

T. Keith Fogg is a Professor of Law and the director of the Federal Tax Clinic at Villanova Law School. He joined the faculty at Villanova Law School in 2007 after retiring from the Office of Chief Counsel, IRS. In 2007 he was selected as the attorney of the year for the Office of Chief Counsel, IRS. He currently serves as the Chairman, Low Income Taxpayers Committee of the Tax Section of the American Bar Association. He is the editor of the 5th Edition of "Effectively Representing Your Client before the IRS." His scholarship focuses on issues concerning tax procedure with particular emphasis on federal tax collection and bankruptcy.