The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is:

- Recordkeeping: 1 hr., 5 min.
- Learning about the law or the form: 7 min.
- Preparing the form: 32 min.
- Copying, assembling, and sending the form to IRS: 20 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form more simple, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to both the IRS and the Office of Management and Budget at the addresses listed in the instructions for Form 1040.

Purpose of Form
Use Form 3903 if you moved to a new principal workplace within the United States or its possessions and you qualify to deduct your moving expenses.

Note: Use Form 3903F, Foreign Moving Expenses, instead of this form if you are a U.S. citizen or resident alien who moved to a new principal workplace outside the United States or its possessions.

Additional Information
For more information about moving expenses, please get Pub. 521, Moving Expenses.

Who May Deduct
If you moved to a different home because of a change in the location of your job, you may be able to deduct your moving expenses. You may qualify for a deduction whether you are self-employed or an employee. However, you must meet certain tests explained in the next column.

Distance Test.—Your new principal place of work (workplace) must be at least 35 miles farther from your old home than your old workplace was. For example, if your old workplace was 3 miles from your old home, your new workplace must be at least 38 miles from that home. If you did not have an old workplace, your new workplace must be at least 35 miles from your old home. (The distance between two points is the shortest of the more commonly traveled routes between the points.)

Time Test.—If you are an employee, you must work full time in the general area of your new workplace for at least 39 weeks during the 12 months right after you move. If you are self-employed, you must work full time in the general area of your new workplace, for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months and a total of at least 78 weeks during the 24 months right after you move.

You may deduct your moving expenses for 1990 only if you have not met the time test before your 1990 return is due. You may do this if you expect to meet the 39-week test by the end of 1991 or the 78-week test by the end of 1992. If you have not met the test by then, you will have to do one of the following:

- Amend your 1990 tax return on which you deducted moving expenses. To do this, use Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return; or
- In the year you cannot meet the test, report as income on your tax return the amount of your 1990 moving expense deduction that reduced your 1990 income tax. For more information, see Time Test in Pub. 521.

If you do not deduct your moving expenses on your 1990 return and you later meet the time test, you may take the deduction by filing an amended return for 1990. To do this, use Form 1040X.

Exceptions to the Distance and Time Tests.—You do not have to meet the time test in case of death, if your job ends because of disability, if you are transferred for your employer’s benefit, or if you are laid off or discharged for a reason other than willful misconduct.

You do not have to meet the time test if you meet the requirements for retirees or survivors living outside the United States, as explained on this page.

If you are in the armed forces, you do not have to meet the distance and time tests if the move is due to a permanent change of station. A permanent change of station includes a move in connection with and within 1 year of retirement or other termination of active duty. In figuring your moving expenses, do not deduct any moving expenses for moving services that were provided by the military or that were reimbursed to you and that you did not include in income. However, you may deduct your unreimbursed moving expenses, subject to the dollar limits. If you and your spouse and dependents are moved to or from different locations, treat the moves as a single move.

Qualified Retirees or Survivors Living Outside the United States
If you are a retiree or survivor who moved to a U.S. home and you meet the requirements below, you are treated as if you moved to a new workplace located in the United States. You are subject to the distance test and other limitations explained on this form. Use this form instead of Form 3903F to claim your moving expenses.

Retirees.—You may deduct moving expenses for a move to a new home in the United States when you actually retire if both your old principal workplace and your new home are in the United States.

Survivors.—You may deduct moving expenses for a move to a new home in the United States if you are the spouse or dependent of a person whose principal workplace at the time of death was outside the United States. In addition, the expenses must be: (1) for a move that begins within 6 months after the decedent’s death; and (2) must be from a former home outside the United States that you lived in with the decedent at the time of death.

Moving Expenses in General
You may deduct most of the reasonable expenses you incur in moving your family and dependent household members. These include your costs to
Part I Instructions
We have provided specific instructions for most of the form. The lines that do not appear in these instructions are self-explanatory.

Section A. — Enter on line 4 the actual cost to pack, crate, move, store in transit, and insure your household goods and personal effects.

Section B. — Enter the costs of travel from your old home to your new home. These include transportation, meals, and lodging on the way. Include costs for the day you arrive. Show your meal expenses separately on line 6. You may only include expenses for one trip. However, not all the members of your household have to travel together or at the same time.

If you use your own car, you may figure the expenses in either of the following two ways:

- Actual out-of-pocket expenses for gas and oil (keep records to verify the amounts), or
- At the rate of 9 cents a mile (keep records to verify your mileage).

You may add parking fees and tolls to the amount claimed under either method.

Section C. — Include the costs of travel to look for a new home before you move and temporary quarters expenses after you move. Report pre-move househunting travel and lodging on line 9, temporary quarters expenses on line 10, and the combined cost of meals on line 11.

Pre-move househunting expenses are deductible only if:

- You took the trip after you got the job, and
- You returned to your old home after looking for a new one, and
- You traveled to the new work area primarily to look for a new home.

There is no limit on the number of househunting trips taken, and you do not have to be successful to qualify for this deduction. If you used your own car, figure transportation costs the same way as you did in Section B. If you are self-employed, you may deduct househunting costs only if you had already made substantial arrangements to begin work in the new location.

You may deduct the cost of meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters in the area of your new workplace. You may include the costs for any period of 30 days in a row after you get the job, but before you move into permanent quarters. If you are self-employed, you may count these expenses only if you had already made substantial arrangements to begin work in the new location.

Section D. — You may include most of the costs to sell or buy a home or to settle or get a lease. Examples of qualified real estate expenses you may include are:

- Sales commissions,
- Advertising costs,
- Attorney’s fees,
- Title and escrow fees,
- State transfer taxes, and
- Costs to settle an unexpired lease or to get a new lease.

Examples of expenses you may NOT include are:

- Costs to improve your home to help it sell,
- Charges for payment or prepayment of interest, and
- Payments or prepayments of rent.

Check the appropriate box, a or b, for lines 14 and 15 when you enter the amounts for these two lines.

Part II Instructions
The following dollar limits apply to the expenses shown in Part I:

Line 16. — Enter the total of your househunting and temporary quarters expenses (line 13). These expenses are limited to $1,500 (on line 17).

Line 18. — Enter the amount from line 17 plus your qualified real estate expenses (lines 14 and 15). This total is limited to $3,000 (on line 19).

There are some special situations:

- If both you and your spouse began work at new workplaces and shared the same new home at the end of 1990, you must treat this as one move rather than two. If you file separate returns, each of you is limited to a total of $750 on line 17, and to a total of $1,500 on line 19.
- If both you and your spouse began work at new workplaces but each of you moved to separate new homes, this is treated as two separate moves. If you file a joint return, line 17 is limited to a total of $3,000, and line 19 is limited to a total of $6,000. If you file separate returns, each of you is limited to a total of $1,500 on line 17, and a total of $3,000 on line 19.

Note: If you checked box a on line 14, any amount on line 14 that you cannot deduct because of the dollar limit should be used on Form 2119 to decrease the gain on the sale of your old home. If you checked box a on line 15, use any amount on line 15 that you cannot deduct because of the limit to increase the basis of your new home.
