What's New
Compensation limits for 2016 and 2017. For 2016, the maximum compensation used for figuring contributions and benefits is $265,000. This limit increases to $270,000 for 2017.

Elective deferral limit for 2016 and 2017. The limit on elective deferrals, other than catch-up contributions, is $18,000 for 2016 and 2017. These limits apply for participants in SARSEPs, 401(k) plans (excluding SIMPLE plans).
Reminders

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SEP, SIMPLE, or qualified plan. The credit equals 50% of the cost to set up and administer the plan and educate employees about the plan, up to a maximum of $500 per year for each of the first 3 years of the plan. You can choose to start claiming the credit in the tax year before the tax year in which the plan becomes effective.

You must have had 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 in compensation from you for the preceding year. At least one participant must be a non-highly compensated employee. The employees generally can’t be related to the employer.

Qualified plans (also called H.R. 10 plans or Keogh plans when covering self-employed individuals), including 401(k) plans.

SEP, SIMPLE, and qualified plans offer you and your employees a tax-favored way to save for retirement. You can deduct contributions you make to the plan for your employees. If you are a sole proprietor, you can deduct contributions you make to the plan for yourself. You can also deduct trustees’ fees if contributions to the plan don’t cover them. Earnings on the contributions are generally tax free until you or your employees receive distributions from the plan.

Under a 401(k) plan, employers can have you contribute limited amounts of their before-tax (after-tax, in the case of a qualified Roth contribution program) pay to the plan. These amounts (and the earnings on them) are generally tax free until your employees receive distributions from the plan or, in the case of a qualified distribution from a designated Roth account, completely tax free.

What this publication covers. This publication contains the information you need to understand the following topics.

What type of plan to set up.
How to set up a plan.
How much you can contribute to a plan.
How much of your contribution is deductible.
How to treat certain distributions.
How to report information about the plan to the IRS and your employees.
Basic features of SEP, SIMPLE, and qualified plans. The key rules for SEP, SIMPLE, and qualified plans are outlined in Table 1.

SEP plans. SEPs provide a simplified method for you to make contributions to a retirement plan for yourself and your employees. Instead of setting up a profit-sharing or money purchase plan with a trust, you can adopt a SEP agreement and make contributions directly to a traditional individual retirement account or a traditional individual retirement annuity (SEP-IRA) set up for yourself and each eligible employee.

SIMPLE plans. Generally, if you had 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 in compensation last year, you can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan. Under a SIMPLE plan, employees can choose to make salary reduction contributions rather than receiving these amounts as part of their regular pay. In addition, you will contribute matching or nonelective contributions. The two types of SIMPLE plans are the SIMPLE IRA plan and the SIMPLE 401(k) plan.

Qualified plans. The qualified plan rules are more complex than the SEP plan and SIMPLE plan rules. However, there are advantages to qualified plans, such as increased flexibility in designing plans and increased contribution and deduction limits in some cases.

1 Net earnings from self-employment must take the contribution into account. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals in chapters 2 and 4.
2 Compensation is generally limited to $265,000 in 2016.
3 Under a SIMPLE 401(k) plan, compensation is generally limited to $265,000 in 2016.
4 Certain plans subject to Department of Labor rules may have an earlier due date for salary reduction contributions and elective deferrals.

What this publication doesn’t cover. Although the purpose of this publication is to provide general information about retirement plans you can set up for your employees, it doesn’t contain all the rules and exceptions that apply to these plans. You may need professional help and guidance.

Also, this publication doesn’t cover all the rules that may be of interest to employees. For example, it doesn’t cover the following topics.

- The comprehensive IRA rules an employee needs to know. These rules are covered in Publication 590-A, Contributions to Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), and Publication 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).
- The comprehensive rules that apply to distributions from retirement plans. These rules are covered in Publication 575, Pension and Annuity Income.

- The comprehensive rules that apply to section 403(b) plans. These rules are covered in Publication 571, Tax-Sheltered Annuity Plans (403(b) Plans) For Employees of Public Schools and Certain Tax-Exempt Organizations.

Tax questions. If you have a tax question not answered by this publication, check IRS.gov and How To Get Tax Help at the end of this publication.
Definitions You Need To Know

Certain terms used in this publication are defined below. The same term used in another publication may have a slightly different meaning.

Annual additions. Annual additions are the total of all your contributions in a year, employee contributions (not including rollovers), and forfeitures allocated to a participant’s account.

Annual benefits. Annual benefits are the benefits to be paid yearly in the form of a straight life annuity (with no extra benefits) under a plan to which employees don’t contribute and under which no rollover contributions are made.

Business. A business is an activity in which a profit motive is present and economic activity is involved. Service as a newspaper carrier under age 18 or as a public official isn’t a business.

Common-law employee. A common-law employee is any individual who, under common law, would have the status of an employee. A leased employee can also be a common-law employee.

A common-law employee is a person who performs services for an employer who has the right to control and direct the results of the work and the way in which it is done. For example, the employer:
- Provides the employee’s tools, materials, and workplace, and
- Can fire the employee.

Common-law employees aren’t self-employed and can’t set up retirement plans for income from their work, even if that income is self-employment income for social security tax purposes. For example, common-law employees who are ministers, members of religious orders, full-time insurance salespeople, and U.S. citizens employed in the United States by foreign governments can’t set up retirement plans for their earnings from those employments, even though their earnings are treated as self-employment income.

However, an individual may be a common-law employee and a self-employed person as well. For example, an attorney can be a corporate common-law employee during regular working hours and also practice law in the evening as a self-employed person. In another example, a minister employed by a congregation for a salary is a common-law employee even though the salary is treated as self-employment income for social security tax purposes. However, fees reported on Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, for performing marriages, baptisms, and other personal services are self-employment earnings for qualified plan purposes.

Compensation. Compensation for plan allocations is the pay a participant received from you for personal services for a year. You can generally define compensation as including all the following payments:
1. Wages and salaries.
2. Fees for professional services.
3. Other amounts received (cash or non-cash) for personal services actually rendered by an employee, including, but not limited to, the following items:
   a. Commissions and tips.
   b. Fringe benefits.
   c. Bonuses.

For a self-employed individual, compensation means the earned income, discussed later, of that individual.

Compensation generally includes amounts deferred at the employee’s election in the following employee benefit plans:
- Section 401(k) plans.
- Section 403(b) plans.
- SIMPLE IRA plans.
- SARSEPs.
- Section 457 deferred compensation plans.
- Section 125 cafeteria plans.

However, an employer can choose to exclude elective deferrals under the above plans from the definition of compensation. The limit on elective deferrals is discussed in chapter 2 under Salary Reduction Simplified Employee Pension (SARSEP) and in chapter 4.

Other options. In figuring the compensation of a participant, you can treat any of the following amounts as the employee’s compensation:
- The employee’s wages as defined for income tax withholding purposes.
- The employee’s wages you report in box 1 of Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.
- The employee’s social security wages (including elective deferrals).

Compensation generally can’t include either of the following items:
- Nontaxable reimbursements or other expense allowances.
- Deferred compensation (other than elective deferrals).

SIMPLE plans. A special definition of compensation applies for SIMPLE plans. See chapter 3.

Contribution. A contribution is an amount you pay into a plan for all those participating in the plan, including self-employed individuals. Limits apply to how much, under the contribution formula of the plan, can be contributed each year for a participant.

Deduction. A deduction is the plan contributions you can subtract from gross income on your federal income tax return. Limits apply to the amount deductible.

Earned income. Earned income is net earnings from self-employment, discussed later, from a business in which your services materially helped to produce the income.

You can also have earned income from property your personal efforts helped create, such as royalties from your books or inventions. Earned income includes net earnings from selling or otherwise disposing of the property, but it doesn’t include capital gains. It includes income from licensing the use of property other than goodwill.

Earned income includes amounts received for services by self-employed members of recognized religious sects opposed to social security benefits who are exempt from self-employment tax.

If you have more than one business, but only one has a retirement plan, only the earned income from that business is considered for that plan.

Employer. An employer is generally any person for whom an individual performs or did perform any service, of whatever nature, as an employee. A sole proprietor is treated as his or her own employer for retirement plan purposes. However, a partner isn’t an employer for retirement plan purposes. Instead, the partnership is treated as the employer of each partner.

Highly compensated employee. A highly compensated employee is an individual who:
- Owned more than 5% of the interest in your business at any time during the year or the preceding year, regardless of how much compensation that person earned or received, or
- For the preceding year, received compensation from you of more than $120,000 (if the preceding year is 2015, 2016 or 2017) and, if you so choose, was in the top 20% of employees when ranked by compensation.

Leased employee. A leased employee who isn’t your common-law employee must generally be treated as your employee for retirement plan purposes if he or she does all the following:
- Provides services to you under an agreement between you and a leasing organization.
- Has performed services for you (or for you and related persons) substantially full time for at least 1 year.
- Performs services under your primary direction or control.

Exception. A leased employee isn’t treated as your employee if all the following conditions are met:
1. Leased employees aren’t more than 20% of your non-highly compensated workforce.
2. The employee is covered under the leasing organization’s qualified pension plan.
3. The leasing organization’s plan is a money purchase pension plan that has all the following provisions:
   a. Immediate participation. (This requirement doesn’t apply to any individual whose compensation from the leasing organization in each plan year during the 4-year period ending with the plan year is less than $1,000.)

b. Full and immediate vesting.
c. A nonintegrated employer contribution rate of at least 10% of compensation for each participant.

However, if the leased employee is your common-law employee, that employee will be your employee for all purposes, regardless of any pension plan of the leasing organization.

Net earnings from self-employment. For SEP and qualified plans, net earnings from self-employment is your gross income from your trade or business (provided your personal services are a material income-producing factor) minus allowable business deductions. Allowable deductions include contributions to SEP and qualified plans for common-law employees and the deduction allowed for the deductible part of your self-employment tax.

Net earnings from self-employment doesn't include items excluded from gross income (or their related deductions) other than foreign earned income and foreign housing cost amounts.

For the deduction limits, earned income is net earnings for personal services actually rendered to the business. You take into account the income tax deduction for the deductible part of self-employment tax and the deduction for contributions to the plan made on your behalf when figuring net earnings.

Net earnings include a partner’s distributive share of partnership income or loss (other than separately stated items, such as capital gains and losses). It doesn't include income passed through to shareholders of S corporations. Guaranteed payments to limited partners are net earnings from self-employment if they are paid for services to or for the partnership. Distributions of other income or loss to limited partners aren’t net earnings from self-employment.

For SIMPLE plans, net earnings from self-employment is the amount on line 4 of Short Schedule SE or line 6 of Long Schedule SE (Form 1040). Self-Employment Tax, before subtracting any contributions made to the SIMPLE plan for yourself.

Qualified plan. A qualified plan is a retirement plan that offers a tax-favored way to save for retirement. You can deduct contributions made to the plan for your employees. Earnings on these contributions are generally tax free until distributed at retirement. Profit-sharing, money purchase, and defined benefit plans are qualified plans. A 401(k) plan is also a qualified plan.

Participant. A participant is an eligible employee who is covered by your retirement plan. See the discussions of the different types of plans for the definition of an employee eligible to participate in each type of plan.

Partner. A partner is an individual who shares ownership of an unincorporated trade or business with one or more persons. For retirement plans, a partner is treated as an employee of the partnership.

Self-employed individual. An individual in business for himself or herself, and whose business isn’t incorporated, is self-employed. Sole proprietors and partners are self-employed. Self-employment can include part-time work.

Not everyone who has net earnings from self-employment for social security tax purposes is self-employed for qualified plan purposes. See Common-law employee and Net earnings from self-employment, earlier.

In addition, certain fishermen may be considered self-employed for setting up a qualified plan. See Publication 595, Capital Construction Fund for Commercial Fishermen, for the special rules used to determine whether fishermen are self-employed.

Sole proprietor. A sole proprietor is an individual who owns an unincorporated business by himself or herself, including a single member limited liability company that is treated as a disregarded entity for tax purposes. For retirement plans, a sole proprietor is treated as both an employer and an employee.

Setting Up a SEP

There are three basic steps in setting up a SEP.

1. You must execute a formal written agreement to provide benefits to all eligible employees.

---
You must give each eligible employee certain information about the SEP.

A SEP-IRA must be set up by or for each eligible employee.

Many financial institutions will help you set up a SEP.

Formal written agreement. You must execute a formal written agreement to provide benefits to all eligible employees under a SEP. You can satisfy the written agreement requirement by adopting an IRS model SEP using Form 5305-SEP. However, see When not to use Form 5305-SEP, below.

If you adopt an IRS model SEP using Form 5305-SEP, no prior IRS approval or determination letter is required. Keep the original form. Don’t file it with the IRS. Also, using Form 5305-SEP will usually relieve you from filing annual retirement plan information returns with the IRS and the Department of Labor. See the Form 5305-SEP instructions for details. If you choose not to use Form 5305-SEP, you should seek professional advice in adopting a SEP.

When not to use Form 5305-SEP. You can’t use Form 5305-SEP if any of the following apply.

1. You currently maintain any other qualified retirement plan other than another SEP.
2. You have any eligible employees for whom IRAs haven’t been set up.
3. You use the services of leased employees, who aren’t your common-law employees (as described in chapter 1).
4. You are a member of any of the following unless all eligible employees of all the members of these groups, trades, or businesses participate under the SEP.
   a. An affiliated service group described in section 414(m).
   b. A controlled group of corporations described in section 414(b).
   c. Trades or businesses under common control described in section 414(c).
5. You don’t pay the cost of the SEP contributions.

Information you must give to employees. You must give each eligible employee a copy of Form 5305-SEP, its instructions, and the other information listed in the Form 5305-SEP instructions. An IRS model SEP isn’t considered adopted until you give each employee this information.

Setting up the employee’s SEP-IRA. A SEP-IRA must be set up by or for each eligible employee. SEP-IRAs can be set up with banks, insurance companies, or other qualified financial institutions. You send SEP contributions to the financial institution where the SEP-IRA is maintained.

Deadline for setting up a SEP. You can set up a SEP for any year as late as the due date (including extensions) of your income tax return for that year.

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SEP that first became effective in 2016. For more information, see Credit for startup costs under Reminders, earlier.

How Much Can I Contribute?

The SEP rules permit you to contribute a limited amount of money each year to each employee’s SEP-IRA. If you are self-employed, you can contribute to your own SEP-IRA. Contributions must be in the form of money (cash, check, or money order). You can’t contribute property. However, participants may be able to transfer or roll over certain property from one retirement plan to another. See Publications 590-A and 590-B for more information about rollovers.

You don’t have to make contributions every year. But if you make contributions, they must be based on a written allocation formula and must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees (defined in chapter 1). When you contribute, you must contribute to the SEP-IRAs of all participants who actually performed personal services during the year for which the contributions are made, including employees who die or terminate employment before the contributions are made.

Contributions are deductible within limits, as discussed later, and generally aren’t taxable to the plan participants.

A SEP-IRA can’t be a Roth IRA. Employer contributions to a SEP-IRA won’t affect the amount an individual can contribute to a Roth or traditional IRA.

Unlike regular contributions to a traditional IRA, contributions under a SEP can be made to participants over age 70½. If you are self-employed, you can also make contributions under the SEP for yourself even if you are over 70½. Participants age 70½ or over must take required minimum distributions.

Time limit for making contributions. To deduct contributions for a year, you must make the contributions by the due date (including extensions) of your tax return for the year.

Contribution Limits

Contributions you make for 2016 to a common-law employee’s SEP-IRA can’t exceed the lesser of 25% of the employee’s compensation or $53,000. Compensation generally doesn’t include your contributions to the SEP. The SEP plan document will specify how the employer contribution is determined and how it will be allocated to participants.

Example. Your employee, Mary Plant, earned $21,000 for 2016. The maximum contribution you can make to her SEP-IRA is $5,250 (25% x $21,000).

Contributions for yourself. The annual limits on your contributions to a common-law employee’s SEP-IRA also apply to contributions you make to your own SEP-IRA. However, special rules apply when figuring your maximum deductible contribution. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals, later.

Annual compensation limit. You can’t consider the part of an employee’s compensation over $265,000 when figuring your contribution limit for that employee. However, $53,000 is the maximum contribution for an eligible employee. These limits increase to $270,000 and $54,000, respectively, in 2017.

Example. Your employee, Susan Green, earned $210,000 for 2016. Because of the maximum contribution limit for 2016, you can only contribute $53,000 to her SEP-IRA.

More than one plan. If you contribute to a defined contribution plan (defined in chapter 4), contributions by the employee are limited to the lesser of $53,000 or 100% of the participant’s compensation. When you figure this limit, you must add your contributions to all defined contribution plans maintained by you. Because a SEP is considered a defined contribution plan for this limit, your contributions to a SEP must be added to your contributions to other defined contribution plans you maintain.

Tax treatment of excess contributions. Excess contributions are your contributions to an employee’s SEP-IRA (or to your own SEP-IRA) for 2016 that exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

- 25% of the employee’s compensation (or, for you, 20% of your net earnings from self-employment).
- $53,000.

Excess contributions are included in the employee’s income for the year and are treated as contributions by the employee to his or her SEP-IRA. For more information on employee tax treatment of excess contributions, see Publication 590-A.

Reporting on Form W-2. Don’t include SEP contributions on your employee’s Form W-2 unless contributions were made under a salary reduction arrangement (discussed later).

Deducting Contributions

Generally, you can deduct the contributions you make each year to each employee’s SEP-IRA. If you are self-employed, you can deduct the contributions you make each year to your own SEP-IRA.

Deduction Limit for Contributions for Participants

The most you can deduct for your contributions to you or your employee’s SEP-IRA is the lesser of the following amounts.

1. Your contributions (including any excess contributions carryover).
2. 25% of the compensation (limited to $265,000 per participant) paid to the participants during 2016 from the business that has the plan, not to exceed $53,000 per participant.

In 2017, the amounts in (2) above increase to $270,000 and $54,000, respectively.

Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals

If you contribute to your own SEP-IRA, you must make a special computation to figure your maximum deduction for these contributions. When figuring the deduction for contributions made to your own SEP-IRA, compensation is your net earnings from self-employment (defined in chapter 1), which takes into account both the following deductions:

- The deduction for the deductible part of your self-employment tax.
- The deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA.

The deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA and your net earnings depend on each other. For this reason, you determine the deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA indirectly by reducing the contribution rate called for in your plan. To do this, use the Rate Table for Self-Employed or the Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed, whichever is appropriate for your plan's contribution rate, in chapter 5. Then figure your maximum deduction by using the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5.

Carryover of Excess SEP Contributions

If you made SEP contributions that are more than the deduction limit (nondeductible contributions), you can carry over and deduct the difference in later years. However, the carryover, when combined with the contribution for the later year, is subject to the deduction limit for that year. If you also contributed to a defined benefit plan or defined contribution plan, see Carryover of Excess Contributions under Employer Deduction in chapter 4 for the carryover limit.

Excise tax. If you made nondeductible (excess) contributions to a SEP, you may be subject to a 10% excise tax. For information about the excise tax, see Excise Tax on Nondeductible (Excess) Contributions under Employer Deduction in chapter 4.

When To Deduct Contributions

When you can deduct contributions made for a year depends on the tax year on which the SEP is maintained:

- If the SEP is maintained on a calendar year basis, you deduct the yearly contributions on your tax return for the year within which the calendar year ends.
- If you file your tax return and maintain the SEP using a fiscal year or short tax year, you deduct contributions made for a year on your tax return for that year.

Example. You are a fiscal year taxpayer whose tax year ends June 30. You maintain a SEP on a calendar year basis. You deduct SEP contributions made for calendar year 2016 on your tax return for your tax year ending June 30, 2017.

Where To Deduct Contributions

Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040) or Schedule F (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Farming; partnerships deduct them on Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return, or Form 1120S, U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation.

Sole proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1040. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), Partner's Share of Income, Deductions, Credits, etc., you receive from the partnership.)

Remember that sole proprietors and partners can't deduct as a business expense contributions made to a SEP for themselves, only those made for their common-law employees.

Salary Reduction Simplified Employee Pensions (SARSEPs)

A SARSEP is a SEP set up before 1997 that includes a salary reduction arrangement. (See the Caution, next.) Under a SARSEP, your employees can choose to have you contribute part of their pay to their SEP-IRAs rather than receive it in cash. This contribution is called an "elective deferral" because employees choose (elect) to set aside the money, and they defer the tax on the money until it is distributed to them.

You aren't allowed to set up a SARSEP after 1996. However, participants (including employees hired after 1996) in a SARSEP set up before 1997 can continue to have you contribute part of their pay to the plan. If you are interested in setting up a retirement plan that includes a salary reduction arrangement, see chapter 3.

Who can have a SARSEP? A SARSEP set up before 1997 is available to you and your eligible employees only if all the following requirements are met:

- At least 50% of your employees eligible to participate choose to make elective deferrals.
- You have 25 or fewer employees who were eligible to participate in the SEP at any time during the preceding year.

- The elective deferrals of your highly compensated employees meet the SARSEP ADP test.

SARSEP ADP test. Under the SARSEP ADP test, the amount deferred each year by each eligible highly compensated employee as a percentage of pay (the deferral percentage) can't be more than 125% of the average deferral percentage (ADP) of all non-highly compensated employees eligible to participate. A highly compensated employee is defined in chapter 1.

Deferral percentage. The deferral percentage for an employee for a year is figured as follows.

The employee's compensation
(excluding certain catch-up contributions)
paid to the SEP for the employee for the year

The instructions for Form 5305A-SEP have a worksheet you can use to determine whether the elective deferrals of your highly compensated employees meet the SARSEP ADP test.

Employee compensation. For figuring the deferral percentage, compensation is generally the amount you pay to the employee for the year. Compensation includes the elective deferral and other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans. See Compensation in chapter 1. Elective deferrals under the SARSEP are included in figuring your employees' deferral percentage even though they aren't included in the income of your employees for income tax purposes.

Compensation of self-employed individuals. If you are self-employed, compensation is your net earnings from self-employment as defined in chapter 1.

Compensation doesn't include tax-free items (or deductions related to them) other than foreign earned income and housing cost amounts.

Choice not to treat deferrals as compensation. You can choose not to treat elective deferrals (and other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans) for a year as compensation under your SARSEP.

Limit on Elective Deferrals

The most a participant can choose to defer for calendar year 2018 is the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 25% of the participant's compensation (limited to $265,000 of the participant's compensation).
2. $18,000.

The $18,000 limit applies to the total elective deferrals the employee makes for the year to a SEP and any of the following.

- Cash or deferred arrangement (section 401(k) plan).
- Salary reduction arrangement under a tax-sheltered annuity plan (section 403(b) plan).
• SIMPLE IRA plan.

In 2017, the $265,000 limit increases to $270,000 and the $18,000 limit remains unchanged.

Catch-up contributions. A SARSEP can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit is $6,000 for 2016 and 2017. Elective deferrals aren't treated as catch-up contributions for 2016 until they exceed the elective deferral limit (the lesser of 25% of compensation or $18,000), the SARSEP ADP test limit discussed earlier, or the plan limit (if any). However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year can't exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

• The catch-up contribution limit.
• The excess of the participant's compensation over the elective deferrals that aren't catch-up contributions.

Catch-up contributions aren't subject to the elective deferral limit (the lesser of 25% of compensation or $18,000 in 2016 and 2017).

Overall limit on SEP contributions. If you also make nonelective contributions to a SEP-IRA, the total of the nonelective and elective contributions to that SEP-IRA can't exceed the lesser of 25% of the employee's compensation or $53,000 for 2016 ($54,000 for 2017). The same rule applies to contributions you make to your own SEP-IRA. See Contribution Limits, earlier.

Figuring the elective deferral. For figuring the 25% limit on elective deferrals, compensation doesn't include SEP contributions, including elective deferrals or other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans.

Tax Treatment of Deferrals

Elective deferrals that aren't more than the limits discussed earlier under Limit on Elective Deferrals are excluded from your employees' wages subject to federal income tax in the year of deferral. However, these deferrals are included in wages for social security, Medicare, and federal unemployment (FUTA) tax.

Excess deferrals. For 2016, excess deferrals are the elective deferrals for the year that are more than the $18,000 limit discussed earlier. For a participant who is eligible to make catch-up contributions, excess deferrals are the elective deferrals that are more than $24,000. The treatment of excess deferrals made under a SARSEP is similar to the treatment of excess deferrals made under a qualified plan. See Treatment of Excess Deferrals under Elective Deferrals (401(k) Plans) in chapter 4.

Excess SEP contributions. Excess SEP contributions are elective deferrals of highly compensated employees that are more than the amount permitted under the SARSEP ADP test. You must notify your highly compensated employees within 2½ months after the end of the plan year of their excess SEP contributions. If you don't notify them within this time period, you must pay a 10% tax on the excess. For an explanation of the notification requirements, see Rev. Proc. 91-44, 1991-2 C.B. 733. If you adopted a SARSEP using Form 5305A-SEP, the notification requirements are explained in the instructions for that form.

Reporting on Form W-2. Don't include elective deferrals in the “Wages, tips, other compensation” box of Form W-2. You must, however, include them in the “Social security wages” and “Medicare wages and tips” boxes. You must also include them in box 12. Mark the “Retirement plan” checkbox in box 13. For more information, see the Form W-2 instructions.

Distributions (Withdrawals)

As an employer, you can't prohibit distributions from a SEP-IRA. Also, you can't make your contributions on the condition that any part of them must be kept in the account after you have made your contributions to the employee's accounts.

Distributions are subject to IRA rules. Generally, you or your employee must begin to receive distributions from a SEP-IRA by April 1 of the first year after the calendar year in which you or your employee reaches age 70½. For more information about IRA rules, including the tax treatment of distributions, rollovers, required distributions, and income tax withholding, see Publications 590-A and 590-B.

Additional Taxes

The tax advantages of using SEP-IRAs for retirement savings can be offset by additional taxes that may be imposed for all the following actions.

• Making excess contributions.
• Making early withdrawals.
• Not making required withdrawals.

For information about these taxes, see Publications 590-A and 590-B. Also, a SEP-IRA may be disqualified, or an excise tax may apply, if the account is involved in a prohibited transaction, discussed next.

Prohibited transaction. If an employee improperly uses his or her SEP-IRA, such as by borrowing money from it, the employee has engaged in a prohibited transaction. In that case, the SEP-IRA will no longer qualify as an IRA. For a list of prohibited transactions, see Prohibited Transactions in chapter 4.

Effects on employee. If a SEP-IRA is disqualified because of a prohibited transaction, the assets in the account will be treated as having been distributed to the employee on the first day of the year in which the transaction occurred. The employee must include in income the fair market value of the assets (on the first day of the year) that is more than any cost basis in the account. Also, the employee may have to pay the additional tax for making early withdrawals.

Reporting and Disclosure Requirements

If you set up a SEP using Form 5305-SEP, you must give your eligible employees certain information about the SEP when you set it up. See Setting Up a SEP, earlier. Also, you must give your eligible employees a statement each year showing any contributions to their SEP-IRAs. You must also give them notice of any excess contributions. For details about other information you must give them, see the instructions for Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP (for a salary reduction SEP).

Even if you didn't use Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP to set up your SEP, you must give your employees information similar to that described above. For more information, see the instructions for either Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP.

A SIMPLE IRA plan is a retirement plan that uses SIMPLE IRAs for each eligible employee. Under a SIMPLE IRA plan, a SIMPLE IRA must be set up for each eligible employee. For the definition of an eligible employee, see Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan, later.

Who Can Set Up a SIMPLE IRA Plan?

You can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan if you meet both the following requirements:

- You meet the employee limit.
- You don’t maintain another qualified plan unless the other plan is for collective bargaining employees.

Employee limit. You can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan only if you had 100 or fewer employees who received $5,000 or more in compensation from you for the preceding year. Under this rule, you must take into account all employees employed at any time during the calendar year regardless of whether they are eligible to participate. Employees include self-employed individuals who received earned income and leased employees (defined in chapter 1).

Once you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan, you must continue to meet the 100-employee limit each year you maintain the plan.

Grace period for employers who cease to meet the 100-employee limit. If you maintain the SIMPLE IRA plan for at least 1 year and then cease to meet the 100-employee limit in a later year, you will be treated as meeting it for the 2 calendar years immediately following the calendar year for which you last met it.

A different rule applies if you don’t meet the 100-employee limit because of an acquisition, disposition, or similar transaction. Under this rule, the SIMPLE IRA plan will be treated as if it continued to exist and you were still eligible to maintain the plan. For a description of the acquisition, disposition, or similar transaction, see SIMPLE Plans, later.

Eligible employee. Any employee who received at least $5,000 in compensation during any 2 years preceding the current calendar year and is reasonably expected to receive at least $5,000 during the current calendar year is eligible to participate. The term “employee” includes a self-employed individual who received earned income.

You can use less restrictive eligibility requirements (but not more restrictive ones) by eliminating or reducing the prior year compensation requirements, the current year compensation requirements, or both. For example, you can allow participation for employees who received at least $3,000 in compensation during any preceding calendar year. However, you can’t impose any other conditions for participating in a SIMPLE IRA plan.

Excludable employees. The following employees don’t need to be covered under a SIMPLE IRA plan:

- Employees who are covered by a union agreement and whose retirement benefits were bargained for in good faith by the employees’ union and you.
- Nonresident alien employees who have received no U.S. source wages, salaries, or other personal services compensation from you.

Compensation. Compensation for employees is the total wages, tips, and other compensation from the employer subject to federal income tax withholding and the amounts paid for domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority.

The grace period for acquisitions, dispositions, and similar transactions also applies if, because of these types of transactions, you don’t meet the rules explained under Other qualified plan or Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan, below.

Other qualified plan. The SIMPLE IRA plan generally must be the only retirement plan to which you make contributions, or to which benefits accrue, for service in any year beginning with the year the SIMPLE IRA plan becomes effective.

Exception. If you maintain a qualified plan for collective bargaining employees, you are permitted to maintain a SIMPLE IRA plan for other employees.

Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan?

Eligible employee. Any employee who received at least $5,000 in compensation during the current calendar year and is reasonably expected to receive at least $5,000 during the current calendar year is eligible to participate. The term “employee” includes a self-employed individual who received earned income.

You can use less restrictive eligibility requirements (but not more restrictive ones) by eliminating or reducing the prior year compensation requirements, the current year compensation requirements, or both. For example, you can allow participation for employees who received at least $3,000 in compensation during any preceding calendar year. However, you can’t impose any other conditions for participating in a SIMPLE IRA plan.

Excludable employees. The following employees don’t need to be covered under a SIMPLE IRA plan:

- Employees who are covered by a union agreement and whose retirement benefits were bargained for in good faith by the employees’ union and you.
- Nonresident alien employees who have received no U.S. source wages, salaries, or other personal services compensation from you.

Compensation. Compensation for employees is the total wages, tips, and other compensation from the employer subject to federal income tax withholding and the amounts paid for domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority.

The grace period for acquisitions, dispositions, and similar transactions also applies if, because of these types of transactions, you don’t meet the rules explained under Other qualified plan or Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan, below.

Other qualified plan. The SIMPLE IRA plan generally must be the only retirement plan to which you make contributions, or to which benefits accrue, for service in any year beginning with the year the SIMPLE IRA plan becomes effective.

Exception. If you maintain a qualified plan for collective bargaining employees, you are permitted to maintain a SIMPLE IRA plan for other employees.
documents the participant and the trustee (or custodian) can use for this purpose.

A SIMPLE IRA can't be a Roth IRA. Contributions to a SIMPLE IRA won't affect the amount an individual can contribute to a Roth or traditional IRA.

Deadline for setting up a SIMPLE IRA. A SIMPLE IRA must be set up for an employee before the first date by which a contribution is required to be deposited into the employee's IRA. See Time limits for contributing funds, later, under Contribution Limits.

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SIMPLE IRA plan that first became effective in 2016. For more information, see Credit for startup costs under Reminders, earlier.

Notification Requirement

If you adopt a SIMPLE IRA plan, you must notify each employee of the following information before the beginning of the election period.

1. The employee's opportunity to make or change a salary reduction choice under a SIMPLE IRA plan.
2. Your decision to make either matching contributions or nonelective contributions (discussed later).
3. A summary description provided by the financial institution.
4. Written notice that his or her balance can be transferred without cost or penalty if they use a designated financial institution.

Election period. The election period is generally the 60-day period immediately preceding January 1 of a calendar year (November 2 to December 31 of the preceding calendar year). However, the dates of this period are modified if the 60-day period falls before the first day an employee becomes eligible to participate in the SIMPLE IRA plan.

A SIMPLE IRA plan can provide longer periods for permitting employees to enter into salary reduction agreements or to modify prior agreements. For example, a SIMPLE IRA plan can provide a 90-day election period instead of the 60-day period. Similarly, in addition to the 60-day period, a SIMPLE IRA plan can provide quarterly election periods during the 30 days before each calendar quarter, other than the first quarter of each year.

Contribution Limits

Contributions are made up of salary reduction contributions and employer contributions. You, as the employer, must make either matching contributions or nonelective contributions, defined later. No other contributions can be made to the SIMPLE IRA plan. These contributions, which you can deduct, must be made timely. See Time limits for contributing funds, later.

Salary reduction contributions. The amount the employee chooses to have you contribute to a SIMPLE IRA on his or her behalf can't be more than $12,500 for 2016 and 2017. These contributions must be expressed as a percentage of the employee's compensation unless you permit the employee to express them as a specific dollar amount. You can't place restrictions on the contribution amount (such as limiting the contribution percentage), except to comply with the $12,500 limit for 2016 and 2017.

If you or an employee participates in any other qualified plan during the year and you or your employee have salary reduction contributions (elective deferrals) under those plans, the salary reduction contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan also count toward the overall annual limit ($18,000 for 2016 and 2017) on exclusion of salary reduction contributions and other elective deferrals.

Catch-up contributions. A SIMPLE IRA plan can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit for SIMPLE IRA plans is $3,000 for 2016 and 2017. Salary reduction contributions aren't treated as catch-up contributions until they exceed $12,500 for 2016 and 2017. However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year can't exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

- The catch-up contribution limit.
- The excess of the participant's compensation over the salary reduction contributions that aren't catch-up contributions.

Employer matching contributions. You are generally required to match each employee's salary reduction contribution(s) on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to 3% of the employee's compensation, where only employees who have elected to make contributions will receive an employer matching contribution. This requirement doesn't apply if you make nonelective contributions as discussed later.

Example. In 2016, your employee, John Rose, earned $25,000 and chose to defer 5% of his salary. Your net earnings from self-employment are $50,000, and you choose to contribute 10% of your earnings to your SIMPLE IRA. You make 3% matching contributions. The total contribution you make for John is $2,000, figured as follows.

- Salary reduction contributions: $(25,000 \times 0.05) = $1,250$
- Employer matching contribution: $(25,000 \times 0.03) = $750$
- Total contributions: $2,000$

The total contribution you make for yourself must be at least 1%. You must notify the employees of the lower match within a reasonable period of time before the 60-day election period (discussed earlier) for the calendar year. You can't choose a percentage less than 3% for more than 2 years during the 5-year period that ends with (and includes) the year for which the choice is effective.

Nonelective contributions. Instead of matching contributions, you can choose to make nonelective contributions of 2% of compensation on behalf of each eligible employee who has at least $5,000 (or some lower amount you select) of compensation from you for the year. If you make this choice, you must make nonelective contributions whether or not the employee chooses to make salary reduction contributions. Only $265,000 of the employee's compensation can be taken into account to figure the contribution limit in 2016 ($270,000 in 2017).

If you choose this 2% contribution formula, you must notify the employees within a reasonable period of time before the 60-day election period (discussed earlier) for the calendar year.

Example 1. In 2016, your employee, Jane Wood, earned $36,000 and chose to have you contribute 10% of her salary. Your net earnings from self-employment are $50,000, and you choose to contribute 10% of your earnings to your SIMPLE IRA. You make a 2% nonelective contribution. Both of you are under age 50. The total contribution you make for Jane is $4,320, figured as follows.

- Salary reduction contributions: $(36,000 \times 0.10) = $3,600$
- 2% nonelective contributions: $(36,000 \times 0.02) = $720$
- Total contributions: $4,320$

The total contribution you make for yourself is $6,000, figured as follows.

- Salary reduction contributions: $(50,000 \times 0.10) = $5,000$
- 2% nonelective contributions: $(50,000 \times 0.02) = $1,000$
- Total contributions: $6,000$

Example 2. Using the same facts as in Example 1, the maximum contribution you make for Jane or for yourself if you each earned $75,000 is $14,000, figured as follows.

- Salary reduction contributions (maximum amount allowed): $(75,000 \times 0.10) = $7,500$
- 2% nonelective contributions: $(75,000 \times 0.02) = $1,500$
- Total contributions: $14,000$

Time limits for contributing funds. You must make the salary reduction contributions to the SIMPLE IRA within 30 days after the end of the month in which the amounts would otherwise have been payable to the employee in cash. You must match contributions or nonelective contributions by the due date (including extensions) for filing your federal income tax.
When To Deduct Contributions

You can deduct SIMPLE IRA contributions in the tax year within which the calendar year for which contributions were made ends. You can deduct contributions for a particular tax year if they are made for that tax year and are made by the due date (including extensions) of your federal income tax return for that year.

Example 1. Your tax year is the fiscal year ending June 30. Contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan for the calendar year 2016 (including contributions made in 2016 before July 1, 2016) are deductible in the tax year ending June 30, 2017.

Example 2. You are a sole proprietor whose tax year is the calendar year. Contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan for the calendar year 2016 (including contributions made in 2017 by April 18, 2017) are deductible in the 2016 tax year.

Where To Deduct Contributions

Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040) or Schedule F (Form 1040); partnerships deduct them on Form 1065; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120 or Form 1120S.

Sole proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1040. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065) you receive from the partnership.)

Tax Treatment of Contributions

You can deduct your contributions and your employees can exclude these contributions from their gross income. SIMPLE IRA plan contributions aren't subject to federal income tax withholding. However, salary reduction contributions are subject to social security, Medicare, and federal unemployment (FUTA) taxes. Matching and nonelective contributions aren't subject to these taxes.

Reporting on Form W-2. Don't include SIMPLE IRA plan contributions in the “Wages, tips, other compensation” box of Form W-2. You must, however, include them in the “Social security wages” and “Medicare wages and tips” boxes. You must also include them in box 12. Mark the “Retirement plan” checkbox in box 13. For more information, see the Form W-2 instructions.

Distributions (Withdrawals)

Distributions from a SIMPLE IRA are subject to IRA rules and generally are includible in income for the year received. Tax-free rollovers can be made from one SIMPLE IRA into another SIMPLE IRA. However, a rollover from a SIMPLE IRA to a non-SIMPLE IRA can be made tax free only after a 2-year participation in the SIMPLE IRA plan.

Generally, you or your employee must begin to receive distributions from a SIMPLE IRA by April 1 of the first year after the calendar year in which you or your employee reaches age 70 1/2.

Example 4. An employee is age 60 on December 31, 2016. The employee must begin to receive distributions from a SIMPLE IRA by April 1, 2017, if the employee has made salary reduction contributions in 2016.

Early withdrawals generally are subject to a 10% additional tax. However, the additional tax is increased to 25% if funds are withdrawn within 2 years of beginning participation.

More Information. See Publications 590-A and 590-B for information about IRA rules, including those on the tax treatment of distributions, rollovers, required distributions, and income tax withholding.

More Information on SIMPLE IRA Plans

If you need help to set up or maintain a SIMPLE IRA plan, go to the IRS website and search SIMPLE IRA Plan.

SIMPLE 401(k) Plan

You can adopt a SIMPLE plan as part of a 401(k) plan if you meet the 100-employee limit as discussed earlier under SIMPLE IRA Plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan is a qualified retirement plan and generally must satisfy the rules discussed under Qualification Rules in chapter 4, including the required distribution rules. However, a SIMPLE 401(k) plan isn't subject to the nondiscrimination and top-heavy rules discussed in chapter 4 if the plan meets the conditions listed below.

1. Under the plan, an employee can choose to have you make salary reduction contributions for the year to a trust in an amount expressed as a percentage of the employee's compensation, but not more than $12,500 for 2016 and 2017. If permitted under the plan, an employee who is age 50 or over can also make a catch-up contribution of up to $3,000 for 2016 and 2017. See Catch-up contributions, earlier under Contribution Limits.

2. You must make either:
   a. Matching contributions up to 3% of compensation for the year, or
   b. Nonelective contributions of 2% of compensation on behalf of each eligible employee who has at least $5,000 of compensation for you for the year.

3. No other contributions can be made to the trust.

4. No contributions are made, and no benefits accrue, for services during the year under any other qualified retirement plan sponsored by you on behalf of any employee eligible to participate in the SIMPLE 401(k) plan.

5. The employee's rights to any contributions are nonforfeitable.

No more than $265,000 of the employee's compensation can be taken into account in figuring matching contributions and nonelective contributions in 2016 ($270,000 in 2017). Compensation is defined earlier in this chapter.

Employee notification. The notification requirement that applies to SIMPLE IRA plans also applies to SIMPLE 401(k) plans. See Notification Requirement in this chapter.

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SIMPLE 401(k) plan that first became effective in 2016. For more information, see Credit for startup costs under Reminders, earlier.

Note on forms. Please note that Forms 5304-SIMPLE and 5305-SIMPLE can't be used to establish a SIMPLE 401(k) plan. To set up a SIMPLE 401(k) plan, see Adopting a Written Plan in chapter 4.

Qualified Plans

Topics
This chapter discusses:

- Kinds of plans
- Qualification rules
- Setting up a qualified plan
- Minimum funding requirement
- Contributions
- Employer deduction
- Elective deferrals (401(k) plans)
- Qualified Roth contribution program
- Distributions
- Prohibited transactions
- Reporting requirements

Useful Items
You may want to see:

- Publications
The plan must be for the exclusive benefit of employees or their beneficiaries. These qualified plans can include coverage for a self-employed individual.

As an employer, you can usually deduct, subject to limits, contributions you make to a qualified plan, including those made for your own retirement. The contributions (and earnings and gains on them) are generally tax free until distributed by the plan.

Kinds of Plans

There are two basic kinds of qualified plans—defined contribution plans and defined benefit plans—and different rules apply to each. You can have more than one qualified plan, but your contributions to all the plans must not total more than the overall limits discussed under Contributions and Employer Deduction, later.

Defined Contribution Plan

A defined contribution plan provides an individual account for each participant in the plan. It provides benefits to a participant largely based on the amount contributed to that participant's account. Benefits are also affected by any income, expenses, gains, losses, and forfeitures of other accounts that may be allocated to an account. A defined contribution plan can be either a profit-sharing plan or a money purchase pension plan.

Profit-sharing plan. Although it is called a "profit-sharing plan," you don't actually have to provide definitely determinable benefits to employees or their beneficiaries. These contributions can include coverage for self-employed individuals. Additionally, unless you write your own plan, the financial institution that provided your plan will apply IRS-defined contribution plan rules that generally haven't yet been discussed. It isn't intended to be all-inclusive. See Setting Up a Qualified Plan, later.

Generally, the following qualification rules also apply to a SIMPLE 401(k) retirement plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan is, however, not subject to the top-heavy plan rules and nondiscrimination rules if the plan satisfies the provisions discussed in chapter 3 under SIMPLE 401(k) Plan.

Plan assets must not be diverted. Your plan must make it impossible for its assets to be used for, or diverted to, purposes other than the benefit of employees and their beneficiaries. As a general rule, the assets can't be diverted to the employer.

Minimum coverage requirement must be met. To be a qualified plan, a defined benefit plan must benefit at least the lesser of the following.

1. 50 employees, or
2. The greater of:
   a. 40% of all employees, or
   b. Two employees.

If there is only one employee, the plan must benefit that employee.

Contributions or benefits must not discriminate. Under the plan, contributions or benefits to be provided must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

Contributions and benefits must not be more than certain limits. Your plan must not provide for contributions or benefits that are more than certain limits. The limits apply to the annual contributions and other additions to the account of a participant in a defined contribution plan and to the annual benefit payable to a participant in a defined benefit plan. These limits are discussed later in this chapter under Contributions.

Minimum vesting standard must be met. Your plan must satisfy certain requirements regarding when benefits vest. A benefit is vested (you have a fixed right to it) when it becomes nonforfeitable. A benefit is nonforfeitable if it can't be lost upon the happening, or failure to happen, of any event. Special rules apply to forfeited benefit amounts. In defined contribution plans, forfeitures can be allocated to the accounts of remaining participants in a nondiscriminatory way, or they can be used to reduce your contributions.

These qualified retirement plans set up by self-employed individuals are sometimes called Keogh or H.R.10 plans. A sole proprietor or a partnership can set up one of these plans. A common-law employee or a partner can't set up one of these plans. The plans described here can also be set up and maintained by employers that are corporations. All the rules discussed here apply to corporations except where specifically limited to the self-employed.

Forfeitures under a defined benefit plan can’t be used to increase the benefits any employee would otherwise receive under the plan. Forfeitures must be used instead to reduce employer contributions.

Participation. In general, an employee must be allowed to participate in your plan if he or she meets both the following requirements.

- Has reached age 21.
- Has at least 1 year of service (2 years if the plan isn’t a 401(k) plan and provides that after not more than 2 years of service the employee has a nonforfeitable right to all his or her accrued benefit).

A plan can’t exclude an employee because he or she has reached a specified age.

Leased employee. A leased employee, defined in chapter 1, who performs services for you (recipient of the services) is treated as your employee for certain plan qualification rules. These rules include those in all the following areas.

- Nondiscrimination in coverage, contributions, and benefits.
- Minimum age and service requirements.
- Vesting.
- Limits on contributions and benefits.
- Top-heavy plan requirements.

Contributions or benefits provided by the leasing organization for services performed for you are treated as provided by you.

Benefit payment must begin when required. Your plan must provide that, unless the participant chooses otherwise, the payment of benefits to the participant must begin within 60 days after the close of the latest of the following periods.

- The plan year in which the participant reaches the earlier of age 65 or the normal retirement age specified in the plan.
- The plan year in which the 10th anniversary of the year in which the participant began participating in the plan occurs.
- The plan year in which the participant separates from service.

Early retirement. Your plan can provide for payment of retirement benefits before the normal retirement age. If your plan offers an early retirement benefit to a participant who separates from service before satisfying the early retirement age requirement is entitled to that benefit if he or she meets both the following requirements.

- Satisfies the service requirement for the early retirement benefit.
- Separates from service with a nonforfeitable right to an accrued benefit. The benefit, which may be actuarially reduced, is payable when the early retirement age requirement is met.

Required minimum distributions. Special rules require minimum annual distributions from qualified plans, generally beginning after age 70½. See Required Distributions, under Distributions, later.

Survivor benefits. Defined benefit and money purchase pension plans must provide automatic survivor benefits in both the following forms.

- A qualified joint and survivor annuity for a vested participant who doesn’t die before the annuity starting date.
- A qualified pre-retirement survivor annuity for a vested participant who dies before the annuity starting date and who has a surviving spouse.

The automatic survivor benefit also applies to any participant under a profit-sharing plan unless all the following conditions are met.

- The participant doesn’t choose benefits in the form of a life annuity.
- The plan pays the full vested account balance to the participant’s surviving spouse (or other beneficiary if the surviving spouse consents or if there is no surviving spouse) if the participant dies.
- The plan isn’t a direct or indirect transfers of a plan that must provide automatic survivor benefits.

Loan secured by benefits. If automatic survivor benefits are required for a spouse under a plan, he or she must consent to a loan that uses as security the accrued benefits in the plan.

Waiver of survivor benefits. Each plan participant may be permitted to waive the joint and survivor annuity or the pre-retirement survivor annuity (or both), but only if the participant has the written consent of the spouse. The plan also must allow the participant to withdraw the waiver. The spouse’s consent must be witnessed by a plan representative or notary public.

Involuntary cash-out of benefits not more than dollar limit. A plan may provide for the immediate distribution of the participant’s benefit under the plan if the present value of the benefit isn’t greater than $5,000.

However, the distribution can’t be made after the annuity starting date unless the participant and the spouse or surviving spouse of a participant who died (if automatic survivor benefits are required for a spouse under the plan) consents in writing to the distribution. If the present value is greater than $5,000, the plan must have the written consent of the participant and the spouse or surviving spouse (if automatic survivor benefits are required for a spouse under the plan) in order to make any immediate distribution of the benefits.

Benefits attributable to rollover contributions and earnings on them can be ignored in determining the present value of these benefits.

A plan must provide for the automatic rollover of any cash-out distribution of more than $1,000 to an individual retirement account or annuity, unless the participant chooses otherwise. A section 402(f) notice must be sent prior to an involuntary cash-out of an eligible rollover distribution. See Section 402(f) Notice under Distributions, later, for more details.

Consolidation, merger, or transfer of assets or liabilities. Your plan must provide that, in the case of any merger or consolidation with, or transfer of assets or liabilities to, any other plan, each participant would (if the plan then terminated) receive a benefit equal to or more than the benefit he or she would have been entitled to just before the merger, etc. (if the plan had then terminated).

Benefits must not be assigned or alienated. Your plan must provide that a participant’s or beneficiary’s benefits under the plan can’t be taken away by any legal or equitable proceeding except as provided below or pursuant to certain judgments or settlements against the participant for violations of plan rules.

Exception for certain loans. A loan from the plan (not from a third party) to a participant or beneficiary isn’t treated as an assignment or alienation if the loan is secured by the participant’s accrued nonforfeitable benefit and is exempt from the tax on prohibited transactions under section 4975(d)(1) or would be exempt if the participant were a disqualified person. A disqualified person is defined later in this chapter under Prohibited Transactions.

Exception for QDRO. Compliance with a QDRO (qualified domestic relations order) doesn’t result in a prohibited assignment or alienation of benefits.

Payments to an alternate payee under a QDRO before the participant attains age 59½ aren’t subject to the 10% additional tax that would otherwise apply under certain circumstances. Benefits distributed to an alternate payee under a QDRO can be rolled over tax free to an individual retirement account or to an individual retirement annuity.

No benefit reduction for social security increases. Your plan must not permit a benefit reduction for a post-separation increase in the social security benefit level or wage base for any participant or beneficiary who is receiving benefits under your plan, or who is separated from service and has nonforfeitable rights to benefits. This rule also applies to plans supplementing the benefits provided by other federal or state laws.

Elective deferrals must be limited. If your plan provides for elective deferrals, it must limit those deferrals to the amount in effect for that particular year. See Limit on Elective Deferrals later in this chapter.

Top-heavy plan requirements. A top-heavy plan is one that mainly favors partners, sole proprietors, and other key employees.

A plan is top-heavy for a plan year if, for the preceding plan year, the total value of accrued benefits or account balances of key employees is more than 60% of the total value of accrued benefits or account balances of all employees. Additional requirements apply to a top-heavy plan primarily to provide minimum benefits or contributions for non-key employees covered by the plan.

Most qualified plans, whether or not top-heavy, must contain provisions that meet the top-heavy requirements and will take effect in plan years in which the plans are top-heavy. These qualification requirements for top-heavy

Chapter 4 Qualified Plans Page 13
Setting Up a Qualified Plan

There are two basic steps in setting up a qualified plan. First you adopt a written plan. Then you invest the plan assets.

You, the employer, are responsible for setting up and maintaining the plan.

If you are self-employed, it isn’t necessary to have employees besides yourself to sponsor and set up a qualified plan. If you have employees, see Participation under Qualification Rules, earlier.

Adopting a Written Plan

You must adopt a written plan. The plan can be an IRS-approved master or prototype plan offered by a sponsoring organization. Or it can be an individually designed plan.

Written plan requirement. To qualify, the plan you set up must be in writing and must be communicated to your employees. The plan’s provisions must be stated in the plan. It isn’t sufficient for the plan to merely refer to a requirement of the Internal Revenue Code.

Master or prototype plans. Most qualified plans follow a standard form of plan (a master or prototype plan) approved by the IRS. Master and prototype plans are plans made available by plan providers for adoption by employers (including self-employed individuals). Under a master plan, a single trust or custodial account is established, as part of the plan, for the joint use of all adopting employers. Under a prototype plan, a separate trust or custodial account is established for each employer.

Plan providers. The following organizations generally can provide IRS-approved master or prototype plans.

- Banks (including some savings and loan associations and federally insured credit unions).
- Trade or professional organizations.
- Insurance companies.
- Mutual funds.

Individually designed plan. If you prefer, you can set up an individually designed plan to meet specific needs. Although advance IRS approval is not required, you can apply for approval by paying a fee and requesting a determination letter. You may need professional help for this. See Rev. Proc. 2017-4, 2017-1 I.R.B. 146, available at IRS.gov/irb/2017-01_IRB/ar10.html, as annually updated, that may help you decide whether to apply for approval.

User fee. The fee mentioned earlier for requesting a determination letter doesn’t apply to employers who have 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 of compensation from the employer for the preceding year. At least one of them must be a non-highly compensated employee participating in the plan. The fee doesn’t apply to requests made by the later of the following dates:

- The end of the 5th plan year the plan is in effect.
- The end of any remedial amendment period for the plan that begins within the first 5 plan years.

The request can’t be made by the sponsor of a prototype or similar plan the sponsor intends to market to participating employers.

Investing Plan Assets

In setting up a qualified plan, you arrange how the plan’s funds will be used to build its assets.

- You can establish a trust or custodial account to invest the funds.
- You, the trust, or the custodial account can buy an annuity contract from an insurance company. Life insurance can be included only if it is incidental to the retirement benefits.

You set up a trust by a legal instrument (written document). You may need professional help to do this.

You can set up a custodial account with a bank, savings and loan association, credit union, or other person who can act as the plan trustee.

You don’t need a trust or custodial account, although you can have one, to invest the plan’s funds in annuity contracts or face-amount certificates. If anyone other than a trustee holds them, however, the contracts or certificates must state they aren’t transferable.

Other plan requirements. For information on other important plan requirements, see Qualification Rules, earlier in this chapter.

Minimum Funding Requirement

In general, if your plan is a money purchase pension plan or a defined benefit plan, you must actually pay enough into the plan to satisfy the minimum funding standard for each year. Determining the amount needed to satisfy the minimum funding standard for a defined benefit plan is complicated, and you should seek professional help in order to meet these contribution requirements. For information on this funding requirement, see section 412 and its regulations.

Quarterly installments of required contributions. If your plan is a defined benefit plan subject to the minimum funding requirements, you generally must make quarterly installment payments of the required contributions. If you don’t pay the full installments timely, you may have to pay interest on any underpayment for the period of the underpayment.

Due dates. The due dates for the installments are 15 days after the end of each quarter. For a calendar-year plan, the installments are due April 15, July 15, October 15, and January 15 (of the following year).

Installment percentage. Each quarterly installment must be 25% of the required annual payment.

Extended period for making contributions. Additional contributions required to satisfy the minimum funding requirement for a plan year will be considered timely if made by 8½ months after the end of that year.

Contributions

A qualified plan is generally funded by your contributions. However, employees participating in the plan may be permitted to make contributions, and you may be permitted to make contributions on your own behalf. See Employee Contributions and Elective Deferrals later.

Contributions deadline. You can make deductible contributions for a tax year up to the due date of your return (plus extensions) for that year.

Self-employed individual. You can make contributions on behalf of yourself only if you have net earnings (compensation) from self-employment in the trade or business for which the plan was set up. Your net earnings must be from your personal services, not from your investments. If you have a net loss from self-employment, you can’t make contributions for yourself for the year, even if you can contribute for common-law employees based on their compensation.

Employer Contributions

There are certain limits on the contributions and other annual additions you can make each year for plan participants. There are also limits on
Limits on Contributions and Benefits

Your plan must provide that contributions or benefits can’t exceed certain limits. The limits differ depending on whether your plan is a defined contribution plan or a defined benefit plan.

Defined benefit plan. For 2016, the annual benefit for a participant under a defined benefit plan can’t exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 100% of the participant’s average compensation for his or her highest 3 consecutive calendar years.
2. $210,000 ($215,000 for 2017).

Defined contribution plan. For 2016, a defined contribution plan’s annual contributions and other additions (excluding earnings) to the account of a participant can’t exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 100% of the participant’s compensation.
2. $53,000 ($54,000 for 2017).

Catch-up contributions (discussed later under Limit on Elective Deferrals) aren’t subject to the above limit.

Employee Contributions

Participants may be permitted to make nondeductible contributions to a plan in addition to your contributions. Even though these employee contributions aren’t deductible, the earnings on them are tax free until distributed in later years. Also, these contributions must satisfy the actual contribution percentage (ACP) test of section 401(m)(2), a nondiscrimination test that applies to employee contributions and matching contributions. See Regulations sections 1.401(k)-2 and 1.401(m)-2 for further guidance relating to the nondiscrimination rules under sections 401(k) and 401(m).

When Contributions Are Considered Made

You generally apply your plan contributions to the year in which you make them. But you can apply them to the previous year if all the following requirements are met:

1. You make them by the due date of your tax return for the previous year (plus extensions).
2. The plan was established by the end of the previous year.
3. The plan treats the contributions as though it had received them on the last day of the previous year.
4. You do either of the following.
   a. You specify in writing to the plan administrator or trustee that the contributions apply to the previous year.
   b. You deduct the contributions on your tax return for the previous year. A partnership shows contributions for partners on Form 1065.

Employer’s promissory note. Your promissory note made out to the plan isn’t a payment that qualifies for the deduction. Also, issuing a prohibited transaction subject to Prohibited Transactions, later.

Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals

If you make contributions for yourself, you need to make a special computation to figure your maximum deduction for these contributions. Compensation is your net earnings from self-employment, defined in chapter 1. This definition takes into account both the following items.

- The deduction for the deductible part of your self-employment tax.
- The deduction for contributions on your behalf to the plan.

The deduction for your own contributions and your net earnings depend on each other. For this reason, you determine the deduction for your own contributions indirectly by reducing the contribution rate called for in your plan. To do this, use either the Rate Table for Self-Employed or the Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5. Then figure your maximum deduction by using the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5.

Where To Deduct Contributions

Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040) or Schedule F (Form 1040); partnerships deduct them on Form 1065; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120 or Form 1120S.

Sole proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1040. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065) you get from the partnership.)

1 There were no carryovers from years before 2013.
Carryover of Excess Contributions

If you contribute more to a plan than you can deduct for the year, you can carry over and deduct the difference in later years, combined with your contributions for those years. Your combined deduction in a later year is limited to 25% of the participating employees’ compensation for that year. For purposes of this limit, a SEP is treated as a profit-sharing (defined contribution) plan. However, this percentage limit must be reduced to figure your maximum deduction for contributions you make for yourself. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals, earlier. The amount you carry over and deduct may be subject to the excise tax discussed next.

Table 4-1, earlier, illustrates the carryover of excess contributions to a profit-sharing plan.

Excise Tax for Nondeductible (Excess) Contributions

If you contribute more than your deduction limit to a retirement plan, you have made nondeductible contributions and you may be liable for an excise tax. In general, a 10% excise tax applies to nondeductible contributions made to qualified pension and profit-sharing plans and to SEPs.

Special rule for self-employed individuals.

The 10% excise tax doesn’t apply to any contribution made to meet the minimum funding requirements in a money purchase pension plan or a defined benefit plan. Even if that contribution is more than your earned income from the trade or business for which the plan is set up, the difference isn’t subject to this excise tax. See Minimum Funding Requirement, earlier.

Reporting the tax.

You must report the tax on your nondeductible contributions on Form 5330. Form 5330 includes a computation of the tax. See the separate instructions for completing the form.

Elective Deferrals (401(k) Plans)

Your qualified plan can include a cash or deferred arrangement under which participants can choose to have you contribute part of their before-tax compensation to the plan rather than receive the compensation in cash. A plan with this type of arrangement is popularly known as a “401(k) plan.” (As a self-employed individual participating in the plan, you can contribute part of your before-tax net earnings from the business.) This contribution is called an “elective deferral” because participants choose (elect) to defer receipt of the money.

In general, a qualified plan can include a cash or deferred arrangement only if the qualified plan is one of the following plans.

- A profit-sharing plan.
- A money purchase pension plan in existence on June 27, 1974, that included a salary reduction arrangement on that date.
- A partner plan. A partnership can have a 401(k) plan.
- A plan treated as a profit-sharing (defined contribution) plan.

Restriction on conditions of participation.

The plan can’t require, as a condition of participation, that an employee complete more than 1 year of service.

Matching contributions.

If your plan permits, you can make matching contributions for an employee who makes an elective deferral to your 401(k) plan. For example, the plan might provide that you will contribute 50 cents for each dollar your participating employees choose to defer under your 401(k) plan. Matching contributions are generally subject to the ACP test discussed earlier under Employee Contributions.

Non-elective contributions.

You can also make contributions (other than matching contributions) for your participating employees without giving them the choice to take cash instead. These are called non-elective contributions.

Employee compensation limit.

No more than $265,000 of the employee’s compensation can be taken into account when figuring contributions other than elective deferrals in 2016. This limit is $270,000 in 2017.

SIMPLE 401(k) plan.

If you had 100 or fewer employees who earned $5,000 or more in compensation during the preceding year, you may be able to set up a SIMPLE 401(k) plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan isn’t subject to the nondiscrimination and top-heavy plan requirements discussed earlier under Qualification Rules. For details about SIMPLE 401(k) plans, see SIMPLE 401(k) Plan in chapter 3.

Distributions.

Certain rules apply to distributions from 401(k) plans. See Distributions From 401(k) Plans, later.

Limit on Elective Deferrals

There is a limit on the amount an employee can defer each year under these plans. This limit applies without regard to community property laws. Your plan must provide that your employees can’t defer more than the limit that applies for a particular year. The basic limit on elective deferrals is $18,000 for 2016 and 2017. This limit applies to all salary reduction contributions and elective deferrals. If, in conjunction with other plans, the deferral limit is exceeded, the difference is included in the employee’s gross income.

Catch-up contributions.

A 401(k) plan can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit is $6,000 for 2016 and 2017. Elective deferrals aren’t treated as catch-up contributions for 2016 or 2017 until they exceed the $18,000 limit, the actual deferral percentage (ADP) test limit of section 401(k)(3), or the plan limit (if any). However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year can’t exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

- The catch-up contribution limit.
- The excess of the participant’s compensation over the elective deferrals that aren’t catch-up contributions.

Treatment of contributions.

Your contributions to your own 401(k) plan are generally deductible by you for the year they are contributed to the plan. Matching or nonelective contributions made to the plan are also deductible by you in the year of contribution. Your employees’ elective deferrals other than designated Roth contributions are tax free until distributed from the plan. Elective deferrals are included in wages for social security, Medicare, and federal unemployment (FUTA) tax.

Forfeiture.

Employees have a nonforfeitable right at all times to their accrued benefit attributable to elective deferrals.

Reporting on Form W-2.

Don’t include elective deferrals in the “Wages, tips, other compensation” box of Form W-2. You must, however, include them in the “Social security wages” and “Medicare wages and tips” boxes. You must also include them in box 12. Mark the “Retirement plan” checkbox in box 13. For more information, see the Form W-2 instructions.

Automatic Enrollment

Your 401(k) plan can have an automatic enrollment feature. Under this feature, you can automatically reduce an employee’s pay by a fixed percentage and contribute that amount to the 401(k) plan on his or her behalf unless the employee affirmatively chooses not to have his or her pay reduced or chooses to have it reduced by a different percentage. These contributions are elective deferrals. An automatic enrollment feature will encourage employees’ saving for retirement and will help your plan pass nondiscrimination testing (if applicable). For more information, see Publication 4674.

Eligible automatic contribution arrangement.

Under an eligible automatic contribution arrangement (EACA), a participant is treated as having elected to have the employer make contributions in an amount equal to a uniform percentage of compensation. This automatic election will remain in place until the participant specifically elects not to have such deferral percentage made (or elects a different percentage). There is no required deferral percentage.

Withdrawals.

Under an EACA, you may allow participants to withdraw their automatic contributions to the plan if certain conditions are met.

- The participant must elect the withdrawal no later than 90 days after the date of the first elective contributions under the EACA.
- The participant must withdraw the entire amount of EACA default contributions, including any earnings thereon.

If the plan allows withdrawals under the EACA, the amount of the withdrawal other than the amount of any designated Roth contributions must be included in the employee’s gross income for the tax year in which the distribution is made. The additional 10% tax on early distributions won’t apply to the distribution.
Notice requirement. Under an EACA, employees must be given written notice of the terms of the EACA within a reasonable period of time before each plan year. The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average employee and be sufficiently accurate and comprehensive in order to apprise the employee of his or her rights and obligations under the EACA. The notice must include an explanation of the employee’s right to elect not to have elective contributions made on his or her behalf, or to elect a different percentage, and the employee must be given a reasonable period of time after receipt of the notice before the first elective contribution is made. The notice also must explain how contributions will be invested in the absence of an investment election by the employee.

Qualified automatic contribution arrangement. A qualified automatic contribution arrangement (QACA) is a type of safe harbor plan. It contains an automatic enrollment feature, and mandatory employer contributions are required. If your plan includes a QACA, it won’t be subject to the ADP test (discussed later) nor the top-heavy requirements (discussed earlier). Additionally, your plan won’t be subject to the actual contribution percentage test if certain additional requirements are met. Under a QACA, each eligible employee is automatically enrolled in the plan, and such contributions are subject to special withdrawal restrictions, discussed later.

Matching or nonelective contributions. Under the terms of the QACA, you must make either matching or nonelective contributions according to the following terms.

1. Matching contributions. You must make matching contributions on behalf of each non-highly compensated employee in the following amounts.
   a. An amount equal to 100% of elective deferrals, up to 1% of compensation.
   b. An amount equal to 50% of elective deferrals, from 1% up to 6% of compensation.

Other formulas may be used as long as they are at least as favorable to non-highly compensated employees. The rate of matching contributions for highly compensated employees, including yourself, must not exceed the rates for non-highly compensated employees.

2. Nonelective contributions. You must make nonelective contributions on behalf of every non-highly compensated employee eligible to participate in the plan, regardless of whether they elected to participate, in an amount equal to at least 3% of their compensation.

Vesting requirements. All accrued benefits attributed to matching or nonelective contributions under the QACA must be 100% vested for all employees who complete 2 years of service. These contributions are subject to special withdrawal restrictions, discussed later.

Notice requirements. Each employee eligible to participate in the QACA must receive written notice of their rights and obligations under the QACA, within a reasonable period before each plan year. The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average employee, and it must be accurate and comprehensive. The notice must explain their right to elect not to have elective contributions made on their behalf, or to have contributions made at a different percentage than the default percentage. Additionally, the notice must explain how contributions will be invested in the absence of any investment election by the employee. The employee must have a reasonable period of time after receiving the notice to make such contribution and investment elections prior to the first contributions under the QACA.

Treatment of Excess Deferrals

If the total of an employee’s deferrals is more than the limit for 2016, the employer may disqualify the plan, of the amount to be paid from each plan, of the amount to be paid from each plan, of the amount to be paid from each plan. The plan must then pay the employee that amount, plus earnings on the amount through the end of 2016, and April 15, 2017.

Excess withdrawn by April 15. If the employee takes out the excess deferral by April 15, 2017, it isn’t reported again by including it in the employee’s gross income for 2017. However, any income earned in 2016 on the excess deferral taken out is taxable in the tax year in which it is taken out. The distribution isn’t subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions.

If the employee takes out part of the excess deferral and the income on it, the distribution is treated as made proportionately from the excess deferral and the income. Even if the employee takes out the excess deferral by April 15, the amount will be considered for purposes of nondiscrimination testing requirements of the plan, unless the distributed amount is for a non-highly compensated employee who participates in only one employer’s 401(k) plan or plans.

Excess not withdrawn by April 15. If the employee doesn’t take out the excess deferral by April 15, 2017, the excess, though taxable in 2016, isn’t included in the employee’s cost basis in figuring the taxable amount of any eventual distributions under the plan. In effect, an excess deferral left in the plan is taxed twice, once when contributed and again when distributed. Also, if the employee’s excess deferral is allowed to stay in the plan and the employee participates in no other employer’s plan, the plan can be disqualified.

Reporting corrective distributions on Form 1099-R. Report corrective distributions of excess deferrals (including any earnings) on Form 1099-R. For specific information about reporting corrective distributions, see the Instructions for Forms 1099-R and 5498.}

Tax on excess contributions of highly compensated employees. The law provides tests to detect discrimination in a plan. If tests, such as the actual deferral percentage test (ADP test) (see section 401(k)(3)) and the actual contribution percentage test (see section 401(m)(2)), show that contributions for highly compensated employees are more than the test limits for these contributions, the employer may have to pay a 10% excise tax. Report the tax on Form 5330. The ADP test doesn’t apply to a safe harbor 401(k) plan (discussed next) nor to a QACA. Also, the ACP test doesn’t apply to these plans if certain additional requirements are met.

The tax for the year is 10% of the excess contributions for the plan year ending in your tax year. Excess contributions are elective deferrals, employee contributions, or employer matching or nonelective contributions that are more than the amount permitted under the ADP test or the ACP test. See Regulations sections 1.401(k)-2 and 1.401(m)-2 for further guidance relating to the nondiscrimination rules under sections 401(k) and 401(m).

If the plan fails the ADP or ACP testing, and the failure isn’t corrected by the end of the next plan year, the plan can be disqualified.

Safe harbor 401(k) plan.

If you meet the requirements for a safe harbor 401(k) plan, you don’t have to satisfy the ADP test, nor the ACP test, if certain additional requirements are met. For your plan to be a safe harbor plan, you must meet the following conditions.

1. Matching or nonelective contributions. You must make matching or nonelective contributions according to the following formulas.
   a. Matching contributions. You must make matching contributions according to the following rules.
      i. You must contribute an amount equal to 100% of each non-highly compensated employee’s elective deferrals, up to 3% of compensation.

Chapter 4 Qualified Plans Page 17
ii. You must contribute an amount equal to 50% of each non-highly compensated employee’s elective deferrals, from 3% up to 5% of compensation.

iii. The rate of matching contributions for highly compensated employees, including yourself, must not exceed the rates for non-highly compensated employees.

b. Nonelective contributions. You must make nonelective contributions, without regard to whether the employee made elective deferrals, on behalf of all non-highly compensated employees eligible to participate in the plan, equal to at least 3% of the employee’s compensation.

These mandatory matching and nonelective contributions must be immediately 100% vested and are subject to special withdrawal restrictions.

2. Notice requirement. You must give eligible employees written notice of their rights and obligations with regard to contributions under the plan, within a reasonable period before the plan year.

The other requirements for a 401(k) plan, including withholding and vesting rules, must also be met for your plan to qualify as a safe harbor 401(k) plan.

Qualified Roth Contribution Program

Under this program, an eligible employee can designate all or a portion of his or her elective deferrals as after-tax Roth contributions. Elective deferrals designated as Roth contributions must be maintained in a separate Roth account. However, unlike other elective deferrals, designated Roth contributions aren’t excluded from employees’ gross income, but qualified distributions from a Roth account are excluded from employees’ gross income.

Elective Deferrals

Under a qualified Roth contribution program, the amount of elective deferrals that an employee may designate as a Roth contribution is limited to the maximum amount of elective deferrals excludable from gross income for the year (for 2016 and 2017, $18,000 if under age 50 and $24,000 if age 50 or over) less the total amount of the employee’s elective deferrals not designated as Roth contributions.

Designated Roth contributions are treated the same as pre-tax elective deferrals for most purposes, including:
- The annual individual elective deferral limit (total of all designated Roth contributions and traditional, pre-tax elective deferrals) of $18,000 for 2016 and 2017, with an additional $6,000 if age 50 or over;
- Determining the maximum employee and employer annual contributions of the lesser of 100% of compensation or $53,000 for 2016 ($54,000 for 2017);
- Nondiscrimination testing;
- Required distributions; and
- Elective deferrals not taken into account for purposes of deduction limits.

Qualified Distributions

A qualified distribution is a distribution that is made after the employee’s nonexclusion period and:
- On or after the employee attains age 59½;
- On account of the employee’s being disabled, or
- On or after the employee’s death.

An employee’s nonexclusion period for a plan is the 5-tax-year period beginning with the earlier of the following tax years:
- The first tax year in which the employee made a contribution to his or her Roth account in the plan, or
- If a rollover contribution was made to the employee’s designated Roth account from a designated Roth account previously established for the employee under another plan, then the first tax year the employee made a designated Roth contribution to the previously established account.

Rollover. A rollover from another account can be made to a designated Roth account in the same plan. For additional information on these in-plan Roth rollovers, see Notice 2010-64, 2010-51 I.R.B. 872, available at IRS.gov/irb/2010-51_IRB/ar11.html, and Notice 2013-74, 2013-52 I.R.B. 819, available at IRS.gov/pub/irs-irb/irb13-52.pdf. A distribution from a designated Roth account can only be rolled over to another designated Roth account or a Roth IRA. Rollover amounts don’t apply toward the annual deferral limit.

Reporting Requirements

You must report a contribution to a Roth account on Form W-2 and a distribution from a Roth account on Form 1099-R. See the Form W-2 and 1099-R instructions for detailed information.

Distributions

Amounts paid to plan participants from a qualified plan are called distributions. Distributions may be nonperiodic, such as lump-sum distributions, or periodic, such as annuity payments. Also, certain loans may be treated as distributions. See Loans Treated as Distributions in Publication 575.

Required Distributions

A qualified plan must provide that each participant will either:
- Receive his or her entire interest (benefits) in the plan by the required beginning date (defined later), or
- Begin receiving regular periodic distributions by the required beginning date in annual amounts calculated to distribute the participant’s entire interest (benefits) over his or her life expectancy or over the joint life expectancy of the participant and the designated beneficiary (or over a shorter period).

These distribution rules apply individually to each qualified plan. You can’t satisfy the requirement for one plan by taking a distribution from another. The plan must provide that these rules override any inconsistent distribution options previously offered.

Minimum distribution. If the account balance of a qualified plan participant is to be distributed (other than as an annuity), the plan administrator must figure the minimum amount required to be distributed each distribution calendar year. This minimum is figured by dividing the account balance by the applicable life expectancy. The plan administrator can use the life expectancy tables in Publication 590-B for this purpose. For more information on figuring the minimum distribution, see Tax on Excess Accumulation in Publication 575.

Required beginning date. Generally, each participant must receive his or her entire benefits in the plan or begin to receive periodic distributions of benefits from the plan by the required beginning date.

A participant must begin to receive distributions from his or her qualified retirement plan by April 1 of the first year after the later of the following years:
1. Calendar year in which he or she reaches age 70½.
2. Calendar year in which he or she retires from employment with the employer maintaining the plan.

However, the plan may require the participant to begin receiving distributions by April 1 of the year after the participant reaches age 70½ even if the participant has not retired.

If the participant is a 5% owner of the employer maintaining the plan, the participant must begin receiving distributions by April 1 of the first year after the calendar year in which the participant reached age 70½. For more information, see Tax on Excess Accumulation in Publication 575.

Distribution after the starting year. The distribution required to be made by April 1 is treated as a distribution for the starting year. (The starting year is the year in which the participant meets (1) or (2) above, whichever applies.) After the starting year, the participant must receive the required distribution for each year by December 31 of that year. If no distribution is made in the starting year, required distributions for 2 years must be made in the next year (one by April 1 and one by December 31).

Distribution after participant’s death. See Publication 575 for the special rules covering distributions made after the death of a participant.
Distributions From 401(k) Plans

Generally, distributions can't be made until one of the following occurs:

- The employee retires, dies, becomes disabled, or otherwise ceases employment.
- The plan ends and no other defined contribution plan is established or continued.
- In the case of a 401(k) plan that is part of a profit-sharing plan, the employee reaches age 59½ or suffers financial hardship. For the rules on hardship distributions, including the limits on them, see Regulations section 1.401(k)-1(d).
- The employee becomes eligible for a qualified reservist distribution (defined next).

Certain distributions listed above may be subject to the tax on early distributions discussed later.

Qualified reservist distributions. A qualified reservist distribution is a distribution from an IRA or an elective deferral account made after September 11, 2001, to a military reservist or a member of the National Guard who has been called to active duty for at least 180 days or for an indefinite period. All or part of a qualified reservist distribution can be recontributed to an IRA. The additional 10% tax on early distributions doesn't apply to a qualified reservist distribution.

Tax Treatment of Distributions

Distributions from a qualified plan minus a pro-rated part of any cost basis are subject to income tax in the year they are distributed. Since most recipients have no cost basis, a distribution is generally fully taxable. An exception is a distribution if it isn't directly transferred to an IRA as discussed under Rollover, next.

The tax treatment of distributions depends on whether they are made periodically over several years or life (periodic distributions) or on nonperiodic distributions. See Taxation of Periodic Payments and Taxation of Nonperiodic Payments in Publication 575 for a detailed description of how distributions are taxed, including the 10-year tax option or capital gain treatment of a lump-sum distribution.

Note. A recipient of a distribution from a designated Roth account will have a cost basis since designated Roth contributions are made on an after-tax basis. Also, a distribution from a designated Roth account is entirely tax-free if certain conditions are met. See Qualified distributions under Qualified Roth Contribution Program, earlier.

Rollover. The recipient of an eligible rollover distribution from a qualified plan can defer the tax on it by rolling it over into a traditional IRA or another eligible retirement plan. However, it may be subject to withholding as discussed under Withholding requirement, later. A rollover can also be made to a Roth IRA, in which case any previously untaxed amounts are includible in gross income unless the rollover is from a designated Roth account.

Eligible rollover distribution. This is a distribution of all or any part of an employee's balance in a qualified retirement plan that isn't any of the following:

1. A required minimum distribution. See Required Distributions, earlier.
2. Any of a series of substantially equal payments made at least once a year over any of the following periods.
   a. The employee's life or life expectancy.
   b. The joint lives or life expectancies of the employee and beneficiary.
   c. A period of 10 years or longer.
3. A hardship distribution.
4. The portion of a distribution that represents the return of an employee's nondeductible contributions to the plan. See Employee Contributions, earlier, and Rollover of nontaxable amounts, next.
5. Loans treated as distributions.
6. Dividends on employer securities.
7. The cost of any life insurance coverage provided under a qualified retirement plan.
8. Similar items designated by the IRS in published guidance. See, for example, the Instructions for Forms 1099-R and 5498.

Rollover of nontaxable amounts. You may be able to roll over the nontaxable part of a distribution to another qualified retirement plan or a section 403(b) plan, or to an IRA. If the rollover is to a qualified retirement plan or a section 403(b) plan that separately accounts for the taxable and nontaxable parts of the rollover, the transfer must be made through a direct (trustee-to-trustee) rollover. If the rollover is to an IRA, the transfer can be made by any rollover method.

Note. A distribution from a designated Roth account can be rolled over to another designated Roth account or to a Roth IRA. If the rollover is to a Roth IRA, it can be rolled over by any rollover method, but if the rollover is to another designated Roth account, it must be rolled over directly (trustee-to-trustee).

Withholding requirement. If, during a year, a qualified plan pays to a participant one or more eligible rollover distributions (defined earlier) that are reasonably expected to total $200 or more, the payor must withhold 20% of the taxable portion of each distribution for federal income tax.

Exceptions. If, instead of having the distribution paid to him or her, the participant chooses to have the plan pay it directly to an IRA or another eligible retirement plan (a direct rollover), no withholding is required.

If the distribution isn't an eligible rollover distribution, defined earlier, the 20% withholding requirement doesn't apply. Other withholding rules apply to distributions that aren't eligible rollover distributions, such as long-term periodic distributions and required distributions (periodic or nonperiodic). However, the participant can choose not to have tax withheld from these distributions. If the participant doesn't make this choice, the following withholding rules apply.

- For periodic distributions, withholding is based on their treatment as wages.
- For nonperiodic distributions, 10% of the taxable part is withheld.

Estimated tax payments. If no income tax is withheld or not enough tax is withheld, the recipient of a distribution may have to make estimated tax payments. For more information, see Withholding Tax and Estimated Tax in Publication 575.

Section 402(f) Notice. If a distribution is an eligible rollover distribution, as defined earlier, you must provide a written notice to the recipient that explains the following rules regarding such distributions.

1. That the distribution may be directly transferred to an eligible retirement plan and information about which distributions are eligible for this direct transfer.
2. That tax will be withheld from the distribution if it isn't directly transferred to an eligible retirement plan.
3. That the distribution won't be subject to tax if transferred to an eligible retirement plan within 60 days after the date the recipient receives the distribution.
4. Certain other rules that may be applicable.

Timing of notice. The notice generally must be provided no less than 30 days and no more than 180 days before the date of a distribution.

Method of notice. The written notice must be provided individually to each distributee of an eligible rollover distribution. Posting of the notice isn't sufficient. However, the written requirement may be satisfied through the use of electronic media if certain additional conditions are met. See Regulations section 1.401(a)-21.

Tax on failure to give notice. Failure to give a 402(f) notice will result in a tax of $100 for each failure, with a total not exceeding $50,000 per calendar year. The tax won't be imposed if it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Chapter 4 Qualified Plans Page 19
Tax on Early Distributions

If a distribution is made to an employee under the plan before he or she reaches age 59⅓, the employer may have to pay a 10% additional tax on the distribution. This tax applies to the amount received that the employee must include in income.

Exceptions. The 10% tax won’t apply if distributions before age 59⅓ are made in any of the following circumstances.

- Made to a beneficiary (or to the estate of the employee) on or after the death of the employee.
- Made due to the employee having a qualifying disability.
- Made as part of a series of substantially equal periodic payments beginning after separation from service and made at least annually for the life or life expectancy of the employee or the joint lives or life expectancies of the employee and his or her designated beneficiary. (The payments under this exception, except in the case of death or disability, must continue for at least 5 years or until the employee reaches age 59⅓, whichever is the longer period.)
- Made to an employee after separation from service if the separation occurred during or after the calendar year in which the employee reached age 55.
- Made to an alternate payee under a QDRO.
- Made to an employee for medical care up to the amount allowable as a medical expense deduction (determined without regard to whether the employee itemizes deductions).
- Timely made to reduce excess contributions under a 401(k) plan.
- Timely made to reduce excess employee or matching employer contributions (excess aggregate contributions).
- Timely made to reduce excess elective deferrals.
- Made because of an IRS levy on the plan.
- Made as a qualified reservist distribution.
- Made as a permissible withdrawal from an EACA.

Reporting the tax. To report the tax on early distributions, file Form 5330. See the form instructions for additional information about this tax.

Tax on Excess Benefits

If you are or have been a 5% owner of the business maintaining the plan, amounts you receive the plan before he or she reaches age 59⅓, the employee may have to pay a 10% additional tax on the distribution. This tax applies to the amount received that the employee must include in income.

Lump-sum distribution. The amount subject to the additional tax isn’t eligible for the optional methods of figuring income tax on a lump-sum distribution. The optional methods are discussed under Lump-Sum Distributions in Publication 575.

Excise Tax on Reversion of Plan Assets

A 20% or 50% excise tax is generally imposed on the cash and fair market value of other property an employer receives directly or indirectly from a qualified plan. If you owe this tax, report it on Schedule I of Form 5330. See the form instructions for more information.

Notification of Significant Benefit Accrual Reduction

An employer or the plan will have to pay an excise tax if both the following occur.

- A defined benefit plan or money purchase plan is amended to provide for a significant reduction in the rate of future benefit accrual.
- The plan administrator fails to notify the affected individuals and the employee organizations representing them of the reduction in writing.

A plan amendment that eliminates or reduces any early retirement benefit or retirement-type subsidy reduces the rate of future benefit accrual.

The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average plan participant and must provide enough information to allow each individual to understand the effect of the plan amendment. It must be provided within a reasonable time before the amendment takes effect.

The tax is $100 per participant or alternate payee for each day the notice is late, the total tax can’t be more than $500,000 during the tax year. It is imposed on the employer, or, in the case of a multi-employer plan, on the plan.

Prohibited Transactions

Prohibited transactions are transactions between the plan and a disqualified person that are prohibited by law. (However, see Exception, next.) If you are a disqualified person who takes part in a prohibited transaction, you must pay a tax (discussed later).

Prohibited transactions generally include the following transactions.

1. A transfer of plan income or assets to, or use of them by or for the benefit of, a disqualified person.
2. Any act of a fiduciary by which he or she deals with plan income or assets in his or her own interest.
3. The receipt of consideration by a fiduciary for his or her own account from any party dealing with the plan in a transaction that involves plan income or assets.

4. Any of the following acts between the plan and a disqualified person.
   a. Selling, exchanging, or leasing property.
   b. Lending money or extending credit.
   c. Furnishing goods, services, or facilities.

Exemption. Certain transactions are exempt from being treated as prohibited transactions. For example, a prohibited transaction doesn’t take place if you are a disqualified person and receive any benefit to which you are entitled as a plan participant or beneficiary. However, the benefit must be figured and paid under the same terms as for all other participants and beneficiaries. For other transactions that are exempt, see section 4975 and the related regulations.

Disqualified person. You are a disqualified person if you are any of the following.

1. A fiduciary of the plan.
2. A person providing services to the plan.
3. An employer, any of whose employees are covered by the plan.
4. An employee organization, any of whose members are covered by the plan.
5. Any direct or indirect owner of 50% or more of any of the following.
   a. The combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote, or the total value of shares of all classes of stock of a corporation that is an employer or employee organization described in (3) or (4).
   b. The capital interest or profits interest of a trust or unincorporated enterprise that is an employer or employee organization described in (3) or (4).
   c. The beneficial interest of a trust or unincorporated enterprise that is an employer or employee organization described in (3) or (4).
6. A member of the family of any individual described in (1), (2), (3), or (5). (A member of a family is the spouse, ancestor, lineal descendant, or any spouse of a lineal descendant.)
7. A corporation, partnership, trust, or estate of which (or in which) any direct or indirect owner described in (1) through (5) holds 50% or more of any of the following.
   a. The combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or the total value of shares of all classes of stock of a corporation.
   b. The capital interest or profits interest of a partnership.
   c. The beneficial interest of a trust or estate.
8. An officer, director (or an individual having powers or responsibilities similar to those of officers or directors), a 10% or more shareholder, or highly compensated employee (earning 10% or more of the yearly wages of an employer) of a person described in (3), (4), (5), or (7).

9. A 10% or more (in capital or profits) partner or joint venturer of a person described in (3), (4), (5), or (7).

10. Any disqualified person, as described in (1) through (9) above, who is a disqualified person with respect to any plan to which a section 501(c)(22) trust is permitted to make payments under section 4223 of ERISA.

Tax on Prohibited Transactions

The initial tax on a prohibited transaction is 15% of the amount involved for each year (or part of a year) in the taxable period. If the transaction isn't corrected within the taxable period, an additional tax of 100% of the amount involved is imposed. For information on correcting the transaction, see Correcting a prohibited transaction, later.

Both taxes are payable by any disqualified person who participated in the transaction (other than a fiduciary acting only as such). If more than one person takes part in the transaction, each person can be jointly and severally liable for the entire tax.

Amount involved. The amount involved in a prohibited transaction is the greater of the following amounts.

- The money and fair market value of any property given.
- The money and fair market value of any property received.

If services are performed, the amount involved is any excess compensation given or received.

Taxable period. The taxable period starts on the transaction date and ends on the earliest of the following days.

- The day the IRS mails a notice of deficiency for the 100% tax to correct the transaction. This correction period (the taxable period plus the 90 days) can be extended if either of the following occurs.
  - The IRS grants reasonable time needed to correct the transaction.
  - You petition the Tax Court.

If you correct the transaction within this period, the IRS will abate, credit, or refund the 100% tax.

Reporting Requirements

You may have to file an annual return/report form by the last day of the 7th month after the plan year ends. See the following list of forms to choose the right form for your plan.

Form 5500-SF. Form 5500-SF is a simplified annual reporting form. You can use Form 5500-SF if the plan meets all the following conditions.

- The plan is a small plan (generally fewer than 100 participants at the beginning of the plan year).
- The plan meets the conditions for being exempt from the requirements that the plan's books and records be audited by an independent qualified public accountant.
- The plan has 100% of its assets invested in certain secure investments with a readily determinable fair value.
- The plan holds no employer securities.
- The plan isn't a multiemployer plan.

If your plan is required to file an annual return/report but isn't eligible to file Form 5500-SF, the plan must file Form 5500 or Form 5500-EZ, as appropriate. For more details, see the Instructions for Form 5500-SF.

Form 5500-EZ. You may be able to use Form 5500-EZ if the plan is a one-participant plan, as defined below.

One-participant plan. Your plan is a one-participant plan if either of the following is true.

- The plan covers only you (or you and your spouse) and you (or you and your spouse) own the entire business (whether incorporated or unincorporated).
- The plan covers only one or more partners (or partner(s) and spouse(s)) in a business partnership.

A one-participant plan may not file an annual return on Form 5500 for 2016. Every one-participant plan required to file an annual return for 2016 must file either Form 5500-EZ or Form 5500-SF. See the Instructions for Form 5500-EZ.

Form 5500-EZ not required. If your one-participant plan (or plans) had total assets of $250,000 or less at the end of the plan year, then you don't have to file Form 5500-EZ for that plan year. All plans should file a Form 5500-EZ for the final plan year to show that all plan assets have been distributed.

Example. You are a sole proprietor and your plan meets all the conditions for filing Form 5500-EZ. The total plan assets are more than $250,000. You must file Form 5500-EZ or Form 5500-SF.

All one-participant plans should file Form 5500-EZ for their final plan year. The final plan year is the year in which distribution of all plan assets is completed.

Form 5500. If you don't meet the requirements for filing Form 5500-EZ or Form 5500-SF and a return/report is required, you must file Form 5500.

Electronic filing of Forms 5500 and 5500-SF. All Forms 5500 and 5500-SF are required to be filed electronically with the Department of Labor through EFAST2. “One-participant” plans have the option of filing Form 5500-SF electronically rather than filing a Form 5500-EZ on paper with the IRS. For more information, see the Instructions for Forms 5500 and 5500-SF available at efast.dol.gov.

Form 5310. If you terminate your plan and are the plan sponsor or plan administrator, you can file Form 5310. Your application must be accompanied by the appropriate user fee and Form 8717.

Form 8955-SSA. Form 8955-SSA is used to report participants who are no longer covered by the plan but have a deferred vested benefit under the plan. Form 8955-SSA is filed with the IRS and can be filed electronically through the FIRE (Filing Information Returns Electronically) system.

More information. For more information about reporting requirements, see the forms and their instructions.
As discussed in chapters 2 and 4, if you are self-employed, you must use the rate table or rate worksheet to figure your deduction for contributions you made for yourself to a SEP-IRA or qualified plan. First, use either the rate table or rate worksheet to find your reduced contribution rate. Then complete the deduction worksheet to figure your deduction for contributions.

The table and the worksheets in chapter 5 apply only to self-employed individuals who have only one defined contribution plan, such as a profit-sharing plan. A SEP plan is treated as a profit-sharing plan. However, don’t use this worksheet for SAR-SEPs.

Rate table for self-employed. If your plan’s contribution rate is a whole percentage (for example, 12% rather than 12.5%), you can use the Rate Table for Self-Employed on the next page to find your reduced contribution rate. Otherwise, use the Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed provided below.

First, find your plan contribution rate (the contribution rate stated in your plan) in Column A of the table. Then read across to the rate under Column B. Enter the rate from Column B in step 4 of the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Example. You are a sole proprietor with no employees. If your plan’s contribution rate is 10% of a participant’s compensation, your rate is 0.090909. Enter this rate in step 4 of the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Rate worksheet for self-employed. If your plan’s contribution rate isn’t a whole percentage (for example, 10.9%), you can’t use the Rate Table for Self-Employed. Use the following worksheet instead.

Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed

1) Plan contribution rate as a decimal (for example, 10.9% = 0.1095) ................................................

2) Rate in line 1 plus 1 (for example, 0.105 + 1 = 1.105) .................................................................

3) Self-employed as a decimal rounded to at least 3 decimal places (line 1 ÷ line 2) (for example, 0.105 ÷ 1.105 = 0.095) ..............................................................

Next: Enter your actual contribution, not to exceed your maximum deductible contribution, on Form 1040, line 28.

Figuring your deduction. Now that you have your self-employed rate from either the rate table or rate worksheet, you can figure your maximum deduction for contributions for yourself by completing the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed.

Community property laws. If you reside in a community property state and you are married and filing a separate return, disregard community property laws for step 1 of the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed. Enter on step 1 the total net profit you actually earned.

*The deduction for annual employer contributions (other than elective deferrals) to a SEP plan, a profit-sharing plan, or a money purchase plan can't be more than 20% of your net earnings (figured without deducting contributions for yourself) from the business that has the plan.

Example. You are a sole proprietor with no employees. The terms of your plan provide that you contribute 8½% (0.085) of your compensation to your plan. Your net profit from line 31, Schedule C (Form 1040) is $200,000. You have no elective deferrals or catch-up contributions. Your self-employment tax deduction on line 27 of Form 1040 is $10,025. See the filled-in portion of Schedule SE (Form 1040), Self-Employment Income, and Form 1040, later.

You figure your self-employed rate and maximum deduction for employer contributions you made for yourself as follows.

See the filled-in Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed

Step 1

Enter your net profit from line 31, Schedule C (Form 1040); line 3, Schedule C-EZ (Form 1040); line 34, Schedule F (Form 1040); or box 14, code A, Schedule K-1 (Form 1065). For information on other income included in net profit from self-employment, see the Instructions for Schedule SE, Form 1040. $200,000.

*Reduce this amount by any amount reported on Schedule SE (Form 1040), line 1b. General partners should reduce this amount by the same additional expenses subtracted from box 14, code A to determine the amount on line 1 or 2 of Schedule SE.

Step 2

Enter your deduction for self-employment tax from Form 1040, line 27 10,025.

Step 3

Net earnings from self-employment. Subtract step 2 from step 1 189,975.

Step 4

Enter your rate from the Rate Table for Self-Employed or Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed 0.078.

Step 5

Multiply step 3 by step 4 14,818.

Step 6

Multiply $265,000 by your plan contribution rate (not the reduced rate) 22,525.

Step 7

Enter the smaller of step 5 or step 6 14,818.

Step 8

Contribution dollar limit 53,000.

Step 9

Enter your allowable elective deferrals (including designated Roth contributions) made to your self-employed plan for the 2016 plan year. Don't enter more than $18,000 N/A.

Step 10

Subtract step 9 from step 8 38,182.

Step 11

Subtract step 9 from step 3 30,328.

Step 12

Section A—Short Schedule SE.   Caution. Read above to see if you can use Short Schedule SE.

1a Net farm profit or (loss) from Schedule F, line 34, and farm partnerships, Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), box 14, code A.

1b If you received social security retirement or disability benefits, enter the amount of Conservation Reserve Program payments included on Schedule F, line 4b, or listed on Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), box 20, code Z.

2 Net profit or (loss) from Schedule C, line 31; Schedule C-EZ, line 3; Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), box 14, code A (other than farming); and Schedule K-1 (Form 1065-B), box 9, code J1. Ministers and members of religious orders, see instructions for types of income to report on this line. See instructions for other income to report.

3 Combine lines 1a, 1b, and 2.

4 Multiply line 3 by 92.35% (0.9235). If less than $400, you don't owe self-employment tax; don't file this schedule unless you have an amount on line 1b.

Note. If line 4 is less than $400 due to Conservation Reserve Program payments on line 1b, see instructions.

5 Self-employment tax. If the amount on line 4 is:
   • $118,500 or less, multiply line 4 by 15.3% (0.153). Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 57, or Form 1040NR, line 55.
   • More than $118,500, multiply line 4 by 2.9% (0.029). Then, add $14,694 to the result.

Enter the total here and on Form 1040, line 57, or Form 1040NR, line 55.

6 Deduction for one-half of self-employment tax.

Multiply line 5 by 50% (0.50). Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 27, or Form 1040NR, line 27.

6. How To Get Tax Help

If you have questions about a tax issue, need help preparing your tax return, or want to download free publications, forms, or instructions, go to IRS.gov and find resources that can help you right away.

Preparing and filing your tax return. Find free options to prepare and file your return on IRS.gov or in your local community if you qualify.

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program offers free tax help to people who generally make $54,000 or less, persons with disabilities, the elderly, and limited-English-speaking taxpayers who need help preparing their own tax returns. The Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) program offers free tax help for all taxpayers, particularly those who are 60 years of age and older. TCE volunteers specialize in answering questions about pensions and retirement-related issues unique to seniors. You can go to IRS.gov and click on the Filing tab to see your options for preparing and filing your return which include the following.

- Free File. Go to IRS.gov/freefile. See if you qualify to use brand-name software to prepare and e-file your federal tax return for free.
- VITA. Go to IRS.gov/vita, download the free IRS2Go app, or call 1-800-906-9887 to find the nearest VITA location for free tax preparation.
- TCE. Go to IRS.gov/tce, download the free IRS2Go app, or call 1-888-227-7669 to find the nearest TCE location for free tax preparation.

Getting answers to your tax law questions. On IRS.gov get answers to your tax questions anytime, anywhere.

- Go to IRS.gov/help or IRS.gov/letshelp pages for a variety of tools that will help you get answers to some of the most common tax questions.
- Go to IRS.gov/vita for the Interactive Tax Assistant, a tool that will ask you questions on a number of tax law topics and provide answers. You can print the entire interview and the final response for your records.
- Go to IRS.gov/pub17 to get Pub. 17, Your Federal Income Tax for Individuals, which features details on tax-saving opportunities, 2016 tax changes, and thousands of interactive links to help you find answers to your questions. View it online in HTML or as a PDF, or, better yet, download it to your mobile device to enjoy eBook features.
- You may also be able to access tax law information in your electronic filing software.

Getting tax forms and publications. Go to IRS.gov/forms to view, download, or print all of the forms and publications you may need. You can also download and view popular tax publications and instructions (including the 1040 instructions) on mobile devices as an eBook at no charge. Or, you can go to IRS.gov/orderforms to place an order and have forms mailed to you within 10 business days.

Using direct deposit. The fastest way to receive a tax refund is to combine direct deposit and IRS e-file. Direct deposit securely and electronically transfers your refund directly into your financial account. Eight in 10 taxpayers use direct deposit to receive their refund. IRS issues more than 90% of refunds in less than 21 days.

Delayed refund for returns claiming certain credits. Due to changes in the law, the IRS can’t issue refunds before February 15, 2017, for returns that claim the earned income credit (EIC) or the additional child tax credit (ACTC). This applies to the entire refund, not just the portion associated with these credits.

Getting a transcript or copy of a return. The quickest way to get a copy of your tax transcript is to go to IRS.gov/transcripts. Click on either “Get Transcript Online” or “Get Transcript by Mail” to order a copy of your transcript. If you prefer, you can:

- Order your transcript by calling 1-800-908-9946.
- Mail Form 4506-T or Form 4506T-EZ (both available on IRS.gov).

Using online tools to help prepare your return. Go to IRS.gov/tools for the following.

- The Earned Income Tax Credit Assistant (IRS.gov/eic) determines if you are eligible for the EIC.
- The Online EIN Application (IRS.gov/ein) helps you get an employer identification number.
- The IRS Withholding Calculator (IRS.gov/w4app) estimates the amount you should have withheld from your paycheck for federal income tax purposes.
- The First Time Homebuyer Credit Account Look-up (IRS.gov/homebuyer) tool provides information on your repayments and account balance.
- The Sales Tax Deduction Calculator (IRS.gov/sales_tax) figures the amount you can claim if you itemize deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040), choose not to claim state and local income taxes, and you didn’t save your receipts showing the sales tax you paid.

Resolving tax-related identity theft issues. The IRS doesn’t initiate contact with taxpayers by email or telephone to request personal or financial information. This includes any type of electronic communication, such as text messages and social media channels.

- Go to IRS.gov/idprotection for information and videos.
- If your SSN has been lost or stolen or you suspect you are a victim of tax-related identity theft, visit IRS.gov/id to learn what steps you should take.

Checking on the status of your refund. Go to IRS.gov/refunds.

- Due to changes in the law, the IRS can’t issue refunds before February 15, 2017, for returns that claim the EIC or the ACTC. This applies to the entire refund, not just the portion associated with these credits.
- Download the official IRS2Go app to your mobile device to check your refund status.
- Call the automated refund hotline at 1-800-829-1954.

Making a tax payment. The IRS uses the latest encryption technology to ensure your electronic payments are safe and secure. You can make electronic payments online, by phone, and from a mobile device using the IRS2Go app. Paying electronically is quick, easy, and faster than mailing in a check or money order. Go to IRS.gov/payments to make a tax payment using any of the following options.

- IRS Direct Pay: Pay your individual tax bill or estimated tax payment directly from your checking or savings account at no cost to you.
- Debit or credit card: Choose an approved payment processor to pay online, by phone, and by mobile device.
- Electronic Funds Withdrawal: Offered only when filing your federal taxes using tax preparation software or through a tax professional.
- Electronic Federal Tax Payment System: Best option for businesses. Enrollment is required.
- Check or money order: Mail your payment to the address listed on the notice or instructions.
- Cash: If cash is your only option, you may be able to pay your taxes at a participating retail store.

What if I can’t pay now? Go to IRS.gov/payments for more information about your options.

- Apply for an online payment agreement (IRS.gov/opa) to meet your tax obligation in monthly installments if you can’t pay your taxes in full today. Once you complete the online process, you will receive immediate notification of whether your agreement has been approved.
- Use the Offer in Compromise Pre-Qualifier (IRS.gov/ocz) to see if you can settle your tax debt for less than the full amount you owe.

Checking the status of an amended return. Go to IRS.gov and click on Where’s My Amended Return? (IRS.gov/wmar) under the “Tools” bar to track the status of Form 1040X amended returns. Please note that it can take up to 3 weeks from the date you mailed your amended return for it show up in our system and processing it can take up to 16 weeks.

Understanding an IRS notice or letter. Go to IRS.gov/notices to find additional information about responding to an IRS notice or letter.

Contacting your local IRS office. Keep in mind, many questions can be resolved on IRS.gov without visiting an IRS Tax Assistance Center (TAC). Go to IRS.gov/letshelp for the topics people ask about most. If you still need help, IRS TACs provide tax help when a tax issue can’t be handled online or by phone. All TACs now provide service by appointment so you’ll know in advance that you can get the service you need without waiting. Before you visit, go to IRS.gov/taclocator to find the nearest TAC, check hours, available services, and appointment options. Or, on the IRS2Go app, under the Stay Connected tab, choose the Contact Us option and click on “Local Offices.”

Watching IRS videos. The IRS Video portal (IRSvideos.gov) contains video and audio presentations for individuals, small businesses, and tax professionals.

Getting tax information in other languages. For taxpayers whose native language isn’t English, we have the following resources available. Taxpayers can find information on IRS.gov in the following languages.
- Spanish (IRS.gov/spanish)
- Chinese (IRS.gov/chinese)
- Vietnamese (IRS.gov/vietnamese)
- Korean (IRS.gov/korean)
- Russian (IRS.gov/russian)

The IRS TACs provide over-the-phone interpreter service in over 170 languages, and the service is available free to taxpayers.

The Taxpayer Advocate Service Is Here To Help You

What is the Taxpayer Advocate Service? The Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) is an independent organization within the Internal Revenue Service that helps taxpayers and protects taxpayer rights. Our job is to ensure that every taxpayer is treated fairly and that you know and understand your rights under the Taxpayer Bill of Rights.

What Can the Taxpayer Advocate Service Do For You? We can help you resolve problems that you can’t resolve with the IRS. And our service is free. If you qualify for our assistance, you will be assigned to one advocate who will work with you throughout the process and will do everything possible to resolve your issue. TAS can help you if:
- Your problem is causing financial difficulty for you, your family, or your business;
- You face (or your business is facing) an immediate threat of adverse action; or
- You’ve tried repeatedly to contact the IRS but no one has responded, or the IRS hasn’t responded by the date promised.

How Can You Reach Us? We have offices in every state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Your local advocate’s number is in your local directory and at taxpayeradvocate.irs.gov. You can also call us at 1-877-777-4778.

How Can You Learn About Your Taxpayer Rights? The Taxpayer Bill of Rights describes ten basic rights that all taxpayers have when dealing with the IRS. Our Tax Toolkit at taxpayeradvocate.irs.gov can help you understand what these rights mean to you and how they apply. These are your rights. Know them. Use them.

How Else Does the Taxpayer Advocate Service Help Taxpayers? TAS works to resolve large-scale problems that affect many taxpayers. If you know of one of these broad issues, please report it to us at irs.gov/sams.

Low Income Taxpayer Clinics

Low Income Taxpayer Clinics (LITCs) serve individuals whose income is below a certain level and need to resolve tax problems such as audits, appeals, and tax collection disputes. Some clinics can provide information about taxpayer rights and responsibilities in different languages for individuals who speak English as a second language. To find a clinic near you, visit IRS.gov/litc or see IRS Publication 4134, Low Income Taxpayer Clinic List.
