Paperwork Reduction Act Notice

We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us this information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 2 hr., 5 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 7 min.; Preparing the form, 31 min.; and Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, 20 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form more simple, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to both the IRS and the Office of Management and Budget at the addresses listed in the Instructions for Form 1040.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 3903 to figure your moving expense deduction if you moved to a new principal place of work (workplace) within the United States or its possessions. If you qualify to deduct expenses for more than one move, use a separate Form 3903 for each move.

Note: Use Form 3903-F, Foreign Moving Expenses, instead of this form if you are a U.S. citizen or resident alien who moved to a new principal workplace outside the United States or its possessions.

Additional Information

For more details, get Pub. 521, Moving Expenses.

Who May Deduct Moving Expenses

If you moved to a different home because of a change in job location, you may be able to deduct your moving expenses. You may be able to take the deduction whether you are self-employed or an employee. But you must meet certain tests explained next.

Distance Test.—Your new principal workplace must be at least 35 miles farther from your old home than your old workplace was. For example, if your old workplace was 3 miles from your old home, your new workplace must be at least 38 miles from that home. If you did not have an old workplace, your new workplace must be at least 35 miles from your old home. The distance between the two points is the shortest of the more commonly traveled routes between them.

Time Test.—If you are an employee, you must work full time in the general area of your new workplace for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months right after you move. If you are self-employed, you must work full time in the general area of your new workplace for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months and a total of at least 78 weeks during the 24 months right after you move.

You may deduct your moving expenses for 1993 even if you have not met the time test before your 1993 return is due. You may do this if you expect to meet the 39-week test by the end of 1994 or the 78-week test by the end of 1995. If you deduct your moving expenses on your 1993 return but do not meet the time test, you will have to either:

- Amend your 1993 tax return by filing Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, or
- Report the amount of your 1993 moving expense deduction that reduced your 1993 income tax as income in the year you cannot meet the test. For more details, see Time Test in Pub. 521.

If you do not deduct your moving expenses on your 1993 return and you later meet the time test, you may take the deduction by filing an amended return for 1993. To do this, use Form 1040X.

Exceptions to the Time Test.—The time test does not have to be met in case of death. You do not have to meet the time test if any of the following apply:

- Your job ends because of disability.
- You are transferred for your employer’s benefit.
- You are laid off or discharged for a reason other than willful misconduct.
- You meet the requirements (explained later) for retirees or survivors living outside the United States.

Members of the Armed Forces

If you are in the armed forces, you do not have to meet the distance and time tests if the move is due to a permanent change of station. A permanent change of station includes a move in connection with and within 1 year of retirement or other termination of active duty.

Note: If the total reimbursements and allowances you received from the government in connection with the move are more than your actual moving expenses, include the excess in income on Form 1040, line 7. Do not complete Form 3903.

How To Complete Form 3903.—If your total reimbursements and allowances are less than your actual moving expenses, first complete Part I of Form 3903 using your actual expenses. Do not reduce your expenses by any reimbursements or allowances you received from the government in connection with the move. Also, do not include any expenses for moving services that were provided by the government. If you and your spouse and dependents are moved to or from different locations, treat the moves as a single move.

Next, complete lines 16 through 18 of Form 3903. Then, read the instructions for line 19 on the next page to figure your moving expense deduction.

Qualified Retirees or Survivors Living Outside the United States

If you are a retiree or survivor who moved to a home in the United States or its possessions and you meet the requirements below, you are treated as if you moved to a new workplace located in the United States. You are subject to the distance test and other limitations explained on Form 3903. Use this form instead of Form 3903-F to figure your moving expense deduction.

Retirees.—You may deduct moving expenses for a move to a new home in the United States when you actually retire if both your old principal workplace and your old home were outside the United States.

Survivors.—You may deduct moving expenses for a move to a home in the United States if you are the spouse or dependent of a person whose principal workplace at the time of death was outside the United States. In addition, the expenses must be for a move (1) that begins within 6 months after the decedent’s death, and (2) from a former home outside the United States that you lived in with the decedent at the time of death.

Deductible Moving Expenses

You may deduct most of the reasonable expenses you incur in moving your family and dependent household members. These include the following:

- Costs to move to the new location (Part I, Sections A and B).
- Pre-move househunting expenses and temporary quarters once you arrive in the new location (Section C).
- Certain qualified real estate expenses (Section D).

You may not deduct expenses of a loss on the sale of your home, mortgage penalties, refitting draperies and carpets, or canceling club memberships. Do not deduct expenses for employees such as a servant, governess, or nurse.

Reimbursements
You must include in gross income as compensation for services any reimbursement of, or payment for, moving expenses. If your employer paid for any part of your move, you must report that amount as income on Form 1040, line 7.
Your employer should include the amount paid in your total income on Form W-2.
However, if you are not sure that the reimbursements have been included on your Form W-2, check with your employer.
Your employer may give you a statement showing a detailed breakdown of reimbursements or payments for moving expenses. Your employer may use Form 4782, Employee Moving Expense Information, or his or her own form.

You may choose to deduct moving expenses in the year you are reimbursed by your employer, even though you paid for the moving expenses in a different year. However, special rules apply. See How To Report in Pub. 521.

Meal Expenses
Only 80% of your meal expenses are deductible. This limit is figured on lines 7 and 12.

No Double Benefits
You may not take double benefits. For example, you may not use the moving expenses on line 14 that are part of your moving expense deduction to lower the amount of gain on the sale of your old home. In addition, you may not use the moving expenses on line 15 that are part of your moving expense deduction to add to the basis of your new home. Use Form 2119, Sale of Your Home, to figure the gain, if any, you must report on the sale of your old home and the adjusted basis of the new one.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Moving Expenses

Line 4.—Enter the actual cost to pack, crate, and move your household goods and personal effects. You may also include the cost to store and insure household goods and personal effects within any period of 30 days in a row after the items were moved from your old home and before they were delivered to your new home.

Lines 5 and 6.—Enter the costs of travel from your old home to your new home.

These include transportation, meals, and lodging on the way. Include costs for the day you arrive. Report the cost of transportation and lodging on line 5. Report your meal expenses separately on line 6. Although not all the members of your household have to travel together or at the same time, you may only include expenses for one trip per person.

If you use your own car(s), you may figure the expenses by using either:
- Actual out-of-pocket expenses for gas and oil, or
- Mileage at the rate of 9 cents a mile.

You may add parking fees and tolls to the amount claimed under either method. Keep records to verify your expenses.

Lines 9 through 11.—Enter the costs of travel to look for a new home before you move and temporary quarters expenses after you move. Report pre-move househunting travel and lodging on line 9, temporary quarters expenses on line 10, and the combined cost of meals on line 11.

Pre-move househunting expenses are deductible only if you:
- Took the trip after you got the job, and
- Returned to your old home after looking for a new one, and
- Traveled to the new work area primarily to look for a new home.

There is no limit on the number of househunting trips you may take and you do not have to be successful in finding a home to qualify for this deduction. If you used your own car, figure transportation costs as explained in the instructions for lines 5 and 6. If you are self-employed, you may deduct househunting costs only if you had already made substantial arrangements to begin work in the new location. See Pub. 521 for factors used to determine if substantial arrangements were made.

You may deduct the cost of meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters in the area of your new workplace. Include the costs for any period of 30 days in a row after you get the job, but before you move into permanent quarters. If you are self-employed, you may count these expenses only if you had already made substantial arrangements to begin work in the new location.

Lines 14 and 15.—Enter your qualified real estate expenses. Also, check the appropriate box, A or B. You may include most of the costs to sell or buy a home or to settle or get a lease. Examples of expenses you may include are:
- Sales commissions.
- Advertising costs.
- Attorney’s fees.
- Title and escrow fees.
- State transfer taxes.
- Costs to settle an unexpired lease such as attorney’s fees, real estate commissions, or amounts paid to the lessor.
- Fees or commissions to get a lease, sublease, or an assignment of a lease.

Examples of expenses you may not include are:
- Costs to improve your home to help it sell.
- Charges for payment or prepayment of interest.
- Payments or prepayments of rent (including security deposits) to get a new lease.

Part II—Dollar Limits and Moving Expense Deductions

Lines 16 and 18.—The dollar limits on these lines apply to the total expenses per move even though you may claim expenses related to the same move in more than 1 year. For more details, see How To Report in Pub. 521.

If both you and your spouse began work at new workplaces and shared the same new home at the end of 1993, you must treat this as one move rather than two. If you file separate returns, each of you is limited to a total of $750 on line 16, and to a total of $1,500 on line 18.

If both you and your spouse began work at new workplaces but each of you moved to separate homes, this is treated as two separate moves. If you file a joint return, line 16 is limited to a total of $3,000, and line 18 is limited to a total of $6,000. If you file separate returns, each of you is limited to a total of $1,500 on line 16, and a total of $3,000 on line 18.

Note: If you checked box a on line 14, any amount on line 14 that you cannot deduct because of the dollar limit should be used on Form 2119 to decrease the gain on the sale of your old home. If you checked box a on line 15, use any amount on line 15 that you cannot deduct because of the dollar limit to increase the basis of your new home.

Line 19.—If you are a member of the armed forces, add the amounts on lines 4, 8, and 18. From that total, subtract the total reimbursements and allowances you received from the government in connection with the move. If the result is more than zero, enter the result on line 19 and on Schedule A, line 18.
