For the notice of proposed partnership adjustment (NOPPA) referenced above, any request for modification under IRC section 6225(c) and information required to be submitted with respect to a request for modification has a submission deadline indicated above as either the 270-Day Modification Submission Period Expiration Date, or, an extended IRC section 6225(c)(7) date from a previously approved Form 8984. A request to extend this deadline by the number of additional calendar days referenced above is being requested.

If this consent to extend the period for modification submission under IRC section 6225(c)(7) is approved by the IRS:

- Only information with respect to the request for modification under IRC section 6225(c) submitted on or before the approved extended deadline will be considered by the Service when determining whether to approve the request for modification; and
- The extension of the modification submission period under IRC section 6225(c)(7) also extends the period for the Service to make adjustments under IRC section 6235(a)(2) and 6235(a)(3). Therefore, an additional number of days granted for the partnership to submit information with respect to the request for modification also provides the IRS with an equivalent number of additional days to review and make a determination with regard to the modification request.

Form 8984 will only become effective or final when the form is countersigned by the IRS. If approved, the IRS will send you an executed copy with the approved extended modification submission deadline.

Your Rights as a Taxpayer

The modification period began on the date on which the notice of proposed partnership adjustment was mailed under IRC 6231. The request for an additional period in which modification can be submitted to the Service is made to the IRS official and requires the approval and consent of the Secretary. This extension is determined to be a mutually agreed-upon period of time. Signing this extension will not deprive the partnership of any rights to which the partnership has for the review and approval of modifications for which the partnership would otherwise be entitled.
