Dear :

This letter responds to your letter dated December 16, 2005, which requests rulings under §§ 351 and 367 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), with respect to a series of proposed transactions (the "Proposed Transaction"). SUMMARY OF THE FACTS

FSub5, a Country A exempt company, elected under Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3 to be disregarded as a separate entity for federal tax purposes. FSub4 is the sole shareholder of FSub5. FSub5 currently conducts Business Y in Country B through Branch (the “Branch Business”).

FSub6 will be incorporated as a Country B corporation to facilitate the Proposed Transaction. FSub6 will be a corporation within the meaning of § 7701(a)(3) and a CFC. FSub4 will own all of the outstanding stock of FSub6.

FSub8, a Country C corporation, is a corporation within the meaning of § 7701(a)(3) and a CFC. Parent indirectly owns all of the outstanding shares of FSub8 through its domestic and foreign subsidiaries.

PROPOSED TRANSACTION

Parent has determined that it is necessary to operate the Branch Business as a Country B corporation. To effectuate the conversion, Parent proposes the following series of transactions:

- (i) In Month Z, FSub4 transferred approximately a Country B Currency to FSub7 in exchange for additional common shares of FSub7. This cash enabled FSub7 to begin the process of obtaining the required licenses in Country B to conduct the Branch Business.
- (ii) Parent or FSub8 will loan b Country B Currency to FSub4 on a short term basis.
- (iii) FSub4 will transfer b Country B Currency to FSub7 in exchange for c shares (100 percent) of a newly issued class of FSub7 voting preferred stock. FSub7 will incur a capital duty tax in Country B in an amount equal to a percentage of b. The FSub7 voting preferred stock will have d percent or less of the voting rights on general corporate matters, and the right to appoint e out of the initial f directors expected to serve on the FSub7 board of directors. Although FSub7 preferred stock will not be convertible into common shares, the preferred shareholders will be entitled to a dividend whenever a dividend on the common shares is declared. The preferred dividend will be calculated as if each share of the preferred stock had been converted into g (a fraction) of a share of common stock (i.e., each preferred share will receive a dividend equal to g (a fraction) the dividend paid on each common share). Upon a liquidation of FSub7, the preferred stock will be entitled to a liquidation preference equal to b Country B Currency.
- (iv) FSub5 will transfer the Branch Business assets (the "Branch Business Assets") to FSub7 in exchange for b Country B Currency. FSub5 will retain some of the cash and marketable assets of the Branch.
- (v) FSub5 will make a distribution of its net cash and marketable assets to FSub4. FSub5 will remain in existence as a legal entity but continue to be disregarded as a separate entity for federal tax purposes.
- (vi) FSub4 will pay off its loan from Parent or FSub8.
- (vii) FSub4 will transfer 100 percent of the FSub7 voting preferred stock to FSub6 solely in exchange for additional common shares of FSub6. FSub6 will not assume any liabilities in connection with the exchange. FSub6 will incur a capital duty tax in Country B in an amount equal to a percentage of b.
