What’s New

2019 ABLE account changes on IRS.gov. This publication is for use in preparing your 2018 returns. For changes affecting your 2019 return, such as the contribution limit, go to IRS.gov/Pub907 for those updates.

Annual contribution limit. For 2018, the maximum amount that can be contributed to your ABLE account is increased to $15,000. See Contribution limitation, later.

Credit for qualified retirement savings contributions (saver’s credit). Beginning with 2018, you may qualify for the credit for qualified retirement savings contributions (also known as the saver’s credit) based on contributions you make to your ABLE account. The credit can reduce the amount of tax you owe or increase your refund. See Credit for Qualified Retirement Savings Contribution, later. Also, see Form 8880, Credit for Qualified Retirement Savings Contributions.

Introduction

An ABLE account. The Stephen Beck, Jr., Achieving a Better Life Experience Act of 2014 (ABLE) was enacted to help blind or disabled people save money in a tax-favored ABLE account to maintain health, independence, and quality of life. Compare ABLE programs on the websites of state governments to see which program is best suited for you. See ABLE Account, later.

My Social Security account. Social security beneficiaries can obtain helpful information from the Social Security Administration’s website with a my Social Security account. See Social Security and Railroad Retirement Benefits, later.

This publication concerns people with disabilities and those who care for them. It includes highlights about:

- Income,
- Itemized deductions,
- Tax credits,
- Household employers,
- Business tax incentives, and
- ABLE accounts.

You will find most of the information you need to complete your tax return in its instructions.

Income

All income is taxable unless it is specifically excluded by law. The following discussions highlight some taxable and nontaxable income items. For information about distributions from an ABLE account, see ABLE Account, later.

Dependent Care Benefits

Dependent care benefits include the following:

- Amounts your employer paid directly to you or your care provider for the care of your qualifying person(s) while you worked.
- The fair market value of care in a daycare facility provided or sponsored by your employer.
- Pre-tax contributions you made under a dependent care flexible spending arrangement.

Exclusion or deduction. If your employer provides dependent care benefits under a qualified plan, you may be able to exclude these benefits from your income. Your employer can tell you whether your benefit plan qualifies. To claim the exclusion, you must complete Part III of Form 2441, Child and Dependent Care Expenses. You cannot use Form 1040EZ.

If you are self-employed and receive benefits from a qualified dependent care benefit plan, you are treated as both employer and employee. Therefore, you would not get an exclusion from wages. Instead, you would get a deduction on one of the following Form 1040 schedules: Schedule C, line 14; Schedule E, line 19 or 28; or Schedule F, line 15. To claim the deduction, you must use Form 2441.

The amount you can exclude or deduct is limited to the smallest of the following.

1. The total amount of dependent care benefits you received during the year.
2. The total amount of qualified expenses you incurred during the year.
3. Your earned income.
4. Your spouse’s earned income.
5. $5,000 ($2,500 if married filing separately).

Statement for employee. Your employer must give you a Form W-2 (or similar statement), showing in box 10 the total amount of dependent care benefits provided to you during the year under a qualified plan. Your employer will also include any dependent care benefits over $5,000 in your wages shown on your Form W-2 in box 1.

Qualifying person(s). A qualifying person is any of the following:

- A qualifying child who is under age 13 whom you can claim as a dependent. If the child turned 13 during the year, the child is a qualifying person for the part of the year he or she was under age 13.
- Your disabled spouse who is not physically or mentally able to care for themselves.
- Any disabled person who was not physically or mentally able to care for themselves whom you can claim as a dependent (or could claim as a dependent except that the person had gross income of $4,150 or more or filed a joint return).
- Any disabled person who was not physically or mentally able to care for themselves whom you could claim as a dependent except that you (or your spouse if filing jointly) could be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer’s 2018 return.

For information about excluding benefits on Form 1040 or Form 1040NR, see Form 2441 and its instructions.

- Get a letter with proof of your benefits if you currently receive them.
- Change your address.
- Start or change your direct deposit.
- Get a replacement Medicare card.
• Get a replacement SSA-1099 or SSA-1042S for the tax season.

For more information and to set up an account, go to SocialSecurity.gov/MyAccount.

If you received social security or equivalent Tier 1 railroad retirement (RRTA) benefits during the year, part of the amount you received may be taxable.

Are any of your benefits taxable? If the only income you received during the year was your social security or equivalent Tier 1 RRTA benefits, your benefits generally are not taxable.

If you received income during the year in addition to social security or equivalent Tier 1 RRTA benefits, part of your benefits may be taxable if all of your other income, including tax-exempt interest, plus half of your benefits are more than:

- $25,000 if you are single, head of household, or qualifying widow(er);
- $25,000 if you are married filing separately and lived apart from your spouse for all of 2018;
- $32,000 if you are married filing jointly; or
- $-0- if you are married filing separately and lived with your spouse at any time during 2018.

For more information, see the instructions for Form 1040, lines 5a and 5b, and Pub. 915, Social Security and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits.

Supplemental security income (SSI) payments. Social security benefits do not include SSI payments, which are not taxable. Do not include these payments in your income.

Disability Pensions

If you retired on disability, you must include in income any disability pension you receive under a plan that is paid for by your employer. You must report your taxable disability payments as wages on line 1 of Form 1040 until you reach minimum retirement age. Minimum retirement age generally is the age at which you can first receive a pension or annuity if you are not disabled.

You may be entitled to a tax credit if you were permanently and totally disabled when you retired. See Pub. 524, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Beginning on the day after you reach minimum retirement age, payments you receive are taxable as a pension or annuity. Report the payments on Form 1040, lines 4a and 4b. See Pub. 575, Pension and Annuity Income.

Terrorist attacks. Do not include in your income disability payments you receive for injuries incurred as a direct result of terrorist attacks directed against the United States (or its allies), whether outside or within the United States. However, you must include in your income any amounts that you received that you would have received in retirement had you not become disabled as a result of a terrorist attack.

Contact the company or agency making these payments if it incorrectly reports your payments as taxable income to the IRS on Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., to request that it reissue the form to report some or all of these payments as nontaxable income on Form W-2, box 12 (under code J), or Form 1099-R, box 1, but not in box 2a. If income taxes are being incorrectly withheld from these payments, you may also submit Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments, to the company or agency to stop the withholding of income taxes from the payments.

Disability payments you receive for injuries not incurred as a direct result of a terrorist attack, or for illnesses or diseases not resulting from an injury incurred as a direct result of a terrorist attack, cannot be excluded from your income under this provision, but may be excludable for other reasons as described in this publication.

Retirement and profit-sharing plans. If you receive payments from a retirement or profit-sharing plan that does not provide for disability retirement, do not treat the payments as a disability pension. The payments must be reported as a pension or annuity.

Accrued leave payment. If you retire on disability, any lump-sum payment you receive for accrued annual leave is a salary payment. The payment is not a disability payment. Include it in your income in the tax year you receive it.

See Pub. 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income.

Military and Government Disability Pensions

Generally, you must report disability pensions as income, but do not include certain military and government disability pensions. See Pub. 525.

VA disability benefits. Do not include disability benefits you receive from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) in your gross income. If you are a military retiree and do not receive your disability benefits from the VA, see Pub. 525 for more information.

Do not include in your income any veterans' benefits paid under any law, regulation, or administrative practice administered by the VA. These include:

- Education, training, and subsistence allowances;
- Disability compensation and pension payments for disabilities paid to veterans or their families;
- Grants for homes designed for wheelchair living;
- Grants for motor vehicles for veterans who lost their sight or the use of their limbs;
• Veterans' insurance proceeds and dividends paid to veterans or their beneficiaries, including the proceeds of a veteran's endowment policy paid before death;
• Interest on insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA;
• Benefits under a dependent-care assistance program;
• The death gratuity paid to a survivor of a member of the Armed Forces who died after September 10, 2001; or
• Payments made under the VA's compensated work therapy program.

Other Payments
You may receive other payments that are related to your disability. The following payments are not taxable.
• Benefit payments from a public welfare fund, such as payments due to blindness.
• Workers' compensation for an occupational sickness or injury if paid under a workers' compensation act or similar law.
• Compensatory (but not punitive) damages for physical injury or physical sickness.
• Disability benefits under a "no-fault" car insurance policy for loss of income or earning capacity as a result of injuries.
• Compensation for permanent loss or loss of use of a part or function of your body, or for your permanent disfigurement.

Long-Term Care Insurance
Long-term care insurance contracts generally are treated as accident and health insurance contracts. Amounts you receive from them (other than policyholder dividends or premium refunds) generally are excludable from income as amounts received for personal injury or sickness. See Pub. 525.

Accelerated Death Benefits
You can exclude from income accelerated death benefits you receive on the life of an insured individual if certain requirements are met. Accelerated death benefits are amounts received under a life insurance contract before the death of the insured. These benefits also include amounts received on the sale or assignment of the contract to a viatical settlement provider. This exclusion applies only if the insured was a terminally ill individual or a chronically ill individual. See Pub. 525.

Itemized Deductions
If you file Form 1040, to lower your taxable income you generally can claim the standard deduction or itemize your deductions, such as medical expenses, using Schedule A (Form 1040). For impairment-related work expenses, use the appropriate business form (1040 Schedules C, C-EZ, E, and F; Form 2106, Employee Business Expenses).

Medical Expenses
When figuring your deduction for medical expenses, you can generally include medical and dental expenses you pay for yourself, your spouse, and your dependents.

Medical expenses are the cost of diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease, and the costs for treatments affecting any part or function of the body. They include the costs of equipment, supplies, diagnostic devices, and transportation for needed medical care and payments for medical insurance.

You can deduct only the amount of your medical and dental expenses that is more than 7.5% of your adjusted gross income shown on Form 1040, line 7.

The following list highlights some of the medical expenses you can include in figuring your medical expense deduction.
• Artificial limbs, contact lenses, eyeglasses, and hearing aids.
• The part of the cost of Braille books and magazines that is more than the price of regular printed editions.
• Cost and repair of special telephone equipment for hearing-impaired persons.
• Cost of a wheelchair used mainly for the relief of sickness or disability, and not just to provide transportation to and from work. The cost of operating and maintaining the wheelchair is also a medical expense.
• Cost and care of a guide dog or other animal aiding a person with a physical disability.
• Costs for a school that furnishes special education if a principal reason for using the school is its resources for relieving a mental or physical disability. This includes the cost of teaching Braille and lip reading and the cost of remedial language training to correct a condition caused by a birth defect.
• Premiums for qualified long-term care insurance, up to certain amounts.
• Improvements to a home that do not increase its value if the main purpose is medical care. An example is constructing entrance or exit ramps.

Improvements that increase a home's value, if the main purpose is medical care, may be partly included as a medical expense. See Pub. 502, Medical and Dental Expenses.

Impairment-Related Work Expenses
If you are disabled, you can take a business deduction for expenses that are necessary for you to be able to work. If you take a business deduction for these impairment-related work expenses, they are not subject to the 7.5% limit that applies to medical expenses.

You are disabled if you have:

- A physical or mental disability (for example, blindness or deafness) that functionally limits your being employed; or
- A physical or mental impairment (including, but not limited to, a sight or hearing impairment) that substantially limits one or more of your major life activities, such as performing manual tasks, walking, speaking, breathing, learning, or working.

Impairment-related expenses defined. Impairment-related expenses are those ordinary and necessary business expenses that are:

- Necessary for you to do your work satisfactorily;
- For goods and services not required or used, other than incidentally, in your personal activities; and
- Not specifically covered under other income tax laws.

See Pub. 502.

Tax Credits

This discussion highlights four tax credits which may lower your tax due and may be refundable.

Child and Dependent Care Credit

If you pay someone to care for your dependent under age 13 or your spouse or dependent who is not able to care for themselves, you may be able to get a credit of up to 35% of your expenses. To qualify, you must pay these expenses so you can work or look for work. The care must be provided for:

1. Your qualifying child who is your dependent and who was under age 13 when the care was provided;
2. Your spouse who was not physically or mentally able to care for themselves and lived with you for more than half the year; or
3. A person who was not physically or mentally able to care for themselves, lived with you for more than half the year, and either:
   a. Was your dependent, or
   b. Would have been your dependent except that:
      i. He or she received gross income of $4,150 or more,
      ii. He or she filed a joint return, or
      iii. You, or your spouse if filing jointly, could be claimed as a dependent on someone else's 2018 return.

You can claim the credit on Form 1040. You figure the credit on Schedule R, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

You may be able to claim this credit if you are a U.S. citizen or a resident alien and either of the following applies.

- You were 65 or older at the end of 2018.
- You were under 65 at the end of 2018, and retired on permanent or total disability.

You can claim the credit on Form 1040. You figure the credit on Schedule R, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Earned Income Credit

This credit is for people who work and have a qualifying child or who meet other qualifications. You can get the credit if your adjusted gross income for 2018 is less than:

- $15,270 ($20,950 for married filing jointly) if you do not have a qualifying child,
- $40,320 ($46,010 for married filing jointly) if you have one qualifying child,
- $45,802 ($51,492 for married filing jointly) if you have two qualifying children, or
- $49,194 ($54,884 for married filing jointly) if you have three or more qualifying children.

To figure the credit, use the worksheet in the instructions for Form 1040. If you have a qualifying child, also complete Schedule EIC, Earned Income Credit, and attach it to your Form 1040.

Qualifying child. To be a qualifying child, your child must be younger than you (or your spouse if married filing jointly) and under age 19 or a full-time student under age 24 at the end of 2018, or permanently and totally disabled at any time during 2018, regardless of age.

Earned income. If you are retired on disability, benefits you receive under your employer's disability retirement plan are considered earned income until you reach minimum retirement age. However, payments you received from a disability insurance policy that you paid the premiums for are not earned income.

More information. For more information, including all the requirements to claim the earned income credit, see the instructions for Form 1040, line 17a, and Pub. 596, Earned Income Credit.
Credit for Qualified Retirement Savings Contribution

You may be able to claim the credit for qualified savings contributions (also known as the saver’s credit) of up to $1,000 (up to $2,000 if filing jointly) if you make eligible contributions to your ABLE account. This is a nonrefundable credit, which means the amount of the credit in any year can’t be more than your tax that you would otherwise pay (not counting any refundable credits) for any tax year. If your tax liability is reduced to zero because of other nonrefundable credits, such as the credit for child and dependent care expenses, then you won’t be entitled to this credit.

Can you claim the credit? If you make eligible contributions to your ABLE account, you can claim the credit if all of the following apply.

1. You were born before January 2, 2001.
2. You aren’t a Full-time student (explained later).
3. No one else, such as your parent(s), claim an exemption for you on their tax return.
4. Your adjusted gross income (defined below) isn’t more than:
   a. $63,000 if your filing status is married filing jointly;
   b. $47,250 if your filing status is head of household; or
   c. $31,500 if your filing status is single, married filing separately, or qualified widow(er).

Full-time student. You’re a full-time student if, during some part of each of 5 calendar months (not necessarily consecutive) during the calendar year, you’re either:

- A full-time student at a school that has a regular teaching staff, course of study, and regularly enrolled body of students in attendance; or
- A student taking a full-time, on-farm training course given by either a school that has a regular teaching staff, course of study, and regularly enrolled body of students in attendance, or a state, county, or local government.

You’re a full-time student if you’re enrolled for the number of hours or courses the school considers to be full time.

Adjusted gross income. This is generally the amount on your 2018 Form 1040, line 7; or your 2018 Form 1040NR, line 36. However, you must add to that any exclusion or deduction claimed for the year for:

- Foreign earned income,
- Income from bona fide residents of American Samoa, and
- Income from Puerto Rico.

Eligible contributions. Include your contributions made before 2026 to your ABLE account, as defined in section 529A, up to the annual contribution limit.

Reducing eligible contributions. Reduce your eligible contributions (but not below zero) by the total distributions you received during the Testing period from any ABLE account. Don’t reduce your eligible contributions by the portion of any distribution which is rolled over to another ABLE account.

Distributions received by spouse. Any distributions your spouse received are treated as received by you if you file a joint return with your spouse both for the year of the distribution and for the year for which you claim the credit.

Testing period. The testing period consists of the year for which you claim the credit, the period after the end of that year and before the due date (including extensions) for filing your return for that year, and the 2 tax years before that year.

Maximum eligible contributions. After your contributions are reduced, the maximum annual contribution on which you can base the credit is $2,000 per person.

Effect on other credits. The amount of this credit won’t change the amount of your refundable tax credits. A refundable tax credit, such as the earned income credit or the refundable amount of your child tax credit, is an amount that you would receive as a refund even if you don’t owe any taxes.

More information on how to figure and report the credit. See Form 8880 to determine your credit.

Household Employers

If you pay someone to work in your home, such as a babysitter or housekeeper, you may be a household employer who has to pay employment taxes.

A person you hire through an agency is not your employee if the agency controls what work is done and how it is done. This control could include setting the fee, requiring regular reports, and providing rules of conduct and appearance. In this case, you do not have to pay employment taxes on the amount you pay. But if you control what work is done and how it is done, the worker is your employee. If you possess the right to discharge a worker, that worker is generally considered to be your employee. If a worker is your employee, it does not matter that you hired the worker through an agency or from a list provided by an agency.

To find out if you have to pay employment taxes, see Pub. 926, Household Employer’s Tax Guide.
Business Tax Incentives

If you own or operate a business, or you are looking for work, you should be aware of the following tax incentives for businesses to help persons with disabilities.

- Deduction for costs of removing barriers to the disabled and the elderly—This is a deduction a business can take for making a facility or public transportation vehicle more accessible to and usable by persons who are disabled or elderly. See chapter 7 of Pub. 535, Business Expenses.

- Disabled access credit—This is a nonrefundable tax credit for an eligible small business that pays or incurs expenses to provide access to persons with disabilities. The expenses must be to enable the eligible small business to comply with the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990. See Form 8826, Disabled Access Credit.

- Work opportunity credit—This credit provides businesses with an incentive to hire individuals from targeted groups that have a particularly high unemployment rate or other special employment needs. One targeted group consists of vocational rehabilitation referrals. These are individuals who have a physical or mental disability that results in a substantial handicap to employment. See Form 5884, Work Opportunity Credit.

ABLE Account

Overview. Compare ABLE programs on the websites of state governments to see which program is best suited for you.

- An ABLE account is a tax-favored savings account that can accept contributions for an eligible blind or disabled individual who is the designated beneficiary and owner of the account. The account is used to provide for qualified disability expenses.

- An ABLE account is disregarded for purposes of determining eligibility for benefits under Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and certain other means-tested federal programs. For further information, go to SSA.gov.

- A designated beneficiary is limited to only one ABLE account at a time (for exceptions, see Program-to-program transfer and Rollover, later).

- Earnings in an ABLE account aren’t taxed unless a distribution exceeds a designated beneficiary’s qualified disability expenses. A designated beneficiary doesn’t include distributions for qualified disability expenses in their income. Qualified disability expenses include any expenses incurred at a time when the designated beneficiary is an eligible individual. The expenses must relate to blindness or disability, including expenses for maintaining or improving health, independence, or quality of life.

- Contributions to an ABLE account are not tax deductible and must be in cash or cash equivalents. Anyone, including the designated beneficiary, can contribute to an ABLE account. An ABLE account is subject to an annual contribution limit and a cumulative balance limit.

- Upon your death, as a designated beneficiary, any state may file a claim (either with the person with signature authority over your ABLE account or the executor of your estate) for the amount of the total medical assistance paid to you under the state’s Medicaid plan after you (or a person with authority to open an ABLE account on your behalf) established an ABLE account. The amount paid in satisfaction of such a claim is not a taxable distribution from your ABLE account. Further, this amount is paid to the state only after all your qualified disability expenses have been paid from your ABLE account and the amount paid to satisfy the state’s claim is reduced by the amount of all premiums you paid to a Medicaid Buy-In program under that state’s Medicaid plan.

Who can establish an ABLE account and what are the requirements? You may establish an ABLE account if your blindness or disability occurred before age 26. As a disabled individual, you may be eligible if either of the following applies.

- You are entitled to benefits based on blindness or disability under Title II or XVI of the Social Security Act.

- You file a disability certification with your qualified ABLE program, including your diagnosis relating to your relevant impairment or impairments signed by a physician (as defined in section 1861(r) of the Social Security Act). You must certify one of the following.
  - You have a medically determinable physical or mental impairment which results in marked and severe functional limitations, which (a) can be expected to result in death, or (b) lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.
  - You are blind within the meaning of section 1614(a)(2) of the Social Security Act.

If you’re unable to establish an ABLE account, your agent, under a power of attorney, or if none, your parent or legal guardian can establish it for you. But only you, the designated beneficiary, can have any interest in the account during your lifetime.

Loss of eligible individual status. If you establish an ABLE account and later cease to be an eligible individual because, for example, your impairment goes into remission, then beginning the first day of the next year no contributions may be accepted by your ABLE account. If you cease to be an eligible individual, then for each tax year in which you are not an eligible individual, the account will continue to be an ABLE account, and the ABLE account will not be deemed to be distributed. Contributions may resume after the impairment recurs. You should notify your ABLE program of any changes in your eligibility status.
Distributions from your ABLE account during a period you’re no longer an eligible individual aren’t for qualified disability expenses and therefore are possibly subject to tax. The earnings portion of a distribution (determined under section 72) made from your ABLE account to you when you’re no longer an eligible individual may be taxable.

Example. In 2018, Adam is an eligible individual with $2,400 in his ABLE account. $2,000 of this is from contributions, and $400 is earnings. During 2018, Adam’s disability goes into remission and he is no longer an eligible individual. In 2019, a distribution of $2,400 is made to Adam from the ABLE account while he is still not an eligible individual. The earnings portion, $400, is included in Adam’s gross income after the calculation in Table 1.

Contribution limitation. The total annual contributions to an ABLE account (including amounts rolled over from a section 529 account, but not other amounts received in rollovers and/or program-to-program transfers between ABLE accounts) are limited to the annual gift tax exclusion amount ($15,000 for 2018), plus certain employed ABLE account beneficiaries may make an additional contribution up to the lesser of these amounts: (1) the designated beneficiary’s compensation for the tax year, or (2) the poverty line amount of $12,140 in the continental U.S., $13,960 in Hawaii and $15,180 in Alaska. An employed designated beneficiary isn’t eligible for the increased contribution limit for the taxable year if any contribution is made on behalf of the employee to a qualified defined contribution plan (within the meaning of section 414(i)), a section 403(b) plan, or a section 457(b) plan. Also, contributions may not exceed an annual cumulative limit, which is the same as the state’s section 529 qualified tuition program limit.

What if amounts contributed to your ABLE account are greater than the annual contribution limit? If amounts contributed to your ABLE account are greater than the annual contribution limit, the excess contributions and the earnings on those contributions must be returned to the contributors. The ABLE program should do this on or before the due date of your income tax return, which is generally April 15 (including extensions), and must notify you of this action. However, it is your responsibility or the responsibility of the person acting on your behalf to ensure that certain contributions of your compensation income are not greater than the limit and to request the return of any excess contributions by the ABLE program.

You’re subject to a 6% excise tax on the excess contributions and earnings that aren’t returned by the ABLE program to the contributors by the due date (including extensions) of your income tax return. You figure this tax on Form 5329, Part VIII, and file it even if you’re not otherwise required to file a federal income tax return.

What if your ABLE account exceeds the cumulative limit? The cumulative limit for an ABLE account is set by each state’s ABLE program. If your ABLE account exceeds the cumulative limit, the state’s ABLE program will return to the contributors the contributions that caused your account to go over the limit, and notify you of this action by the due date of your income tax return, which is generally April 15 (including extensions).

Distributions. You can take distributions from your ABLE account to pay for any qualified disability expenses such as expenses for maintaining or improving your health, independence, or quality of life. Qualified disability expenses include those for education, housing, transportation, employment training and support, assistive technology, personal support services, health, prevention and wellness, financial management, administrative services, legal fees, expenses for oversight and monitoring, and funeral and burial expenses.

If distributions from your ABLE account during a year aren't more than your qualified disability expenses for that year, no amount is taxable for that year. If the total amount distributed during a year is more than your qualified disability expenses for that year, the earnings portion of the distribution is included in your income for that year, after the calculation in Table 1.

Table 1. Figuring the Taxable Portion of a Distribution

Example. On August 2, 2019, Dora’s ABLE account has a balance of $2,400; $2,000 is from contributions and $400 is earnings. During 2019, Dora has qualified disability expenses of $1,600, but she receives distributions from her ABLE account totaling $2,400 on August 2, 2019. She figures the nontaxable part of her earnings portion as follows.

Dora will include the difference of $133.33 ($400 – $266.67) in her gross income for 2019.

The tax on any distribution included in your taxable income is increased by 10%. Figure this tax on Form 5329, Part II, and file it even if you’re not otherwise required to file a federal income tax return.

Rollovers, program-to-program transfers, and beneficiary changes. If you need to move your ABLE account to another qualified ABLE program because of a change in residency or to change the designated beneficiary of the account, you can accomplish this through a rollover. If the ABLE program permits, funds can move from one ABLE account to another through a direct program-to-program transfer.
Rollover. You don’t include in your gross income any amount distributed to you from your ABLE account if it’s rolled over within 60 days to another ABLE account established for you or for an eligible family member and no other rollover has been made within the previous 12 months. Eligible family member means a sibling only, whether by blood or by adoption, and includes a brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, half-brother, and half-sister.

Program-to-program transfer. The entire balance of your ABLE account can be transferred by your ABLE program to another ABLE program if, for example, you move from one state to another. You can also have your ABLE program transfer all or part of the balance in your account to an eligible family member. If the entire balance is transferred, your first ABLE account is closed after the transfer is complete. A program-to-program transfer isn’t a distribution so you don’t include any of the transferred amount in your gross income.

Change of designated beneficiary. Your ABLE program may permit you to change the beneficiary of your ABLE account from yourself to one of your siblings if your sibling is an eligible individual for the tax year in which you make the change.

Rollover from section 529 tuition account to section 529A ABLE account. After December 22, 2017, rollovers may be made without penalty from a section 529 tuition account to a section 529A ABLE account if the beneficiary of the ABLE account is the designated beneficiary of the tuition account or is an eligible family member. The annual contributions to an ABLE account, discussed above in Contribution limitation, applies to these rollovers.

Information returns for ABLE accounts. You may receive from your ABLE program the following forms which you can use if you need to file an income tax return.

Form 1099-QA, Distributions From ABLE Accounts. An ABLE program issues this form to you to report all distributions made from your ABLE account.

Form 5498-QA, ABLE Account Contribution Information. An ABLE program issues this form to you annually to report contributions (including rollovers), fair market value of the account, opening of a new account, certification of a qualified account, and your disability code.

If you have any questions about the amounts on these forms, you should contact your ABLE program administrator.

The Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) Is Here To Help You

What is TAS?

TAS is an independent organization within the IRS that helps taxpayers and protects taxpayer rights. Their job is to ensure that every taxpayer is treated fairly and that you know and understand your rights under the Taxpayer Bill of Rights.

How Can You Learn About Your Taxpayer Rights?

The Taxpayer Bill of Rights describes 10 basic rights that all taxpayers have when dealing with the IRS. Go to TaxpayerAdvocate.IRS.gov to help you understand what these rights mean to you and how they apply. These are your rights. Know them. Use them.

What Can TAS Do For You?

TAS can help you resolve problems that you can’t resolve with the IRS. And their service is free. If you qualify for their assistance, you will be assigned to one advocate who will work with you throughout the process and will do everything possible to resolve your issue. TAS can help you if:

- Your problem is causing financial difficulty for you, your family, or your business;
- You face (or your business is facing) an immediate threat of adverse action; or
- You’ve tried repeatedly to contact the IRS but no one has responded, or the IRS hasn’t responded by the date promised.

How Can You Reach TAS?

TAS has offices in every state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Your local advocate’s number is in your local directory and at TaxpayerAdvocate.IRS.gov/Contact-Us. You can also call them at 877-777-4778.

How Else Does TAS Help Taxpayers?

TAS works to resolve large-scale problems that affect many taxpayers. If you know of one of these broad issues, please report it to them at IRS.gov/SAMS.

TAS also has a website, Tax Reform Changes, which shows you how the new tax law may change your future tax filings and helps you plan for these changes. The information is categorized by tax topic in the order of the IRS Form 1040. Go to TaxChanges.us for more information.

Low Income Taxpayer Clinics (LITCs)

LITCs are independent from the IRS. LITCs represent individuals whose income is below a certain level and need to resolve tax problems with the IRS, such as audits, appeals, and tax collection disputes. In addition, clinics can provide information about taxpayer rights and responsibilities in different languages for individuals who speak English as a second language. Services are offered for free or a small fee. To find a clinic near you, visit TaxpayerAdvocate.IRS.gov/LITCmap or see IRS Pub. 4134, Low Income Taxpayer Clinic List.
