plans and the deductible part of your self-employment tax.

- Alimony and separate maintenance pursuant to a divorce or separation agreement entered into before January 1, 2019, unless that agreement was changed after December 31, 2018, to expressly provide that alimony received isn't included in the recipient's income.
- Certain non-tuition fellowship and stipend payments. For details, see Pub. 590-A.

See What Is Compensation? under Who Can Open a Traditional IRA? in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-A for details.

Recharacterizations

Generally, you can recharacterize (correct) an IRA contribution by making a trustee-to-trustee transfer from one IRA to another type of IRA. Trustee-to-trustee transfers are made directly between financial institutions or within the same financial institution. You must generally make the transfer by the due date of your return (including extensions) and reflect it on your return. However, if you timely filed your return without making the transfer, you can make the transfer within 6 months of the due date of your return, excluding extensions. If necessary, file an amended return reflecting the transfer (see Amending Form 8606, later). Enter "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return.

No recharacterizations of conversions made in 2018 or later. A conversion of a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA, and a rollover from any other eligible retirement plan to a Roth IRA, made in tax years beginning after December 31, 2017, cannot be recharacterized as having been made to a traditional IRA.

Reporting recharacterizations. Treat any recharacterized IRA contribution as though the amount of the contribution was originally contributed to the second IRA, not the first IRA. For the recharacterization, you must transfer the amount of the original contribution plus any related earnings or less any related loss. In most cases, your IRA trustee or custodian figures the amount of the related earnings you must transfer. If you need to figure the related earnings, see How Do You Recharacterize a Contribution? in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-A. Treat any earnings or loss that occurred in the first IRA as having occurred in the second IRA. You can't deduct any loss that occurred while the funds were in the first IRA. Also, you can't take a deduction for a contribution to a traditional IRA if you later recharacterize the amount. The following discussion explains how to report the two different types of recharacterizations, including the statement that you must attach to your return explaining the recharacterization.

1. You made a contribution to a traditional IRA and later recharacterized part or all of it in a trustee-to-trustee transfer to a Roth IRA. If you recharacterized only part of the contribution, report the nondeductible traditional IRA portion of the remaining contribution, if any, on Form 8606, Part I. If you recharacterized the entire contribution, don't report the contribution on Form 8606. In either case, attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. If the recharacterization occurred in 2022, include the amount transferred from the traditional IRA on 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a. If the recharacterization occurred in 2023, report the amount transferred only in the attached statement, and not on your 2022 or 2023 tax return. See Example next.

Example. You are single, covered by an employer retirement plan, and you contributed $4,000 to a new traditional IRA on May 27, 2022. On February 24, 2023, you determine that your 2022 modified AGI will limit your traditional IRA deduction to $1,000. The value of your traditional IRA on that date is $4,400. On the same date, you recharacterize $3,000 of the traditional IRA contribution as a Roth IRA contribution, and have $3,300 ($3,000 contribution plus $300 related earnings) transferred from your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer. You deduct the $1,000 traditional IRA contribution on your 2022

Form 1040. You don't file a 2022 Form 8606. You attach a statement to your 2022 return explaining the recharacterization. The statement indicates that you contributed $4,000 to a traditional IRA on May 27, 2022; recharacterized $3,000 of that contribution on February 24, 2023, by transferring $3,000 plus $300 of related earnings from your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer; and deducted the remaining traditional IRA contribution of $1,000 on your 2022 Form 1040. You don't report the $3,300 distribution from your traditional IRA on your 2022 Form 1040 because the distribution occurred in 2023. You don't report the distribution on your 2023 Form 1040 because the recharacterization related to 2022 and was explained in an attachment to your 2022 return.

2. You made a contribution to a Roth IRA and later recharacterized part or all of it in a trustee-to-trustee transfer to a traditional IRA. Report the nondeductible traditional IRA portion of the recharacterized contribution, if any, on Form 8606, Part I. Don't report the Roth IRA contribution (whether or not you recharacterized all or part of it) on Form 8606. Attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. If the recharacterization occurred in 2022, include the amount transferred from the Roth IRA on your 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a. If the recharacterization occurred in 2023, report the amount transferred only in the attached statement, and not on your 2022 or 2023 tax return. See Example next.

Example. You are single, covered by an employer retirement plan, and you contributed $4,000 to a new Roth IRA on June 16, 2022. On December 29, 2022, you determine that your 2022 modified AGI will allow a full traditional IRA deduction. On that same date, you recharacterize the Roth IRA contribution as a traditional IRA contribution and have $4,200, the balance in the Roth IRA account ($4,000 contribution plus $200 related earnings), transferred from your Roth IRA to a traditional IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer. You deduct the $4,000 traditional IRA contribution on your 2022 Form 1040. You don't file a Form 8606. You attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. The statement indicates that you contributed $4,000 to a new Roth IRA on June 16, 2022; recharacterized that contribution on December 29, 2022, by transferring $4,200, the balance in the Roth IRA, to a traditional IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer; and deducted the traditional IRA contribution of $4,000 on your 2022 Form 1040. You include the $4,200 distribution from your Roth IRA on your 2022 Form 1040, line 4a.

Return of IRA Contributions

If, in 2022, you made traditional IRA contributions or Roth IRA contributions for 2022 and you had those contributions returned to you with any related earnings (or minus any loss) by the due date (including extensions) of your 2022 tax return, the returned contributions are treated as if they were never contributed. Don't report the contribution or distribution on Form 8606 or take a deduction for the contribution.

However, you must include the amount of the distribution of the returned contributions you made in 2022 and any related earnings on your 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a. Also include the related earnings on your 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4b. Attach a statement explaining the distribution. Also, if you were under age 59<sup>1/2</sup> at the time of a distribution with related earnings, you are generally subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions (see Form 5329, Additional Taxes on Qualified Plans (Including IRAs) and Other Tax-Favored Accounts, and its instructions).

If you timely filed your 2022 tax return without withdrawing a contribution that you made in 2022, you can still have the contribution returned to you within 6 months of the due date of your 2022 tax return, excluding extensions. If you do, file an amended return for your 2022 tax year with “Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2” entered at the top. Report any related earnings on the amended return and include an explanation of the withdrawn contribution. Make any other necessary changes on the amended return (for example, if you reported the contributions as excess contributions on your original return, include an amended Form 5329 reflecting that the withdrawn contributions are no longer treated as having been contributed).

In most cases, the related earnings that you must withdraw are figured by your IRA trustee or custodian. If you need to figure the related earnings on IRA contributions that were returned to you, see Contributions Returned Before Due Date of Return in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-A. If you made a contribution or distribution while the IRA held the returned contribution, see Pub. 590-A.

If you made a contribution for 2021 and you had it returned to you in 2022 as described above, don't report the distribution on your 2022 tax return. Instead, report it on your 2021 original or amended return in the manner described above.

Example. On May 23, 2022, you contributed $4,000 to your traditional IRA that has a basis. The value of the IRA was $18,000 prior to the contribution. On December 29, 2022, when you are age 57 and the value of the IRA is $23,600, you realize you can't make the entire contribution because your taxable compensation for the year will be too small. You decide to have $1,000 of the contribution returned to you and withdraw $1,073 from your IRA ($1,000 contribution plus $73 earnings). You didn't make any other withdrawals or contributions. You don't file a 2022 Form 8606. You deduct the $3,000 remaining contribution on your 2022 Schedule 1 (Form 1040), line 20. You include $1,073 on your 2022 Form 1040, line 4a, and $73 on line 4b. You attach a statement to your tax return explaining the distribution. Because you properly removed the excess contribution with the related earnings by the due date of your tax return, you aren't subject to the additional 6% tax on excess contributions, reported on Form 5329. However, because you were under age 59<sup>1/2</sup> at the time of the distribution, the $73 of earnings is subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions. You include $7.30 on Schedule 2 (Form 1040), line 8.

Return of Excess Traditional IRA Contributions

The return (distribution) in 2022 of excess traditional IRA contributions for years prior to 2022 isn't taxable if all three of the following apply.

1. The distribution was made after the due date, including extensions, of your tax return for the year for which the contribution was made (if the distribution was made earlier, see Return of IRA Contributions, earlier).
2. No deduction was allowable (without regard to the modified AGI limitation) or taken for the excess contributions.
3. The total contributions (excluding rollovers) to your traditional and SEP IRAs for the year for which the excess contributions were made didn't exceed the amounts shown in the following table.

Year(s)	Contribution limit	Contribution limit if age 50 or older at the end of the year
2019 through 2021	$6,000	$7,000
2013 through 2018	$5,500	$6,500
2008 through 2012	$5,000	$6,000
2006 or 2007	$4,000	$5,000
2005	$4,000	$4,500

2002 through 2004	$3,000	$3,500
1997 through 2001	$2,000	—
before 1997	$2,250	—

If the excess contribution to your traditional IRA for the year included a rollover and the excess occurred because the information the plan was required to give you was incorrect, increase the contribution limit amount for the year shown in the table above by the amount of the excess that is due to the incorrect information.

If the total contributions for the year included employer contributions to a SEP IRA, increase the contribution limit amount for the year shown in the table above by the smaller of the amount of the employer contributions or:

2021	$58,000
2020	$57,000
2019	$56,000
2018	$55,000
2017	$54,000
2015 or 2016	$53,000
2014	$52,000
2013	$51,000
2012	$50,000

2009, 2010, or 2011	$49,000
2008	$46,000
2007	$45,000
2006	$44,000
2005	$42,000
2004	$41,000
2002 or 2003	$40,000
2001	$35,000
before 2001	$30,000

Include the total amount distributed on 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a; and attach a statement to your return explaining the distribution. See Example, later.

If you meet these conditions and are otherwise required to file Form 8606:

- Don't take into account the amount of the withdrawn contributions in figuring line 2 (for 2022 or for any later year), and
- Don't include the amount of the withdrawn contributions on line 7.

Example. You are single, you retired in 2019, and you had no taxable compensation after 2019. However, you made traditional IRA contributions (that you didn't deduct) of $3,000 in 2020 and $4,000 in 2021. In December 2022, a tax practitioner informed you that you had made excess contributions for those years because you had no taxable compensation. In December 2022, you withdrew the $7,000 and filed amended returns for 2020 and 2021 reflecting the additional 6% tax on excess contributions on Form 5329. You include the $7,000 distribution on your 2022 Form 1040, line 4a; enter -0- on line 4b; and attach a statement to your return explaining the distribution, including the fact that you filed amended returns for 2020 and 2021, and paid the additional 6% tax on the excess contributions for those years. The statement indicates that the distribution isn't taxable because (a) it was made after the due dates of your 2020 and 2021 tax returns, including extensions; (b) your total IRA contributions for 2020 and for 2021 didn't exceed $6,000 ($7,000 if age 50 or older at the end of that year); and (c) you didn't take a deduction for the contributions, and no deduction was allowable because you didn't have any taxable compensation for those years. The statement also indicates that the distribution reduced your excess contributions to -0-, as reflected on your amended 2020 and 2021 Forms 5329. Don't file a 2022 Form 8606. If you are required to file Form 8606 in a year after 2022, don't include the $7,000 you withdrew in 2022 on line 2.

Amending Form 8606

Generally, after you file your return, you can change a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA to a deductible contribution or vice versa if you make the change within the time limit for filing Form 1040-X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return (see When To File in the Form 1040-X instructions). You may also be able to make a recharacterization (discussed earlier). If necessary, complete a new Form 8606 showing the revised information and file it with Form 1040-X.

Penalty for Not Filing

If you are required to file Form 8606 to report a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA for 2022, but don't do so, you must pay a $50 penalty, unless you can show reasonable cause.

Overstatement Penalty

If you overstate your nondeductible contributions, you must pay a $100 penalty, unless you can show reasonable cause.

What Records Must I Keep?

To verify the nontaxable part of distributions from your IRAs, including Roth IRAs, keep a copy of the following forms and records until all distributions are made.

- Page 1 of Forms 1040 or 1040-SR (or Forms 1040A, 1040-NR, or 1040-T) filed for each year you made a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA.
- Forms 8606 and any supporting statements, attachments, and worksheets for all applicable years.
- Forms 5498, IRA Contribution Information, or similar statements you received each year showing contributions you made to a traditional IRA or Roth IRA.

- Forms 5498 or similar statements you received showing the value of your traditional IRAs for each year you received a distribution.
- Forms 1099-R or W-2P you received for each year you received a distribution.

Note. Forms 1040-T, 1040A, and W-2P are forms that were used in prior years.

Specific Instructions

Name and social security number (SSN).

If you file a joint return, enter only the name and SSN of the spouse whose information is being reported on Form 8606.

More than one Form 8606 required. If both you and your spouse are required to file Form 8606, file a separate Form 8606 for each of you. If you are required to file Form 8606 for IRAs inherited from more than one decedent, file a separate Form 8606 for the IRA from each decedent.

Part I—Nondeductible Contributions to Traditional IRAs and Distributions From Traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs

Line 1

If you used the IRA Deduction Worksheet in the Form 1040 instructions or as referred to in the Form 1040-NR instructions, subtract line 12 of the worksheet (or the amount you chose to deduct on Schedule 1 (Form 1040), line 20, if less) from the smaller of line 10 or line 11 of the worksheet. Enter the result on line 1 of Form 8606. You can't deduct the amount included on line 1.

If you used the worksheet Figuring Your Reduced IRA Deduction for 2022 in Pub. 590-A, enter on line 1 of Form 8606 any nondeductible contributions from the appropriate lines of that worksheet.

If you didn't have any deductible contributions, you can make nondeductible contributions up to your contribution limit (see Overall Contribution Limit for Traditional and Roth IRAs, earlier). Enter on line 1 of Form 8606 your nondeductible contributions.

Include on line 1 any repayment of a qualified reservist distribution.

Don't include on line 1 contributions that you had returned to you with the related earnings (or less any loss). See Return of IRA Contributions, earlier.

Line 2

Generally, if this is the first year you are required to file Form 8606, enter -0-.

Otherwise, use the Total Basis Chart to find the amount to enter on line 2.

However, you may need to enter an amount that is more than -0- (even if this is the first year you are required to file Form 8606) or increase or decrease the amount from the chart if your basis changed because of any of the following.

- You had a return of excess traditional IRA contributions (see Return of Excess Traditional IRA Contributions, earlier).
- Incident to divorce, you transferred or received part or all of a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA (see the last bulleted item under Line 7, later).
- You rolled over any nontaxable portion of your qualified retirement plan to a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA that wasn't previously reported on Form 8606, line 2. Include the nontaxable portion on line 2.

Line 4

If you made contributions to traditional IRAs for 2022 in 2022 and 2023 and you have both deductible and nondeductible contributions, you can choose to treat the contributions made in 2022 first as nondeductible contributions and then as deductible contributions, or vice versa.

Example. You made contributions for 2022 of $2,000 in May 2022 and $2,000 in January 2023, of which $3,000 are deductible and $1,000 are nondeductible. You choose $1,000 of your contribution in 2022 to be nondeductible. You enter the $1,000 on line 1, but not line 4, and it becomes part of your basis for 2022.

Although the contributions to traditional IRAs for 2022 that you made from January 1, 2023, through April 18, 2023, can be treated as nondeductible, they aren't included in figuring the nontaxable part of any distributions you received in 2022.

Line 6

Enter the total value of all your traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs as of December 31, 2022, plus any outstanding rollovers. A statement should be sent to you by January 31, 2023, showing the value of each IRA on December 31, 2022. However, if you recharacterized any amounts originally contributed, enter on line 6 the total value, taking into account all recharacterizations of those amounts, including recharacterizations made after December 31, 2022.

For purposes of line 6, a rollover is a tax-free distribution from one traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA that is contributed to another traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA. The rollover must be completed within 60 days after receiving the distribution from the first IRA. An outstanding rollover is generally the amount of any distribution received in 2022 after November 1, 2022, that was rolled over in 2023, but within the 60-day rollover period. A rollover between a SIMPLE IRA and a qualified retirement plan or an IRA (other than a SIMPLE IRA) can only take place after your first 2 years of participation in the SIMPLE IRA. See Pub. 590-A for more details.

Pursuant to Rev. Proc. 2020-46 in Internal Revenue Bulletin 2020-45, available at IRS.gov/irb/2020-45\_IRB#REVPROC-2020-46, you may make a written certification to a plan administrator or an IRA trustee that you missed the 60-day rollover contribution deadline because of one or more of the 12 reasons listed in Rev. Proc. 2020-46. See Rev. Proc. 2020-46 for information on how to self-certify for a waiver. Also see Time Limit for Making a Rollover Contribution under Can You Move Retirement Plan Assets? in Pub. 590-A for more information on ways to get a waiver of the 60-day rollover requirement.

Note. Don't include an outstanding rollover from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to a qualified retirement plan.

Include, on line 6, qualified distributions from Part IV of your 2022 Form 8915-F, if any, you repaid in 2022 no later than the deadline for repayment.

Repayments in 2022 of Qualified Disaster Distributions

Do not reduce line 6 by qualified disaster distribution repayments that were made in 2022 for qualified disaster distributions made in years before 2022.

The amount you would otherwise enter on line 6 should be reduced by the total amount of qualified disaster distribution repayments that were made in 2022 for qualified disaster distributions made in 2022. If the result is zero or less, enter -0-.

Total Basis Chart

IF the last Form 8606 you filed was for . . .	THEN enter on line 2 . . .
a year after 2000 and before 2022	the amount from line 14 of that Form 8606.
a year after 1992 and before 2001	the amount from line 12 of that Form 8606.
a year after 1988 and before 1993	the amount from line 14 of that Form 8606.
1988	the total of the amounts on lines 7 and 16 of that Form 8606.

1987	the total of the amounts on lines 4 and 13 of that Form 8606.

Example. You received a $30,000 qualified disaster distribution on May 2, 2022, from your traditional IRA. On November 21, 2022, you made a repayment of $10,000 to your traditional IRA. The value of all of your traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs as of December 31, 2022, was $50,000. You had no outstanding rollovers. You would enter $40,000 ($50,000 minus $10,000 repayment) on line 6.

Line 7

If you received a distribution in 2022 from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA, and you also made contributions for 2022 to a traditional IRA that may not be fully deductible because of the income limits, you must make a special computation before completing the rest of this form. For details, including how to complete Form 8606, see Are Distributions Taxable? in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-B. Don't include any of the following on line 7.

- Distributions that you converted to a Roth IRA.
- Recharacterizations of traditional IRA contributions to Roth IRA contributions.
- Distributions you rolled over to another traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA (whether or not the distribution is an outstanding rollover included on line 6).
- Distributions you rolled over to a qualified retirement plan.
- A one-time distribution to fund an HSA. For details, see Pub. 969, Health Savings Accounts and Other Tax-Favored Health Plans.

- Distributions that are treated as a return of contributions under Return of IRA Contributions, earlier.
- Qualified charitable distributions (QCDs). For details, see Are Distributions Taxable? in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-B.
- Distributions that are treated as a return of excess contributions under Return of Excess Traditional IRA Contributions, earlier.
- Qualified distributions from Part IV of your 2022 Form 8915-F, if any, you repaid in 2022 no later than any deadline for repayment.
- Distributions that are incident to divorce. The transfer of part or all of your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to your spouse under a divorce or separation agreement isn't taxable to you or your spouse. If this transfer results in a change in the basis of the IRA of either spouse, both spouses must file Form 8606 and show the increase or decrease in the amount of basis on line 2. Attach a statement explaining this adjustment. Include in the statement the character of the amounts in the IRA, such as the amount attributable to nondeductible contributions. Also, include the name and SSN of the other spouse.

Qualified disaster distributions. Be sure to include on line 7 all qualified disaster distributions made in 2022, even if they were later repaid.

Line 8

If, in 2022, you converted any amounts from traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to a Roth IRA, enter on line 8 the net amount you converted.

Line 15b

If you have no qualified disaster distributions in 2022 from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA, enter -0- on line 15b. If all your distributions in 2022 from those IRAs are qualified disaster distributions, enter the amount from line 15a on line 15b. If you have distributions in 2022 unrelated to qualified disasters, as well as qualified disaster distributions, you will need to multiply the amount on line 15a by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is your total qualified disaster distributions, and the denominator is the amount from Form 8606, line 7.

Line 15c

If you were under age 59<sup>1/2</sup> at the time you received distributions from your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA, there is generally an additional 10% tax on the portion of the distribution that is included in income (25% for a distribution from a SIMPLE IRA during the first 2 years of your participation in the plan). See the instructions for Schedule 2 (Form 1040), line 8; and the Instructions for Form 5329.

Part II—2022 Conversions From Traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to Roth IRAs

Complete Part II if you converted part or all of your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to a Roth IRA in 2022.

Line 16

If you didn't complete line 8, see the instructions for that line. Then, enter on line 16 the amount you would have entered on line 8 had you completed it.

Line 17

If you didn't complete line 11, enter on line 17 the amount from line 2 (or the amount you would have entered on line 2 if you had completed that line) plus any contributions included on line 1 that you made before the conversion.

Line 18

If your entry on line 18 is zero or less, don't include the result on 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4b. Include the full amount of the distribution on 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a.

Part III—Distributions From Roth IRAs

Complete Part III to figure the taxable part, if any, of your 2022 Roth IRA distributions.

Line 19

Don't include on line 19 any of the following.

- Distributions that you rolled over, including distributions made in 2022 and rolled over after December 31, 2022 (outstanding rollovers).
- Recharacterizations.

- Distributions that are a return of contributions under Return of IRA Contributions, earlier.
- Distributions made on or after age 59<sup>1/2</sup> if you made a contribution (including a conversion or a rollover from a qualified retirement plan) for any year from 1998 through 2017.
- A one-time distribution to fund an HSA. For details, see Pub.
- 969.
- Qualified charitable distributions (QCDs). For details, see Are Distributions Taxable? in chapter 1 of Pub. 590-B.
- Distributions made upon death or due to disability if a contribution was made (including a conversion or a rollover from a qualified retirement plan) for any year from 1998 through 2017.

- Qualified distributions from Part IV of your 2022 Form 8915-F, if any, you repaid in 2022 no later than the deadline for repayment.
- Distributions that are incident to divorce. The transfer of part or all of your Roth IRA to your spouse under a divorce or separation agreement isn't taxable to you or your spouse.

Qualified disaster distributions. Be sure to include on line 19 all qualified disaster distributions made in 2022, even if they were later repaid, unless they fall under the 4th or 7th bullet above.

If, after considering the items above, you don't have an amount to enter on line 19, don't complete Part III; your Roth IRA distribution(s) isn't taxable. Instead, include your total Roth IRA distribution(s) on 2022 Form 1040, 1040-SR, or 1040-NR, line 4a.

Line 20

If you had a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution from your Roth IRA and you made a contribution (including a conversion or a rollover from a qualified retirement plan) to a Roth IRA for any year from 1998 through 2017, enter the amount of your qualified expenses on line 20, but don't enter more than $10,000 reduced by the total of all your prior qualified first-time homebuyer distributions. For details, see Are Distributions Taxable? in chapter 2 of Pub. 590-B.

Line 22

Figure the amount to enter on line 22 as follows.

- If you didn't take a Roth IRA distribution before 2022 (other than an amount rolled over or recharacterized or a returned contribution), enter on line 22 the total of all your regular contributions to Roth IRAs for 1998 through 2022 (excluding rollovers from other Roth IRAs and any contributions that you had returned to you), adjusted for any recharacterizations.

- If you did take such a distribution before 2022, see the Basis in Regular Roth IRA Contributions Worksheet to figure the amount to enter.
- Increase the amount on line 22 by any amount rolled in from a designated Roth account that is treated as investment in the contract.
- Increase or decrease the amount on line 22 by any basis in regular contributions received or transferred incident to divorce. Also attach a statement similar to the one explained in the last bulleted item under Line 7, earlier.

- Increase the amount on line 22 by the amounts received as a military gratuity or SGLI payment that was rolled over to your Roth IRA.

Line 23

Generally, there is an additional 10% tax on 2022 distributions from a Roth IRA that are shown on line 23. You will need to complete lines 1 through 4 of Form 5329 to determine the amounts from the Roth IRAs that are subject to the additional tax. See the instructions for Form 5329, Part I, for details and exceptions.

Line 24

- If you have never made a Roth IRA conversion or rolled over an amount from a qualified retirement plan to a Roth IRA, enter -0- on line 24.

- If you took a Roth IRA distribution (other than an amount rolled over or recharacterized or a returned contribution) before 2022 in excess of your basis in regular Roth IRA contributions, see the Basis in Roth IRA Conversions and Rollovers From Qualified Retirement Plans to Roth IRAs chart to figure the amount to enter on line 24.
- If you didn't take such a distribution before 2022, enter on line 24 the total of all your conversions to Roth IRAs. These amounts are shown on line 14c of your 1998, 1999, and 2000 Forms 8606 and line 16 of your 2001 through 2021 Forms 8606. Also include on line 24 any amounts rolled over from a qualified retirement plan to a Roth IRA for 2008, 2009, and 2011 to 2022 reported on your Form 1040, Form 1040-SR, Form 1040A, or Form 1040-

NR, and for 2010 reported on line 21 of your Form 8606. Don't include amounts rolled in from a designated Roth account because these amounts are included on line 22.

- Increase or decrease the amount on line 24 by any basis in conversions to Roth IRAs and amounts rolled over from a qualified retirement plan to a Roth IRA received or transferred incident to divorce. Also attach a statement similar to the one explained in the last bulleted item under Line 7, earlier.

Line 25b

If you have no qualified disaster distributions in 2022 from a Roth

IRA, enter -0- on line 25b. If all your distributions in 2022 from Roth IRAs are qualified disaster distributions, enter the amount from line 25a on line 25b. If you have distributions in 2022 unrelated to qualified disasters, as well as qualified disaster distributions, you will need to multiply the amount on line 25a by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is your total qualified disaster distributions, and the denominator is the amount from Form 8606, line 21.
