Issue and Transaction Overview

French Foreign Tax Credits

NOTE: This Practice Unit is updated to reflect a change in IRS' position. The IRS is no longer challenging the creditability of the French Contribution Sociale Generalisee (CSG) and Contribution au Remboursement de la Dette Societe (CRDS) for the U.S. Foreign Tax Credit (FTC). This change is based on a shared understanding, memorialized in diplomatic communications in 2019 between the U.S. and France that the CSG and CRDS are not covered by the U.S.-France Totalization Agreement. The IRS historically had taken the position that the CSG and CRDS were covered by that agreement and therefore not creditable under an off-Code provision in the Social Security Act of 1977.

- U.S. persons living and working in France may be claiming the FTC derived from taxes paid to France. The issue generally pertains to the creditability of certain French foreign taxes paid, particularly the two social welfare taxes, CSG and CRDS which are borne by individuals employed in France. All natural persons domiciled in France for income tax assessment purposes are liable to pay CSG and CRDS. The taxes are assessed on items such as wages, substitute income, professional fees, statutory family benefits, and investment income.
- As mentioned in the above note, the IRS no longer maintains that the CSG and CRDS are ineligible for a foreign tax credit under IRC 901.
- This practice unit will discuss how to identify any issue related to the FTC and the tax documents to request to substantiate creditable French taxes.
- This unit will also touch on two other subjects that have been identified as issues encountered when examining claimed FTC involving France. The first issue pertains to the French tax return on which only net wages are reported. This practice unit describes the documents to request to confirm that the proper amounts are reported for U.S. income tax purposes. The second issue addressed involves filing status whereby a taxpayer may file a joint return in France and a married filing separate return in the U.S. This unit outlines the allocation of income earned in France to the individual filing the U.S. return.

Transaction and Fact Pattern

French Foreign Tax Credits

Facts

- The taxpayer is a U.S. citizen or permanent resident (green card holder), but is considered a full-time resident of France.
- The taxpayer provides a copy of the French income tax return. However, the taxpayer erroneously reports a net income amount on the U.S. tax return because only the net income is reported and taxed in France. Typically, if there are tax withholdings such as the CSG or the CRDS, only the net amount after these tax withholding reductions from the gross income is reported on a French income tax return.
- If the taxpayer claims the FTC by electing the accrued method, the taxpayer must generally use the average exchange rate for currency conversion.
- Sometimes taxpayers have filed a Joint Tax Return in France, but claimed a different filing status for U.S. tax purposes, such as married filing separate. In the case where both parties to the jointly filed tax return in France had income, an allocation in proportion to each party's portion of the combined income is necessary in order to derive the income tax paid relevant to the U.S. filer's income.

Issue 1

Explanation of Adjustment	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Typically taxes withheld on wages and social taxes such as the CSG/CRDS taxes on wages are shown on the taxpayer's "Bulletin de Paie" (Earnings Statement). Review the Bulletin de Paie and analyze any withholding taxes for creditability. If the taxpayer incorrectly claims any French taxes that are not eligible for the FTC, then an adjustment should be made to reduce the FTC accordingly.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>"Bulletin de Paie" (Earnings Statement)</li></ul>

Issue 2, Step 2: Review Potential Issues

French Foreign Tax Credits

Issue 2

Did the taxpayer report the correct amount of income on the Form 1040?

Explanation of Issue	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Examiners addressing the French FTC issue have noted that on the French income tax return “Avis D’Impot Sur Le Revenue” only the taxpayer’s net salary is reported. In a number of cases, examiners have found that taxpayers have used this document to support the amount of wages reported on the Form 1040. However, this is only the net amount of wages (after withholdings for income, social security and other taxes) and therefore the incorrect amount to report as wages for U.S. tax purposes.</li></ul>

Issue 2, Step 3: Additional Factual Development

Issue 2

Fact Element	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>▪ The examiner should request a copy of the “Bulletin de Paie” which is similar to an Earnings and Leave Statement. Request the statement that covers the year end. From this statement the examiner can find the gross pay or “salarie brut” for the year or “annee.” This is the amount that the taxpayer should convert to U.S. dollars and report on their U.S. tax return as wages.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>▪ “Bulletin de Paie” (Earnings Statement)</li></ul>
 CAUTION: It has been noted that in some circumstances taxpayers claiming FTC from France received Form W-2 which was incorrect as it erroneously reported net income and not gross income in Box 1. Therefore, it is recommended that in addition to Form W-2, the examiner request a copy of the Earnings & Leave Statement or similar earnings documents to ensure that the correct amount of income is reported for U.S. Tax Purposes.

Explanation of Adjustment	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>▪ If warranted, an adjustment should be made to correct the income reported for U.S. tax purposes from the net amount of wages reported on the French income tax return (Avis D'Impot Sur Le Revenue) to the gross pay or "salarie brut" amount reported on the year end statement of earnings, the "Bulletin de Paie".</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>▪ "Avis D'Impot Sur Le Revenue" (French Income Tax Return)</li><li>▪ "Bulletin de Paie" (Earnings Statement)</li></ul>

Issue 3, Step 2: Review Potential Issues

Issue 3

If the taxpayer filed a joint return in France and a married filing separately return in the U.S., did they properly allocate foreign income taxes?

Explanation of Issue	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>It has been noted that in certain circumstances taxpayers have filed a Joint Tax Return in France, but claimed a different filing status for U.S. tax purposes. In the case where both parties to the jointly filed tax return in France had income, an allocation in proportion to each party's portion of the combined income is necessary in order to derive the income tax paid relevant to the U.S. filer's income.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Treas. ### Issue 3

Explanation of Adjustment	Resources
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ The French Income Tax Return includes a schedule referred to as the “Detail de Revenu” which denotes the income earned by each party to the return providing for the necessary information to calculate the allocation.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ “Detail de Revenu” (Schedule to French Income Tax Return)</li> </ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ Example: A U.S. Citizen files a joint tax return in France with their non-resident spouse. In the U.S., the U.S. Citizen files claims married filing separately status, files Form 1116 and is on the accrual method of accounting for FTC. On the French income tax return, the U.S. Citizen’s net salary is €100,000 and the non-resident spouse’s net salary is €50,000. They report foreign income taxes paid of €33,000 (verified in the following year). It is necessary to allocate the French income taxes paid to arrive at the proper amount relative to the U.S. Citizen’s income:               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– <math>(\text{U.S. Citizens' Income} / \text{Total Income}) \times \text{French Income Tax} = \text{Income tax allocated to U.S. Citizen.}</math></li> <li>– <math>(€100,000 / €150,000) \times €33,000 = €22,000</math></li> <li>– The U.S. Citizen would convert the Euros to U.S. Dollars using the average exchange rate for the year. This amount can be claimed as foreign taxes paid or accrued on Form 1116, Line 8.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ IRC 986(a)(1)(A) – (B)</li> <li>▪ Form 1116</li> </ul>
