Preparing the form	17 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form more simple, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Internal Revenue Service, Washington, DC 20224, Attention: IRS Reports Clearance Officer, T:FP; or the Office of Management and Budget, Paperwork Reduction Project (1545-1151), Washington, DC 20503.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form.— If you cashed Series EE savings bonds that were issued after 1989 and you paid qualified higher education expenses during the year, you may be able to exclude from income part or all the interest on those bonds.

You can use Form 8818 to keep a record of the post-1989 Series EE savings bonds you cash. You will need the information asked for on Form 8818 to complete Form 8815, which you will use to figure the amount of interest you can exclude from your income when you file your income tax return. Beginning in 1990, the instructions for your tax return will tell you how to take the exclusion. The 1990 Form 8815 will be available from IRS in early 1991.

Each time you cash Series EE Bonds that were issued after 1989, use a separate Form 8818. If you choose not to use Form 8818 but intend to exclude the interest from your income, you should keep records that include the information asked for on this form.

Series EE Bonds That Qualify for Exclusion.—To qualify for the exclusion, the bonds must have been issued after 1989 in your name, or, if you are married, they may be issued in your name and your spouse's name. Also, you must have been age 24 or older when the bonds were issued. As a result, a bond bought by a parent and issued in the name of his or her child who is under age 24 will not qualify for the exclusion.

Qualified Higher Education Expenses.—Generally, qualified higher education expenses include tuition and fees, but not room and board, required for the enrollment or attendance at a college, university, or vocational education school. The expenses must be for you, your spouse, or your dependent.

Additional Information.—For more information about the exclusion, including limits that apply to the amount that may be excluded, see Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses.

Step-by-Step Instructions

Step 1

Before you cash your bonds, separate the bonds issued after 1989 from the bonds issued before 1990. For each bond issued after 1989, enter the information asked for in columns (a), (b), and (c) of line 1. Then, add the amounts in column (c) and enter the total on line 2.

Step 2

Next, cash your bonds and enter on line 3 the total proceeds only from the bonds issued after 1989. Be sure to get this figure from the teller.

Step 3

Divide the amount on line 2 by 2 and enter the result on line 4. This is your cost of the bonds.

Step 4

Subtract line 4 from line 3, and enter the result on line 5. This is the interest you may be able to exclude from your income. See Form 8815 for details.

Keep Form 8818 for your records. Do not send it to IRS.
