Important message about your [REDACTED] tax return

You may need to file an amended [REDACTED] Form [REDACTED]

The income and payment information we have on file from sources such as employers or financial institutions does not match the information you reported on your [REDACTED] Form [REDACTED]

What you need to do immediately

Review this notice and compare what you listed on your [REDACTED] tax return to the amounts reported to the IRS by others.

If you agree with the information reported by other sources

- Complete an Amended U.S. Income Tax Return ([REDACTED]) as soon as possible. Download Form 1040X and Instructions for Form 1040X from www.irs.gov, or call 1-[REDACTED] to request a copy.
- Send your completed 1040X to the same IRS address where you mailed your tax return. If you e-filed your tax return, you must mail a paper amended return. To find the correct mailing address, refer to the Instructions for Form 1040X.

If you don't agree with the information reported by other sources

- You don't need to respond to this notice.
- If you think your return is correct and there's a mistake in the information we received from other sources (employers, financial institutions, etc.), contact the sources directly to ask them to correct their records, as necessary.

Next Steps

- You should either file an amended return, or ask the other sources to correct their records.
- If you don't file an amended tax return or ask the other sources to correct their records, the errors will remain in your file, and you may continue to have similar reporting problems next year.

Differences between your [REDACTED] Form [REDACTED] and information from other sources

This section tells you specifically what income information the IRS received about you from others (including your employers, banks, mortgage holders, etc.). This information doesn't match the information you reported on your tax return.

Use the table to review the data the IRS received from others and compare it to the information you reported on your tax return to understand where the difference(s) occurred.
