- Recordkeeping 33 min.
- Learning about the law or the form 5 min.
- Preparing the form 25 min.
- Copying, assembling, and sending the form to IRS 17 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form more simple, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to either IRS or the Office of Management and Budget at the addresses listed in the Instructions for Form 1040.

Purpose

If you qualify, use Form 4563 to figure the amount of income you can exclude.

Who Qualifies

You qualify for the exclusion if you were a bona fide resident of American Samoa during all of 1989 (see Bona Fide Residence Test on page 2).

Note: Bona fide residents of Guam will qualify for the exclusion effective January 1, 1991 (or earlier if the two governments agree). In future years, bona fide residents of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI) may also qualify for the exclusion. They will not qualify, however, unless an implementation agreement is in effect between the CNMI and the United States. At the time this form went to print, the CNMI had not entered into an implementation agreement.

Bona Fide Residence Test.—To qualify under this test you must be a bona fide resident of American Samoa for an uninterrupted period that includes a complete tax year (January 1–December 31, if you file a calendar year return).

No specific rule determines whether you are a bona fide resident of American Samoa. At the time this form went to print, regulations were being written defining the bona fide residence test under section 931. The following factors may be considered:

- Intent;
- Establishment of a permanent home;
- Assimilation into the social, cultural, and economic environment; and
- Physical presence.

Other factors that may be considered are the nature, extent and reasons for temporary absences; assumption of economic burdens and payment of taxes to American Samoa; existence of other homes outside American Samoa; and place of employment.

What Income Can Be Excluded

If you qualify, you can exclude the following:

- Income received from sources in American Samoa, Guam, and the CNMI; and
- Income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in those possessions.

Get Pub. 570, Tax Guide for Individuals in U.S. Possessions, for information on how to determine the source of income.

Employees of the United States.—Amounts paid to you for services you performed as an employee of the U.S. Government or any of its agencies cannot be excluded. This rule applies to both civilian and military employees.

Income You Must Report on Form 1040

Even if you qualify for the exclusion, you must still report on Form 1040 your worldwide income (less the exclusion allowed by this form). This includes all income you received during 1989 that does not qualify for the exclusion. The source of that income does not matter.

Deductions and Credits You May Not Take on Form 1040

If you claim the exclusion, you may not take any deduction or credit on Form 1040 that is definitely related to the excluded income.

Deductions and credits that are not definitely related to any particular type of income must be allocated between your excludable income and your other income to find the amount you can claim on Form 1040. Examples of deductions that are not definitely related to any particular type of income are the standard deduction and certain itemized deductions (such as medical expenses, charitable contributions, and real estate taxes and mortgage interest on your personal residence).

For more information, including how to figure the amount allocable to the excluded income, see Pub. 570.

Note: You can take a deduction for each exemption you are entitled to claim. This deduction is not considered allocable to the excluded income.

Self-Employed Individuals

If you were self-employed and your net earnings from self-employment were $400 or more, you will generally have to pay self-employment tax on those earnings even though you can exclude them from your gross income. Use Schedule SE (Form 1040) to figure any self-employment tax due.

Where To File

Mail your return to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255, U.S.A.

Note: If you do not qualify for the exclusion, follow the Instructions for Form 1040. Report all your taxable income, including income from U.S., foreign, and possession sources. File your return with the Internal Revenue Service Center shown in the Form 1040 Instructions for the place where you live.
