

Publication 6961

Calendar Year Projections of Information and Withholding Documents for the United States and IRS Campuses

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publication 6961 provides U.S.-level calendar year projections of information and withholding documents (IRP). This annual report also includes breakouts by filing methods.

Top 5 Projections of the Number of Nonpaper Information and Withholding Documents To Be Filed, Calendar Years 2017–2026

[Numbers are in thousands]

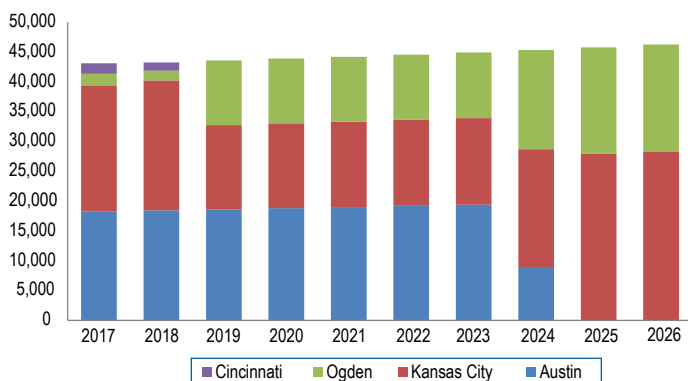

NOTE: Numbers of documents for CY 2017 are actual filings. All numbers are based on Table 4 from the full report.

SOURCE: IRS, Statistics of Income Division, Publication 6961, August 2018.

Campus-level Projections of Information and Withholding Documents To Be Filed on Paper, Calendar Years 2017–2026

[Numbers are in thousands]

NOTE: Numbers of documents for CY 2017 are actual filings. All numbers are based on Tables 5A–5D from the full report.

SOURCE: IRS, Statistics of Income Division, Publication 6961, August 2018.

Significant Highlights From This Update of Publication 6961

- Of the 35 nonpaper information and withholding documents filed for Calendar Year 2017, the top 5 accounted for 84.8 percent of the total nonpaper documents filed.
- The grand total number of information and withholding documents filed in Calendar Year 2017 was 3.6 billion. After CY 2017, the grand total is projected to grow at an average annual rate of 4.5 percent, reaching 5.3 billion documents by CY 2026.
- The grand total number of paper information and withholding documents filed in Calendar Year 2017 was 43.1 million; it is projected to increase to 46.3 million documents by CY 2026.
- The grand total number of information and withholding documents filed electronically was 3.5 billion in Calendar Year 2017. After CY 2017, the grand total filed electronically is projected to grow at an average annual rate of 4.6 percent, reaching 5.2 billion documents by CY 2026.
- The grand total number of paper filings for the Austin campus in Calendar Year 2017 was 18.3 million documents, or about 42.4 percent of all paper filings. The corresponding number for the Cincinnati campus was 1.8 million documents, or about 4.1 percent of all paper filings.

